G. E. EMPLOYEES PARADE.

Form a Procession Two Miles Long to Boost Bond Sales.

When Vice President Emmons, of the General Electric company, announced to the employees Thursday afternoon that up to that date their subscriptions had reached $1,000,000, they became wild with enthusiasm and immediately turned out in a parade, forming a line two and a half miles long and having in it over 1,000 persons. "It was one of the strangest pageants ever seen and was a wonderful exhibition of patriotism. Men and women marched in their working clothes, carrying flags and placards announcing the success of the liberty loan in various departments, hurrying defiance at the kaiser and expressing loyalty to the government," said a witness. "Bands, drum corps and noise-makers of all kinds were hurriedly marshalled by the workers in their wild celebration," he continued. After the parade the employees resumer their contributions and soon carried them "over the top," ending with a total of $1,466,500.

MAY CLOSE THE MILLS.

Fuel Shortage at Knitting Mills Becomes Serious.

Unless coal is received at the Wayne Knitting mills this week, the plant will have to suspend operations until a supply of fuel has been received. This is the situation as stated by Fred J. Thieme, superintendent of the mills, last night. "The coal situation is serious with us and we have no more than enough on hand to run us during the rest of the week," Mr. Thieme said. The plant consumes for power purposes three car loads a week and the cold weather increases the demand considerably. It would be a serious loss to the laboring people of the city to suspend operations at the mills even for a few days, for there are over 2,500 men and women who would be out of work during the suspension. Some of the other industries are also well supplied with coal as usual, but none so far as could be learned, are threatened with suspension in the near future on account of it.

DOING BEST POSSIBLE FOR INDIANA PEOPLE

Fuel Director Woollen is Sure No Effort is Being Spared.

Indianapolis, Oct. 31.—Domestic coal consumption in Indiana is normally six million tons annually. To date only about 2,200,000 tons have been distributed in the state, leaving an apparent shortage for distribution among households of the state of 3,800,000 tons. These figures are from a statement made today to the Indiana state council of defense by Evans Woollen, Indiana fuel administrator. Mr. Woollen added that "the Indiana situation is receiving the very best attention from the highest officials of the Pennsylvania railroad, who are in the coal field in person, directing operations."

Mr. Woollen and his advisory committee met prior to the meeting of the state council of defense, he said, and considered a "tentative program based upon the experience of the past ten days." He said a survey is being made by competent people. Practically no coal from other states is now coming into Indiana, which ordinarily received 40 per cent of its supply from out-state sources. He said jobbers had reported that they have had practically no coal for distribution for three months.

The production of coal at Indiana mines has increased 10 per cent over last year. Mr. Woollen stated, which would indicate that the fuel shortage is not due to a shortage of production as from a disproportionately increased consumption. In connection with Mr. Woollen's statement, H. R. Kurrie, president of the Monon railway and a member of the fuel directors' advisory committee, stated that his road is not carrying as much coal as it has capacity for the reason that the mines are not producing it. He said the consumption of coal on the railroads has increased 20 per cent over last year and that industries now working day and night are consuming far more than that proportion of increase.

NO CHANCE FOR THE LADIES ON TICKETS

Names of Women Must Be Removed from All Municipal Lists.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—Attorney General Elie Stansbury yesterday handed an opinion to L. W. Henley, secretary of the republican state committee, which answered inquiries that have been coming in to the attorney general's office and to the state committee's office wanting to know what was to be done about the tickets on which women's names appeared. The answer is simple enough. They have to get off. They can not vote, so they can not hold office—except on a school board, or township or county committees will have to put up a male name to the board election and 1917 has to replace the woman's name. The opinion follows in part:

"The supreme court of Indiana has said in the case of state vs. Goldthrift: 'There is no constitutional or inherent right to hold office, or in citizens to vote, or in the polls, or in the election, and the conditions of such office holding and of voting must be complied with.'

"There is no provision of law authorizing a woman to hold a municipal office, such as clerk, treasurer, city councilman or trustee of a town. The partial suffrage act of 1917 has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. While the case involves only the voters of Marion county directly, it laid down a rule that will be binding upon any court of Indiana, in any context where the officers were elected and whose majority depended upon the votes of women."

NO ATTEMPT BY GERMANS TO GET BACK LOST SOIL

London, Oct. 31.—The Germans made no attempt during the night to regain the ground won yesterday by the British on the Ypres front. "The German artillery developed some activity during the night on the battle front against the positions captured yesterday," says today's report from Field Marshal Haig, "but no counter attacks occurred. There was nothing of special interest on the remainder of the front."

FEAR COLOGNE CATHEDRAL MAY YET BE BOMBED

Amsterdam, Oct. 31.—The stained glass windows of the Cologne cathedral, according to German newspapers, are being replaced with plain glass as a precaution in case of air raids.

The Cologne cathedral is one of the most magnificent Gothic edifices in the world. Some of its stained glass windows date from 1508 but most of them are modern. The older windows are among the finest examples of early sixteenth century art.

OVERLAND BOWLERS FULLY ORGANIZED

Expect to Smash Some Records Before the End of the Season.

In completing the organization and election of officers of the new Overland bowling league Tuesday evening an important factor in the winter's sport is established at the Academy alleys in the Overland building. The teams are composed as follows:

Swissmen—Art Niebergall, Chas. B. Bowen, Fred Gaskins, Fred Eckart, Gates Horton and Geo. Jacobs, Jr.

Service—Roy Baxter, Chas. Lee, Wm. Schieferstein, Jack Dalley, Karl Koepfner and Robert Lallow.

Paris—Geo. Mettert, James Leddy, Bert Graves, Wm. Niebergall, C. F. Cook and Scheller.

Clerical—Floyd Wood, Geo. Overdear, Ed Mehan, Belle Overdear, Estella Ambler and Chas. Parham.

The officers of the new league are as follows: President, Art Niebergall; vice president, C. B. Bowen; treasurer, Belle Overdear; secretary, Estella Ambler. Fin judges are Wm. Black, and official score keepers are Wm. Smith and Joe Staub.

With this phalanx the Overland crowd expect to rip some records wide open during the coming season. With an enthusiastic audience of rooters to stimulate their effort the team of boys of the league tipped the pins to some very creditable scores Tuesday evening. These rollers, although having made their debut but three weeks ago, have shown more pep than some of the subalterns who have been rolling for years, and it is fit to say right here that not least of its supporters are the two members of the fair sex who belong to the clerical team. From President Fred Gaskins and Treasurer Fred Eckart, of the Overland company, on down the ranks this well known business organization is represented in the teams.

President Gaskins and Mr. Eckart are taking up the sport with much avidity, not merely as an exhilarating pastime but as an effective reducer of averduous. If anybody had an idea that Fred Eckart's chief delight was to slice off coupons and smoke big black cigars ought to come up to the bowling lanes and see him calmly roll the ball down and knock ten of them over without batting an eyelash.

Charlie Bowen is standing him a good second, looks the same, bowls the same, is built on the same graceful line. The only difference one can see is that Charlie has learned less skill in the art of drawing dividends. But he expects to learn. The high man on the teams with individual averages is Floyd Wood with an average of 158, with Art Niebergall a close second with 148, and Bert Graves third with 144. At the present time the sales team is leading, having won eight games out of nine, and the balance of the teams as follows:

Standing of the Overland teams Oct. 30:

Sales.....	8	1	.888
Service.....	6	3	.666

AT THE MAJESTIC

Sarah Bernhardt.

Sarah Bernhardt, who comes to the Majestic theater on Nov. 7, Wednesday evening, is more than a woman of talent. She is more than a genius; she is a world-famed personality. In foreign lands she has won plaudits for the masterpieces of French literature, and has won affection for the gentle French speech.

She begins her tenth triumphal tour to America—a veritable ambassador of French letters. She has the prestige of exoticism, which has brought to all nations—to all peoples—the greatest French names, ancient and modern. Her life has indeed been the incarnation of French art in all its forms. Has any other French woman, or French man, done as much, in this way, for France as Sarah Bernhardt? It is well indeed that France haile her as the great French patriot, whose fame is immortal as artist and woman.

Mme. Bernhardt will be supported here by her company from her own theater in Paris, including Jean Angelo, her leading man. At each performance the following artists will also appear: Jean Cooper, contralto; Annie Louise David, harpist; Jean Duval & Co. in "Gems of Art," Albert Donnelly, shaver; Florence Henderson, violinist; Rome Fenton, tenor.

Mme. Bernhardt will be seen here in scenes from among her greatest triumphs, "Merchant of Venice," as Cleopatra. Mail orders are now being received and filled in order of receipt.

SAW TROOPS IN FRONT LINE TRENCHES

Dr. Rice, Who Speaks Friday, Has Interesting Story.

A representative company of Fort Wayne men will listen on Friday evening to a thrilling address by Dr. Merston S. Rice, the widely-known Detroit minister, who will tell of conditions "over there." Dr. Rice was sent to Europe as representative of the International Y. M. C. A. and from his position as an investigator, acting under the authority of this organization of world-wide interest, he was able to go into the front-line trenches and everywhere that his duties and inclinations directed. Dr. Rice will be one of the speakers at the informal banquet at the Anthony on Friday evening of this week. A second speaker in the person of David W. Teachout, of Cleveland, will prove of special interest as an example of real service in times of war. It appears that Mr. Teachout and his father, who are engaged in business in Cleveland under the name of the Teachout Lumber company, are devoted to the giving of themselves and their means to the furthering of democracy's war. Fort Wayne people have learned that in addition to contributing liberally of their means on all occasions, the father and son have combined to give of their own personal service as far as their ability enables them to do. In conversation one day, the son said to the father that he desired to devote his time to some worthy branch of the service.

"For instance?" inquired the father.

"The Y. M. C. A. furnishes the field in which I believe I can do the most good," replied the son. "But this will throw the burden of the business upon your shoulders, and I feel it is more than you ought to assume."

The father replied that if the son were willing to place himself at the service of the Y. M. C. A. he would be glad to assume the burdens of the business and so the arrangement was made. The younger Teachout has been serving as the general secretary of the work at Camp Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis. The Teachouts have given several thousand dollars to the Y. M. C. A. work in connection with the war service.

The invitations to Friday evening's events have been issued by a committee composed of E. F. Yarnelle, S. M. Foster, S. F. Bowser, Henry C. Paul, J. M. Barrett, Dr. M. F. Porter, E. G. Hoffman, F. S. DUDLO MEN BUY LOTS IN COUNTRY CLUB GARDENS.

Country Club Gardens seem to occupy the center of interest among the men who are connected with the Dudlo Manufacturing company. Frank Greer, 312 West Williams street, is one of several Dudlo men who have just bought in the Gardens with the intention of building in the spring. The sale was made by Frank W. Smiley for the City & Suburban Building company. Country Club Gardens are rapidly growing into a community of people with a common interest. The prices are reasonable and the terms are easy, and no doubt the few lots now remaining will soon be taken.

SAVES 3,000 LOAVES OF WHEAT BREAD

Restaurants Join in Effort to Keep Great Food Trust.

Enough wheat to make 3,000 loaves of bread was saved by Fort Wayne, Wednesday, in the city's first effort to observe the wheatless day order of Food Administrator Hoover.

Reports from bakers of the city, not including several small concerns, shows that 3,000 less loaves of wheat bread were put on the market on Wednesday. Graham and rye breads made up the principal substitutions. Many restaurants joined in the wheatless day effort and ordered no wheat bread from their bakers. Corn bread, rye and graham breads and corn wafers were the bread diets for those who ate in many restaurants and cafeterias Wednesday noon.

There was not a baker but what reported that the wheatless day call had made a difference in their baking program. Those who deal only through grocers to the housewives state that they cut their wheat bread allotment in two on Tuesday night as they had been notified that Fort Wayne women were going to try the wheatless program.

Liberty Bands Take Stage as Modern Vigilantes to Strike Terror.

MAKING EXAMPLE OF A PACIFIST LEADER

Recalls Old Days of the Southern Ku Klux and Molly Maguires.

Special Dispatch From Our Washington Bureau.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Now the Liberty Bands have taken their place on the American war stage. Out of the west has come the memory of the old vigilantes, and from the south the spirit of the Ku-Klux-Klan, to join in Kentucky in inspiring the first of a new organization of night riders to apply the American system of emergency justice to emergencies of the war.

The first Liberty Band outbreak was the capture and chastisement of Herbert S. Bigelow, well known Ohio

pacifist, by a Kentucky motor crew following night rider methods on a six-cylinder basis. No one here is willing to stake his reputation as a prophet on the assertion that it will be the last Liberty Band outbreak.

On this new organization—the Liberty Bands—which seems to have substituted itself an extra-legal constabulary for the purpose of keeping pacifism within bonds, official Washington has no opinion.

But without approving the Liberty Band, official Washington is forced to recognize their existence, and to face the possibility that their methods will spread.

These citizens' posses, it is pointed out, have sprung up during every national crisis, and governmental process has never sufficed satisfactorily to control them.

The first American vigilance committees, parents of the long line of similar organizations, were creatures of the revolutionary period. They were formed in many communities to enforce non-importation agreements and to ferret out traitors.

Most notable were the Vigilantes, in California in 1848 and 1849, when legal government did not keep pace with the influx of thousands of gold-seekers. Vigilantes were common in many frontier communities until official law was able to enforce it.

In the southern states prior to the civil war, vigilance committees sometimes enforced the will of the community against abolitionists, or others suspected of disloyalty to the south, and to prevent the circulation of abolition literature.

After the civil war the Ku-Klux-Klan terrorized almost the entire south from 1866 to 1872, visiting its wrath on aspiring negroes and "carpet-bag" politicians from the north. It was the south's weapon to nullify the emancipation of the negro, and keep the political control in the hands of the whites. Its warnings, couched in awe-some phrases and marked by strange hieroglyphics, struck terror to negro politicians and to northern organizers.

Among the sectional organizations of vigilantes one of the most unique was that of the Molly Maguires, which fomented strife in Pennsylvania in the seventies and eighties of the last century. The Molly Maguires were composed of miners and others whom they admitted as sympathizers. Originally confining their activities to hazing and cowing strike-breakers and others who disrupted the mining conditions the employees were working for, the society finally degenerated into a band for paying off private grudges with thugery and murder, and was broken up by the United States government.

The Kentucky Night Riders, who even within the past decade have galloped over the hills and valleys through which Bigelow was spirited by his motor caravan escort, were the latest outbreak of vigilante justice prior to the Liberty Bands. They were bands of tobacco growers, dissatisfied with the purchasers' pooling arrangements, which, they felt, deprived them of a fair return for their crops. They patrolled the countryside, burning crops, destroying barns and warehouses, frightening and punishing those who did not join in their program.

Medicines That Aid Nature Most Effectual. As a general rule the medicines that aid nature are most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. When you have need of such a medicine give it a trial. You will never regret it.—Advertisement.

The classic dance by Miss Grace Romary will be one of the prettiest solo numbers of the entire program, and the appearance of Miss M. Postel and Miss Lorena Travers will prove a delight to all. Among the special group dances, under the direction of Miss Romary, is that of thirty-five prettily costumed young girls, whose names follow: Charlotte Alter, Lillian Haus, Marie Gerke, Ruth Ek, Ruth Walsh, Doris Walsh, Hazel Wallace, Hazel Killen, Ruth Wiebel, Helen Gaskins, Alice Flick, Dorothy Bowman, Sylvia Berman, Velma Sessler, Ruth Lankenau, Peg Britton, Hil-da Balsiger, Clara Riegel, Helen Christen, Margaret Condon, Angela Centivire, May O'Dowd, Virginia Dehl, Virginia Fox, Conna Baker, Helen Griebel, May Heiser, Grace Keenan, Mildred Leldolph, Marie Limecooly, Ada Scherer, Alice Tigges, Leah Buhler, Nellie Eggenman, Josephine Hines, Irene Kalbach, Helen Long, Fay Meyer, Lois Schoenbein, Ruth Wagner, Mazell Berning and Catherine Clippinger.

BRITISH AIRMEN IN BIG BOMBING RAID

Explosives Dropped on German Positions, Says Report.

London, Oct. 30.—The British war office tonight issued the following statement on aviation activities:

"Yesterday there were a few intervals during which our airplanes fired several rounds from their machine guns at the enemy troops in the trenches and on the roads. More than 100 bombs were dropped on hostile billets at Roulers and elsewhere during today and again at night. In air fighting, four hostile machines were driven down and one was driven down out of commission. Two of our machines are missing.

"Last night our machines again attacked the railway station and lines around Saarbrücken (Rhenish Prussia) northeast of Metz (Germany). The bombs were seen to burst with good effect. All our machines returned, though on the weather. Those were exceptionally bad. This morning at 11 o'clock twelve of our machines went further afield and attacked the munition works and gas works at Pirmasens, twenty miles beyond Saarbrücken.

"Bombs were seen to burst on factories and the gas works with excellent results. Many photographs were taken and the weather was good. All our machines returned safely."

AROUND THE TOWN WITH HOSEY—A 4.

As we view the matter, it is of no great importance or consequence who advised Candidate Cutshall four years ago to apply to Mayor-Elect Hosey for reappointment to the office of comptroller. We again repeat that Mr. Cutshall had entire right to do that.

The point at this time is that what Mr. Cutshall then thought and said of Mayor Hosey was contrary to everything he thinks and says now of Mayor Hosey. He then regarded Mayor Hosey as the foremost exemplar of municipal government and city progress and public spirit in Fort Wayne. He then wanted to attach himself to Mayor Hosey's administration, convinced that it was going to prove the "best this city ever had known." Mr. Cutshall had thought so well of Mayor Hosey's previous administration and set so much store by the promise of Mayor Hosey's oncoming administration that he had supported Mr. Hosey in the last municipal elections.

Now Mr. Cutshall and all his train are engaged in a vast campaign of bitter and incontinent detraction of Mayor Hosey. The evil things they all utter about Mayor Hosey are put forth as the reasons why Maurice C. Niezer should not be elected mayor of this city. They charge that Mr. Niezer is merely a blind for "Hoseyism"—whatever that is. They accuse Mr. Niezer with seeking the mayoralty solely that Mayor Hosey may continue his domination of affairs in the city hall. Of course, this is the merest balderdash. Mr. Cutshall and his supporters know that it is. They know that as mayor Mr. Niezer will run his own administration. They know that it is Mayor Hosey's uppermost desire to lay down the cares of office and seek the repose that the state of his health enjoins. But suppose that what they say of Mayor Hosey's pretensions to continued exercise of control and a purpose to dominate Mr. Niezer's administration were true. What honest exception can Mr. Cutshall take to that? Mayor Hosey has had a stronger endorsement from no man than he has had from Mr. Cutshall himself. He cannot get away from the statements of his letter, try he never so hard. What he has written he has written and there it stands.

If Mr. Cutshall, in writing to Mayor Hosey four years ago, was honest, then his present criticism, abuse and detraction of Mayor Hosey are not honest. If he were wilfully dishonest four years ago, is he to be now believed? If he committed himself then to hypocrisy and untruth, he was prostituting himself basely to obtain office. If he were honest then, he is employing dishonesty today and basely prostituting himself to obtain office.

Mr. Niezer is not "hooked up" with Mayor Hosey nor with any person or persons save the whole body of the people of Fort Wayne, whom he has promised to serve and will serve faithfully in the mayor's office. But if he were "hooked up" with Mayor Hosey, would it be any worse than that Mr. Cutshall should have been? Mr. Cutshall plainly and frankly wanted to be so "hooked up." He employed his best overtures and his strongest influences that it might be brought about. If there is any reproach in a design to be "hooked up" with Mayor Hosey it all belongs to Mr. Cutshall. He is the only candidate who has sought such a connection. And he either was not honest in seeking it or he is now not honest in denouncing it.

LET US HAVE IT EXPLAINED.

Candidate Cutshall and his managers have discovered that the municipal lighting enterprise is an issue in this campaign. They did not apprehend that three weeks ago, when Mr. Cutshall delivered his keynote and promulgated the platform of his candidacy. On that occasion he dismissed the issue in a score of words. Yesterday he made this statement in one of his speeches:

I shall exert every endeavor to make Fort Wayne's lighting plant a model of efficiency for the entire country to copy.
To that end it is necessary that the city lighting plant occupy the local field alone and unhampered by private competition. It is inevitably the function of the municipality owned light plant that it shall serve every light and power customer in Fort Wayne, and I shall direct its energies with that desirable end solely in view in the event of my election.

There is no sense in the city's spending thousands and thousands of dollars in building and equipping a lighting plant and then spending thousands more in advertising the fact that we citizens ought to buy from ourselves. This waste can be eliminated entirely by making the city plant the only one serving customers in Fort Wayne, and if I am the next mayor of Fort Wayne I shall make every endeavor to accomplish that.

That sounds well. But Mr. Cutshall did not "see it first." It is a belated and unconvincing position he takes. What he says has all along been the policy of the Fort Wayne democracy in respect of the municipal lighting enterprise. Mayor Hosey has declared repeatedly that such is and must be the policy of the city if it means to continue in the light and power business and give the people the full benefit of the municipal industry.

The disconcerting phase of Mr. Cutshall's utterance, taken in connection with his previous timidity and vagueness in discussing the lighting enterprise of the city, is his sweeping and aggressive declaration for establishment of city monopoly. It has been more than a rumor about the city for a long time that in the event of Mr. Cutshall's election there would be disclosed a plan for unloading upon the city the light and power department of the traction company's business.

Is that what Mr. Cutshall means by and includes in his promise that if elected he will "make every endeavor to accomplish" a city monopoly of the business in this city? Mr. Cutshall should illuminate his purpose and make clear his notion of the accomplishment of a monopoly.

If the city can get the legislature to remove the shackles of the state public service law and the strangle-hold the state utilities board have upon the Fort Wayne municipal lighting plant there will not be any great delay in achieving the entire field and accomplishing a monopolization of the light and power business in Fort Wayne. That would today have been well-nigh if not entirely accomplished if it were not that Mr. Cutshall's staunchest supporter and endorser took it upon himself to destroy the bill that had been introduced in the last legislature to give the people of this city relief from the rates prevailing and to enable the city lighting department to go ahead and occupy the field.

We do not believe the people of Fort Wayne want to make a very heavy investment in junk or pay a fancy price for business that it can speedily get without cost if it be given free field.

What has Mr. Cutshall further to say about his plans for a municipal light and power monopoly?

FOOD CONSERVATION WEEK.

If there were no war to put us under many new stresses and our food supplies for ourselves alone were as abundant as we ever knew them to be, the crusade this week for the conservation of food would be a fine thing for all of us.

Americans are the best fed people in the world. They are in singular degree an overfed and wasteful people. We eat too much and we waste too much. Nowhere on the earth do the great mass of the people so give themselves over to habits of incontinent stuffing; nowhere do they so prodigally cast away what they do not consume.

This habit of eating too much is something of a national vice, just as this practice of waste is a national sin. Keen European observers have noted these shortcomings of Americans many times and have written much upon them.

Now we are in a great war. We must win it and we can win it only by helping those with whom we fight the good cause. They are suffering for want of food. We have an abundance for ourselves, but not such an abundance as can be divided with our friends in the war except that we conserve our stores. We ought to save what we can get along without and at once get the benefits of more temperate feeding and give them the benefit of what we shall not ourselves consume.

To help win the war is the great purpose of the food pledge campaign this week. Every household in the United States ought to be enlisted heartily in this good cause. It will to begin with help our government and our allies. It will make for a better general health of our people. It will eliminate waste and extravagance that cost us much. It will put the savings in our pockets. There is every reason for and not a single reason against the food pledge. Sign it.

It is pointed out and consolingly recalled that little more than three years ago the Germans were within cannon range of Paris. They were checked, stopped, turned back and given an overlasting whaling at the Marne. Perhaps General Cadorna will be able to repeat the glory of the Joffre victory. Here's hoping.

Last Day of Grace Before War Taxes Take Effect

Washington, Oct. 31.—This is the last day of grace from many new war taxes.

With the exception of increased letter rates and tobacco taxes which go into effect Friday, the special stamp taxes on documents, legal instruments and parcel post packages which go into operation December 1, all special taxes begin to apply at midnight tonight.

One cent on each time paid for amusement admissions.

Three per cent on payments for freight transportation.

Eight per cent on passenger fares.

Ten per cent on payments for Pullman and similar accommodations.

Five per cent on oil pipe line transportation.

One cent for each 20 cents or fraction paid for express packages.

Five cents on each telegraph, telephone or radio message costing fifteen cents or more.

Various taxes on cigars, cigarettes, tobacco and products.

Ten per cent on club dues.

Eight cents on each $100 of new life insurance and one cent on each dollar of premiums paid on fire, marine, casualty and other insurance policies.

Although the tobacco taxes do not become operative until Friday many dealers have already advanced retail prices in anticipation of the tax levies.

Other taxes of the new law, including those on hard and soft drinks, incomes and war-excess profits, have been in effect since the law was approved October 3, but in indirect form.

On December 1, the new stamp taxes, including those on parcel post packages, will be payable, putting the entire law into complete operation, except for increased rates on second class mail, postponed until July 1 next.

Increases in first class mail rates probably will be most generally felt by the people. The law provides that the postage on letters, except "drop" or local letters, shall be 3 cents; and that on post-cards, including private mailing cards, shall be one cent more than heretofore. This increase includes so-called picture postcards. The advances were made effective thirty days after passage of the law, and are construed by the post office department to begin with letters and post-cards postmarked Nov. 2.

The increases also have been extended by departmental order to first class mail to many foreign countries, which, under postal conventions, have enjoyed the domestic rates. The new 3-cent letter rate, therefore, will apply to letters to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, Panama, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, the Bahamas, Barbadoes, British Guiana, British Honduras, Santo Domingo, Dutch West Indies, Leeward Islands, Newfoundland and New Zealand. The post-card increase will extend to Canada, Cuba, Mexico and Panama, the only countries which have enjoyed the domestic post-card rate.

For consumers' convenience, books of postage stamps containing 3-cent stamps are in readiness for sale and the department has had printed thousands of 2-cent post-cards. First class mail postmarked tomorrow or any time prior to 12:01 a. m. Nov. 2, regardless of time taken for delivery, will be transmitted at the old rates but that postmarked thereafter must pay the increased toll.

Amusement admission taxes become effective tomorrow at places charging more than 5 cents. They are 1 cent for each ten cents or fraction paid for such admission, payable by the person admitted but collected by the government from the amusement proprietor, required to make sworn returns to the treasury.

A flat tax of 1 cent for each child under 12 admitted when children are charged also is provided. Passes also are taxed, except those of bona fide employees, municipal officers and children under 12 at the regular rate, which also is extended to cabarets or other entertainment in which the admission is included in the price paid for refreshment, merchandise or service. Persons leasing theater boxes must pay ten per cent on their rental.

The new rates on cigars range from 25 cents to $7 per thousand and on cigarettes from 80 cents to $1.25 per thousand. Five cents a pound is the new tax on tobacco, snuff and other manufactured tobacco, while cigarette papers are taxed from 1/2 cent to 1 cent per hundred. As the taxes are now reaching the ultimate consumer, the raises mean about 1 cent more on five cent tobacco packages, from 2 to 5 cents on cigarette packages and from 1 to 10 cents on cigars.

The taxes on freight and passenger transportation are also extended to motor vehicle competitors of steam and electric railways and water lines. The passenger transportation tax is not applicable to fares costing 25 cents or less or commutation or season tickets for trips less than thirty miles. Payments for services rendered the federal and state governments are exempt from taxation.

The ten per cent tax on Pullman accommodations is applicable to payments for seats, berths, and staterooms in parlor and sleeping cars or on vessels.

The 5-cent tax on telegraph, telephone or radio messages costing 15 cents or more applies only to those originating in the United States.

Clubs whose dues are less than $12 a year and fees to lodges are exempt from the 10 per cent tax on club dues.

The new insurance taxes are imposed on new policies issued, with re-insurance policies exempted. Industrial or weekly-payment policies are taxed forty per cent on the first premium on policies for $500 or less.

HENRY BERTSCH IS BURIED AT GRABILL

Deceased Was One of Best Known Farmers in That Section of County.

(Special to The Sentinel).
Grabill, Ind., Oct. 31.—This community was considerably shocked on Sunday upon learning of the death of Henry Bertsch, living just west of town. He had been ill for but a short time with an attack of pneumonia. Mr. Bertsch has been a prominent farmer of this community for the past twenty-five years, being proprietor and owner of two large farms along the Leo-Grabill road. He was the father of ten children, all of whom survive him, besides the grief-stricken widow. He was always known as a very thrifty and industrious neighbor. The funeral services will be held Tuesday at the Christian Apostolic church of which he had been a faithful member for many years.

Grabill Brief Items.
The epidemic of hog cholera which manifested itself in this community a few weeks ago, is quite well under control as no new cases have been discovered lately, although quite a number of pigs are dying yet, some of which were treated by the veterinarian.

Mrs. Laura Howe, of Fort Wayne, is visiting with friends here for a week. Grandma Norris is quite seriously ill at this time, and on account of her advanced age her recovery is doubtful.

The regular services at the Missionary church were dispensed with Sunday evening on account of the special services at the Mennonite church.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yaggy and family, of Woodburn, Ind., visited with Joseph A. Klopfenstein and family Sunday.

Paul Clauser and family, of Allentown, Pa., are moving to this place for their future home. Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Clauser, parents of the former, have been living here for about two months.

Mrs. John Conrad, living one mile west of here, is on the sick list.

The funeral services of Mrs. Queen Amstutz, west of here, who died Sunday morning, will be held Tuesday afternoon.

The series of lectures on Bible doctrine which are being conducted by Rev. J. A. Huffman, B. A., at the Mennonite church all this week, are proving to be extremely interesting as well as helpful. On Sunday he delivered three, morning, afternoon and evening, and each time the house

CANADIANS DETERMINED TO WHIP THE GERMANS

W. G. McMaken Writes Interesting Letter from Lethbridge, Alta, Can.

"When Uncle Sam has gotten into the war as deeply as the people here; when the casualty lists begin to come back as they do here, the states will realize that they are really at war," writes W. G. McMaken, former resident of this city, in a letter to a friend. Mr. McMaken left some months ago for Lethbridge, Alta, Canada, where he has a splendid position with the International Harvester company of Canada. The letter follows:

"We are getting quite well acquainted here in Lethbridge, and like the little city quite well. The population is about 12,000. Out of this town about 1,200 men have gone to the front. The war has hit this country hard and there is a great scarcity of help of all kinds. A modified form of conscription goes into effect today, which will further encroach upon the available man power of the country. When Uncle Sam has gotten into the war as deeply as the people here, when the casualty lists begin to come back as they do here, then the states will realize that they are really at war. One of our men lost one boy by death and another was captured in a battle recently. The postmaster here was killed recently in action. Many deaths and wounded men are reported every few days, but the people have grown used to it and no outward demonstration is apparent. But beneath the surface there is a grim determination to win the war and those at home are working all the time to raise money and supplies for the soldiers at the front and their families at home. Canada has taken a large part in the struggle and given men and money lavishly. Just think, out of a population of about 5,000,000 Canada has sent over 450,000 men to war. Almost 10 per cent of the entire population.

Productive Country.
This is a wonderfully productive territory. Last year, a wet season, wheat went as high as seventy bushels per acre. This year, a very dry season, it goes in places as high as fifty-five bushels per acre. A farmer buys land for $25 to $30 per acre, gets a thirty-bushel crop at present prices, pays for the land out of the crop and has enough left to buy the unimproved quarter adjoining or across the road. I had business the other day with a farm country owning 30,000 acres of land. Their crop this year will be 250,000 bushels of wheat besides oats, flax and 300 acres of corn, which was planted as an experiment and turned out fairly well.

This country owns their own elevators, stores, etc. Last year held world's record for wheat, averaging 54 bushels per acre on entire farm. This year their average will be better than 30, and it has been very dry. The founder of this company is an American who about ten years ago worked as a section hand here on the C. P. R.

Climate Is Fine.
The climate is fine. Warm, sunny weather all summer. Cool nights. The weather right now is better than you are having in Fort Wayne, according to reports. Only a little frost so far this fall. We have large coal mines here, so we have a plentiful supply of cheap fuel. Fuel is about the only thing that is cheap, though. War prices prevail on everything else. The territory I travel extends clear across the Rockies into British Columbia, within a couple hundred miles of Vancouver. The Rockies are certainly a great sight. We can see them from our back door any time we care to look. We live about eighty miles from them and about seventy miles from the Montana line. There are lots of United States people here. About half, I should judge. All of western Canada is "dry" and drunkenness therefore is almost unknown.

Why Colds Are Dangerous.

It is not only the serious diseases that so often start with a cold that make a cold the most dangerous of the minor ailments, but the fact that when a child has a cold he is much more likely to contract germ diseases such as scarlet fever and diphtheria. For this reason every cold should be gotten rid of as quickly as possible. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained a wide reputation for its quick cures of bad colds. You will look a long time before you find a better preparation for that disease.—Advertisement.

MORE INTEREST IN THE FUEL ADMINISTRATOR

County Councils Slow in Naming the Local Food Administrators.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—County Councils are nominating local food administrators with care and deliberation. Judging from the reports being made to the Indiana State Council of Defense and to Harry E. Barnard, Indiana food administrator. Dr. Barnard stated today, however, that the nominations should engage the immediate attention of all councils, inasmuch as the federal law becomes effective November 1.

More attention evidently has been made to the selection of a food administrator by the county councils. Evans Woolen, the Indiana representative of Harry E. Garfield, federal fuel director, is receiving replies from practically every section of the state, indicating a greater popular interest in this feature of the law than in reference to food.

Dr. Barnard is anxious that the machinery of his state-wide organization be set up without unnecessary delay, to the end that the practical conservation proposed to be effected thereby may start without further delay. The Indiana State Council of Defense today authorized the following in reference to these new appointees:

"The importance of selecting the very best men in each community for the important post of food administrator and fuel administrator cannot be overestimated. Both are of greatest consequence. They should be big men, experienced and with a grasp of the situation that will take hold at once and aid in the working out of these matters, seriously important to the civilian population and positively vital to the success of our army and our allies in this war against Germany. The food and fuel administrators should be nominated without delay. Too much waste has been experienced; too much delay has been so costly that it will not do to procrastinate. We ask the county councils for action and for a carefully considered nomination."

Young Couple Announce Their Marriage

MR. ELLSWORTH M. GRANT.

MRS. ELLSWORTH M. GRANT.

Two well-known young people who have the respect and affection of their many friends are making the announcement of their marriage today. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth M. Grant, Mrs. Grant was Miss Gladys Whitcraft and she is a daughter of Mr. J. A. Whitcraft, a contractor who lives in South Calhoun street. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Grant took place in Jackson, Mich., on October 2, at the First Presbyterian church manse, Rev. A. B. Lippe officiating. The attendants at the officiating were Mrs. Ida Overmyer, foster mother to the groom, and a number of her relatives and friends in Jackson. In fact Jackson was selected for the wedding because it was Mrs. Overmyer's childhood home and the associations were such as to contribute to the pleasure and happiness of all concerned. The bride, who is a sincere and in every way charming young woman, wore a blue tailored suit with furs of silver fox, and a velvet hat to match the suit. It was the wish of the bride and groom to keep their marriage a secret for a short time and none other than the nearest relatives knew of it. Mr. and Mrs. Grant are making their home for the winter with Mrs. Overmyer. Mr. Grant has been employed at the Fort Wayne Printing company for four years. Mr. Grant is a Mason and one of the original members of the Friars, but is now on the associate membership list.

Mrs. W. S. Bash left today for New York city to visit her brother, Darwin S. Root, and wife.

Mrs. J. A. Calhoun and daughter, Miss Julia, left today for Tiffin, O., for four days' visit.

Mrs. John Morris, of Pittsburgh, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. W. A. Geiger, of the Portland apartments.

Miss Katherine Wagenhals and Miss Edith Hughes have returned from an automobile trip to Aurora, Louisville and Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Vail, of Webster street, have guests from Lynn, who are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Granis, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snyder and Dr. C. E. McCready.

Paul Parks, of Chicago, a former Fort Wayne young man who is in the service of his country, was in the city on Tuesday meeting old friends for a short time.

The members of the West End Embroidery club enjoyed a Hallowe'en party on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Irvin Vaughn, of Putnam street.

Misses Laura Merz, Mildred Tierney, Mattie, Lillie, Katherine and Nora Ahern enjoyed giving a surprise party on Miss Virginia Dutcher, of Baker street, on Monday.

Miss Virginia Westernman, of 825 Madison street, has returned from an extensive trip to both North and South Carolina, Philadelphia and Washington.

There was a merry time at the home of Miss Charlotte Sites last evening when Miss Sites, assisted by Miss Olive Gauntt and Miss Louise Pickard, gave a Hallowe'en party for a number of young men and women. A merry time was enjoyed with the various games and sports suitable for Hallowe'en and it was a most enjoyable evening.

A Hallowe'en party tonight will be given by Miss Wilda Cline, of South Hanna street, for a number of her schoolmates. An old witch will meet the girls as they arrive and there will be many black cats, owls, ghosts and Jack-o'-lanterns to remind them of the night and its spookiness. There will be other good things, but the guests are to find them out after they get to Wilda's home.

A delightful Hallowe'en surprise was given at the home of Mrs. Clarence Pion in Spy Run avenue last Thursday evening in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Pappert's birthday anniversary. The evening was spent in cards, games and music. At a late hour an excellent luncheon was served, the following participating: Mrs. W. F. Pappert, Mrs. F. Pappert, Mrs. C. A. Pion, Mrs. E. Gamble, Mrs. R. Moody, Mrs. Lauer, Misses Carrie and Lillian Huntine, Anna Doerner, Alma Miller, Inez Jockel and Adeline Freeman.

Those present were Misses Pauline Trowbridge, Grace Kinney, Mildred Bevelheimer, Iva Moorehouse, Virginia Jordan, Rea Harshman, Nondas Linkart, Esther Colling and Irene Donnell. Games and contests were enjoyed and prizes were won by Esther Colling, Irene Donnell, Mildred Bevelheimer and Virginia Jordan. The house was beautifully decorated in black and orange festoons, pumpkins and cornstalks. A dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Donnell and Mrs. Bruns, after which music and dancing furnished the amusements for the rest of the evening.

Crapser—Reidinger.
The marriage of Miss Rose Reidinger, of 202 Washington boulevard west, and Mr. Howard Crapser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crapser, of Boone street, took place in Centerville, Mich., on October 29. The bride and groom are now taking a wedding trip. Mr. Crapser is a Nickel Plate brakeman.

Style Show at Orpheum.
More than one woman, either young or older, saw through green spectacles every now and then at the style show at the Orpheum theater last evening that was put on by the Steele-Myers store with their employees as the models. Such good-looking clothes as were shown of all kinds, wraps, gowns, furs, negligees, afternoon and evening creations that were no dreams but the realization of dreams in the way of taste, style and even good sense. No wonder that one felt a twinge of envy. There will be no reason for the woman who is able to buy clothes for not looking as well as good clothes can make her whether she is merely going to church or to a sewing society, or to call on her friends or out of town on a visit.

Mr. Gaston Bailhe, Fort Wayne's most prominent violinist, has opened a studio in the Strand theater building. Mr. Bailhe is a graduate of the class of Remy, in the Paris Conservatory, where he studied for five years. The schooling he received from Remy was the same as that given to such noted artists as Kreisler, Carl Flesch, who were classmates of the latter and graduates of the same institution. After a year of work with the famous Colonne orchestra in Paris, he was engaged by Emil Paur as first violinist of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra, remaining with this organization for four years. During his stay in Pittsburgh Mr. Bailhe appeared as soloist with the orchestra and in private recitals. He was instructor at the Beethoven college, developing some very talented pupils. As a soloist he shows all the finer attributes of long European training, possessing a beautiful tone, true intonation and great mechanical facility. His long orchestra experience and knowledge imparted by great masters, complete his development as a fine instructor.

Store Vegetables for Winter Table; Uncle Sam's Advice

BY BIDDY BYE.

Although flats multiply rapidly in every large city, the small house persists as the true type of the American home. Whoever is blessed with a cellar should try to fit some corner of it for the patriotic service of storing the fall root crop.

The foresighted housewife will probably put in as many bushels of potatoes as she thinks will keep with some sprouting, besides beets, turnips, carrots, parsnips, salsify and onions.

The house cellar, however, is likely to be too dry or too warm. It is therefore advisable to board off a corner of the cellar with a double partition, the walls of which are filled with some non-conductor of heat. The storage vault should be well ventilated, either by flues or by vents at the floor and ceiling.

The United States department of agriculture provides these suggestions for storing root vegetables:

"Potatoes are kept without difficulty in a cool, dry and dark place. Sprouts are not allowed to grow in the spring.

"Potatoes may be kept until January if cleaned, dried and packed in chaff so that they will not touch each other.

"Carrots, turnips, parsnips and beets remain plump and fresh if placed in earth or sand filled boxes on the cellar floor. Remove the tops before burying these vegetables."

Cabbage, although a green vegetable, is the most conspicuous rival of root vegetables. Cabbages should be placed in barrels with the roots uppermost.

Pumpkins and squash are also a part of the fall treasure which must be given a place in the cellar. To keep well, they should be thoroughly ripe, should be placed on shelves well separated from each other, and should be wiped with a cloth occasionally.

HOE CAKES.

One pint cornmeal, two tablespoons shortening, one pint milk, one-half teaspoon salt, three teaspoons baking powder.

Scald milk in double boiler; mix cornmeal with a little cold water; add to milk and cook twenty minutes stirring frequently. Add salt and shortening and cool. Add baking powder; form into round, flat cakes and cook in a hot oven until delicately browned.

Mrs. Selma Ringold, of Toledo, O., is the attraction in the way of dramatic readings.

DEMAND PROTECTION AGAINST NEIGHBORS

That's Why Realty Developers Establish Building Restrictions.

Is there anyone in Fort Wayne who looks upon a "building restriction" in a new subdivision as a hardship? Yes—but he's the man who would think it eminently proper to build a livery stable or a shoe shop on the lot which adjoins yours. He is the man who wouldn't hesitate to nail together a few old boards and build a shack across the street from you. He is the kind of a man who will buy an old box-car and move it into his lot and live in it and defy you or any other neighbor to compel him to move it away.

"Building restrictions" are tough on people of this type, but they are a godsend to those who have well-defined pride in their home surroundings and who do not propose to let shiftless, careless, unprincipled or malicious persons impair the high character of their environment and thus destroy the real value of their property. Fort Wayne is today suffering from the effects of the platting of unrestricted districts which cannot now be replatted and the development of which is rendered impossible by the presence of haphazard, unsightly buildings and a neighborhood of "don't-care" people. In marked contrast to all this is Wildwood Park, where the building restrictions are the protection of the property of every resident. The kind of people who wish to live in Wildwood Park are the kind who demand and are entitled to this protection.

CHEF MARRIES CASH GIRL AT METROPOLITAN

Three Couples Elope to Hillsdale, Mich., and Are Married.

Taking their friends by surprise Savas Kamazis, the popular chef at the Metropolitan restaurant, and Miss Marie Cloude, former cash girl at the same place, quietly slipped away Tuesday for some point in Michigan, presumably Hillsdale, where they were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Announcements of their marriage were received by many of their friends Wednesday. Miss Cloude is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cloude, residing at 1617 1/2 Broadway. After the first of the month they will be at home to their many friends at 950 Leith street.

Arle B. Cox, son of Cassius Cox, 214 Baker street, and Miss Luella L. Linnemeyer, 2326 John street, daughter of Charles H. Linnemeyer, eloped to Hillsdale, Mich., the latter part of last week and were married. They returned to this city on Monday. Miss Linnemeyer has been employed in the offices of S. F. Bowser & Co. Mr. Cox is employed as a clerk.

Alphonse L. Page and Miss Francis E. Kummer, both of Fort Wayne, were married at Hillsdale, by Justice of the Peace C. M. Weaver. Page is a foreman and lives at 218 West Williams street.

FAMILIES ARE BROKEN UP BECAUSE OF NERVES

Doctors claim a man or woman with a strong nervous system has complete control of happiness. It is only those who are played out by overwork, worry, excesses, and thoughtless dissipation that are quarrelsome and disappointed in life. Do not condemn them, their nerves are starved, they are depleted of life and energy and no thought is given to supply them with food nerve energy to make them calm, strong and controllable.

The foolish waste of nerve force turns a cheerful happy person to the ground that accounts for so many separations.

Nature requires aid and Phosphated Iron is necessary in such conditions of nervousness, because it contains the vital elements of Iron and Phosphorus.

ous and powerful vegetable extracts, the very "food help" the nervous system must have if we are to correct degenerate muscles, that sleeplessness and tired all in feeling, lack of energy, ambition and cheerfulness.

Phosphated Iron gets at the root of these troubles because it feeds the blood and nerve centers, it does this naturally and persistently, and cannot fail to strengthen your vitality, to make them calm, strong and controllable.

Special Notice—To insure doctors and their patients getting the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put in capsules only. Do not allow dealers to give you tablets or pills. For sale in Fort Wayne by Meyer Bros.' four stores; also D. & N. Pharmacy.—Advertisement.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast, fast helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious—men, bright, alert—a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of Limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations, and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of Limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

Death of his wife on October 17, 1917, who was instantly killed while several others in the rig with her were badly injured by a train. Mr. Saunders was awarded $550 recently in the local court because of the automobile which was demolished at the time Mrs. Saunders was killed. The automobile was struck by a work train.

AMERICANS BATHED IN MUD OF THE TRENCHES

Associated Press Correspondent With Sammies on Firing Line.

With the American Army in France, Monday, Oct. 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—The first Americans to establish contact with the Germans today are bathing in the mud of eastern France. They constantly are under fire and constantly have their guns on the enemy.

American shells have been hurled into German territory and they have exploded near the enemy line. On a hill in the sight of the explosion, catenae of mud are to be seen. To one side an American officer is looking out on the scene through his field glasses. He is trying to see what damage has been done by the artillery to the enemy and his barbed wire entanglements.

Shells Sling Overhead. Closer to the enemy in the first line trenches is the infantry with the shells of both American and German guns whirling over their heads. The men are rubber boot and ponchoed. Rain, mixed with snow, pelts their helmets. No clothing however, is able to withstand the wind-driven drops of rain and snow, but gunners and infantrymen, although wet, are satisfied, feeling that the German line is close. The Americans in action are more than sufficient recompense for their discomfort.

The correspondent reached the American position after a long motor ride through shell battered towns. Leaving the motor in the town, he walked the rest of the way. Motor cars attract the eye of the Germans and they are likely to drop a half dozen shells in the direction that any machine may be seen.

The first American battery was almost walked upon before it was discovered. It was so well hidden under the trees and with foliage about it on a low hung wire netting. Under the net, water dripped steadily. Some of the gunners were digging another pit in the mud along side their hidden gun.

Message to Germans. Through the foliage in every direction the ground was undulating. At that moment there was a flash of flame through the mist. It was the crack of a "75" gun and following it closely came the noise of the shell rushing through the air, becoming fainter and fainter as the projectile went on its way to the German position over the crest of a hill further away.

The mud digging artillerymen continued their work, without even looking up. A lieutenant from Georgia emerged. He was the officer who directed the first shot. He led the way down the slippery muddy slope to a dugout covered over with sand bags and logs. There was met a lieutenant from Indiana, of the same battery, who directed the first eighteen shots of the war against Germany from an observation post.

On the other side of the hill, was found the first German trench. The muddy gunners were hard at work cleaning their gun.

"This was the first gun fired in the war," said the jaunty lieutenant. "The sergeant inside the pit there fired it."

From South Bend.

Looking into the pit the lieutenant said, "Sergeant, where are you from?" A husky voice replied: "I'm from South Bend, Ind."

"Are you Irish?" asked the lieutenant. "No, sir," the sergeant laughingly replied.

At this time orders came for this gun and other of the battery placed in nearly hills in sight and sound of each other to commence firing. The gun on the farther hill went off with a roar and a faint stream of smoke was blown backward from the pit. Inside the pit in which the correspondent stood a voice shouted out the range figures and the lieutenant reported them. A voice inside the pit a moment later yelled that the gunner was ready to fire. The lieutenant gave the command to the gunner.

"Watch your bubble!"

The Gun Barks.

The gun barked quickly, the noise being followed by a metallic clank and the shell case was ejected and the gun made ready for the next load.

The lieutenant told the correspondent the story of the first shot of the war, punctuating the narrative throughout with the orders "ready to fire" and "fire," which each time was followed by the report of the gun and the whizz of the shell.

"We came up the night before," said the lieutenant, "and got into position in a driving rain. No horses had arrived. I was anxious to get off the first gun and so were my men. I asked them if they were willing to haul the gun by hand to this place so that we could get the first crack at the Germans. They agreed unanimously so we set out across the fields until we got over there at the base of that hill you can just see in the haze. We had a hard time getting the gun, which we have not named yet, over those shell craters. But we labored for many hours and finally reached the spot. Then I got permission to fire."

No Great Result.

"Strictly speaking, the first shot, which was in the nature of a trout for the gun, simply went into Germany. The sergeant put a high explosive shell there at 6:15 o'clock in the morning."

Another officer here took up the narrative.

"I was in an observation point," he said. "There was a fog as the first shot went singing over. Suddenly the fog lifted and I saw a group of Germans. I directed my gun at them. The shrapnel burst overhead and they took a dive into the ground like so many rabbits."

The lieutenant grinned broadly, shook the water off his shrapnel helmet, and, using both clenched fists to punctuate his remarks, said expressively.

"It was great." He paused for a moment, pointed to the field filled with fresh craters, and continued: "We had a lot of time here last night. Fritz tried to get that gun on the hill there and put all those shells behind it. So we all let the Germans have shot for shot. That's the game out here; give them as much as they can send."

Out to the Front Line.

After speaking with the South Bend, Ind., gunner, who fired the first shell for the American artillery into the German lines, the Associated Press correspondent continued toward the first line infantry trenches, occupied by the Americans.

From the artillery lines to the infantry trenches was a considerable distance over muddy hills. The correspondent found the infantry inside one trench. There also were many wires which ran into switchboards and American and French operators were sitting side by side directing operations.

A guide is necessary to reach the front line, especially when some of the trenches resemble irrigation ditches. The trenches the Americans are occupying begin from a screened position. On the way there shovels and tools were piled high below a hill on which there was a great bell for which the alarm in case of a gas attack.

Cooks Were Busy.

There under cover were the company cooks busy warming up food that had been brought up in wagons. The ground was covered with a lattice work of small twigs, so it was fairly dry.

Following the guide, the way winds in and out from left to right for many yards between interwoven branches that have been placed on the sides of the trenches. Every now and then a section opens up to a machine gun emplacement.

The American privates in the front splashed through without hesitating, some times getting a footing on stepping stones in the muddy water and some times not. The trench turns sharply to the right and a voice warns: "Keep your head down," and the rest of the way the walking is difficult. Halting near a machine gun, the German positions directly opposite on a hill could be seen across the barbed wire of No Man's land. Lights appeared in a little town to the left.

A Gentleman's Agreement.

"There is a sort of gentlemen's agreement in this sector that towns over the line are not to be shelled. If one side shatters the agreement the other side promptly fires shell for shell into a hostile town. The correspondent visiting the American batteries found the mud-caged gunners in cleverly concealed pits on the sides of hills, surrounded everywhere by freshly dug mine craters, showing where the German retaliatory fire had dropped projectiles. It was against this fire that the first shot, kept plugging away at a good part of the afternoon.

The correspondent asked a passing patrol how he liked it. He replied in a soft southern accent, "fine, but it is wet as hell, isn't it? Virginia would certainly look good."

Another, hearing the conversation, chimed in: "My little old flat in the Bronx would be plenty good enough on an evening like this."

Another patriot was leaning against the muddy side of the trench his hand over the muzzle of his rifle, whistling softly a tune from a Broadway musical comedy.

Morale Is Fine.

Gen. Sibert, who has just completed a tour of the trenches, was asked how the morale of the Americans in the trenches war. He replied: "Morale? How could the morale of Americans be anything but good?"

All the officers never failed to remark on the enthusiasm of the troops and their eagerness to get at the enemy, but they are technically under instructions, so they are restrained.

The American engineers attached to the sector have been very busy. In the wet weather their duty is to repair trenches which have fallen in and to tackle similar jobs. Aside from one lucky sergeant, remembering that he would like to have something more to eat, the only complaint heard was one uttered by a youthful engineer. He was all alone in a great mud waste and was trying to locate his billet. He had difficulty in keeping his feet on account of the slippery mud and after taking a tumble turned and said: "Sherman certainly knew what he was talking about. I'll bet it was muddy like this when he made his famous remark."

REFORMED CHURCHES CELEBRATE JOINTLY

Rev. F. W. Kratz Delivers Special Sermon on the Reformation.

Reformation jubilee of unusual interest was celebrated in St. John's Reformed church, Washington boulevard and Webster street. The three Fort Wayne congregations representing the Reformed church in the United States, the Salem, Grace and St. John's, united in the service. In spite of the inclement weather, a well-filled auditorium greeted the Rev. F. W. Kratz, pastor of Salem Reformed church, the speaker of the evening.

The services were in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the inauguration of the reformation. The Reformed church dates from the very beginning of this period. In the course of his remarks, the Rev. Dr. Kratz said: "The history of the Reformation is the history of Protestantism, the regeneration of mankind. While Protestantism is the effect of the Reformation, the latter is the result of divine education. The Reformation gave to the world the restoration of Christian principles, the liberty of religion. While Christianity, with its dazzling cross of Calvary, overthrew Judaism, the Reformation with its open Bible overthrew superstition and the power of hierarchy. The language of the reformers is the language of conscience and the expression of the people by men like Zwingli, John Calvin and Martin Luther." Dr. Kratz continued showing the evils of the church at that time and why the degenerated church needed a divine regeneration which culminated in the reformation of head and members.

"Ulrich Zwingli began preaching the gospel of free salvation through Jesus Christ one year earlier than Luther, and his reformation in Switzerland was far more thorough than any of those of his contemporaries. He abolished altars, crucifix, candles, pictures and all the statuary in the churches, and gave to the people a simple form of service, making the sermon the principal part of divine worship. God kindled a fire that not even the peasant war in Switzerland or the wrath of the opposing party could extinguish. During that war Zwingli was wounded and later, while lying under an oak tree waiting for relief, was assassinated because he refused to recant. At this crucial time God woke up a man by the name of John Calvin. Originally a lawyer, yet deeply interested in God's kingdom, he was converted like Luther, studied theology and took up the work that Zwingli had left unfinished. Luther had preached the gospel, but had failed to organize the church, as he left that to the state. John Calvin, however, became the organizer and educated the church to self-government. He gave us the Presbyterian form of polity, a consistory, composed of elders and deacons. Calvin's influence became international. Delegates from England, Scotland, Hungary, the Netherlands, Palestine, Hesse, Prussia, Holland, which countries accepted the Calvinistic doctrine and polity and gave us the free church. Calvin's doctrines emphasize free prayer, only two sacraments, baptism and holy communion, and life of Christ in the heart of members. Today the Reformed or Calvinistic doctrine has been accepted by the Reformed churches, the Presbyterian, the Congregational, the Methodist, the Baptist with the exception of baptism, and also the Episcopal churches."

RED CROSS WAREHOUSE RECEIVES SHIPMENTS

Large shipments of gauze and knitted garments were received Wednesday at the Red Cross warehouse from Peru, Gary, Logansport and Huntington. These garments will be forwarded from the local warehouse to an eastern port for distribution at the proper places.

Postmaster E. C. Miller, who was recently chosen as inspector of the Northern Indiana warehouses has returned from a conference of Red Cross directors which was held at Indianapolis. The meeting was held for the purpose of getting together and pushing all movements to a successful ending. The word that an extreme need for better and more surgical dressings is felt at the base hospitals has aroused a bigger interest than ever in this work.

The warehouse also showed the interest they take in other patriotic and civic movements by the excellent showing they made in bond sales for the second Liberty loan. Through an error the sum reported was far below

SWITCHMEN READY TO DEMAND BIG ADVANCE

Fifty Per Cent Increase and Overtime is Base of Overture.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—The committee representing the Switchmen's Union of North America, who last night decided to ask for a 50 per cent increase in wages and time and a half for overtime for members of the union employed on railroads throughout the United States, today began preparations to present their demands to managers of the railroads. Notice of the decision of the committee was sent to all railroad managers and a meeting for the purpose of receiving propositions was asked for December 3. The switchmen allege that their wage scale is approximately the same as seven years ago except for the reduction in the hours brought about by the passage of the Adamson law. The present wage scale for switchmen in the Chicago district is from $3.50 to $4 a day. The Switchmen's Union of North America, which claims a membership of 20,000, is distinct from the switchmen who are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Several days ago members of the latter organization voted to ask for a minimum scale ranging from $5 a day for helpers to $5.50 for night foremen.

Help to Save Nation's Food Supply

In this time of high cost of living, everybody should use all possible means to prevent waste and to help save food. No one means can be more effective than a vigorous campaign to exterminate rats which destroy over two hundred million dollars worth of foodstuffs annually. Keep garbage in rat-proof cans, stop up their holes and above all exterminate them with Stearns' Paste, which can be bought for a few cents at any store. A two ounce box will usually rid a house or barn of every rat. It destroys mice, cockroaches and waterbugs as well.—Advertisement.

HEROISM OF THE ITALIANS

Holding Their Positions in Spite of Strength of the Foe.

"WE WILL NEVER SURRENDER," WORD

Berlin Says Campaign in Italy Goes According to the Plans.

Faris, Oct. 31.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Rome, says: "The most devoted courage and heroism is shown by detachments garrisoned in isolated positions. One of these belonging to troops operating between Pizzo (Fitch) and Tolmino, was besieged and completely cut off. It sent out a carrier pigeon with the laconic message: 'We will never surrender.' The detachment is provided with provisions for twelve days, so there is every likelihood of its fulfilling its promise. The position held is one of prime importance and it is probable it will play an important part in a counter offensive."

ACCORDING TO PLAN.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—The campaign of the Italian front is being developed in accordance with the intention of the Austro-German leaders, the war office reports.

COVERING THE RETREAT.

Rome, Oct. 31.—There were various hill and canal engagements between the Italians and the invading Austro-German troops yesterday, says the war office announcement today. The Italian covering, permitted the other troops to continue to move towards their new lines.

ROTARY CLUB FURTHERS CAMP RECREATION FUND

Will Raise $5,000 to Give American Soldiers Good Environment.

An interesting and busy session was held by the Fort Wayne Rotary club at the Commercial club Wednesday afternoon. True to promise, Wu Pang Nu, secretary to Ng Poon Chew, appeared on the scene. In real life Chew assumes the title of "Larry" Randall, but this was unknown to the Rotarians. Mr. Chew gave an interesting address in English and Chinese which was translated by B. J. Griswold into an interesting talk on the food value of rice.

The Fort Wayne Rotary club has undertaken the work of raising Fort Wayne's quota of $5,000 in response to the appeal of the International Rotarians, to be used in creating and maintaining a moral and social condition in the immediate neighborhood of training camps. The following members of the club, after the organization had heard the report of Byron H. Somers, the local delegate to the convention of Ohio and Indiana Rotarians held at Indianapolis.

"Resolved, That the officers of this club be the officers of this campaign, and that they be authorized to raise the same and assign to each member of the Fort Wayne Rotary club a quota of $80 to be secured in pledges during the week of Nov. 1."

In addition to raising the quota in Fort Wayne the club has been instructed to organize for similar work in Auburn, Columbia City, Garrett and Kendallville for a total of about $2,000. The International Rotary pledges $4,000,000 to this great work.

The appeal for help is based upon the fact that there are at the present time more European soldiers disabled by venereal diseases than through injuries of battle. The International Rotaries has undertaken to guarantee that no American soldier shall lose his life except in defense of his country.

DENIES HE SOUGHT TO NULLIFY DRAFT

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 31.—Frank S. Lamonte, socialist candidate for mayor of Evansville, against whom disbarment proceedings have been brought by the Vanderburgh County Bar association, took the stand in his own defense at Booneville, Warrick county, today. Lamonte admitted that he had made the assertion in several speeches that it was unconstitutional to send men out of the country for military service, but denied that he had advised the violation of the draft law. He testified that he had said the draft law could be tested. Attorneys for the prosecution said that Lamonte is responsible for the failure of several Vanderburgh county men to appear for draft examination. The case is not expected to go to the jury before tomorrow.

HE SMUGGLED RUBBER.

New York, Oct. 31.—A verdict of guilty of violating American laws by attempting to smuggle dental rubber to Norway on a Norwegian ship was brought in today by the federal jury which tried Jos. Newman, a New York importer and exporter. William Hamm, one of his employees, and Sven D. Rytzel, a Swede. Oscar Newman was acquitted. Judge Irvin deferred sentence to enable the men to prepare appeal papers. They are out on bail.

FORD LOSES FIRST ROUND OF BIG SUIT

Minority Stockholders in Auto Company Win Demand for Dividends.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 31.—Minority stockholders of the Ford Motor company today won the first round of their fight for increased dividends and a more important voice in the transaction of the company's business. Circuit Judge George S. Hosmer, of Detroit, handed down a decision for the plaintiff in a suit brought by John R. Dodge and Horace E. Dodge, of Detroit, against the Ford Motor company and Henry Ford to compel Ford to disburse about $400,000 of accumulated dividends to the company's stockholders.

The Dodge brothers, who are also automobile manufacturers, are also minority stockholders of the Ford Motor company. Henry Ford holds a controlling interest in the Ford organization. Ford announced some months ago that he hoped to use this money to greatly increase his company's business. One of the features of his plan of expansion was the construction of great blast furnaces on River Rouge near Detroit. When the Dodge brothers started their suit they attempted to obtain an injunction permanently restraining Ford from starting construction work on these plans.

The supreme court, however, allowed Ford to begin building, provided he furnished a bond to protect the company's stockholders from loss in case Dodge brothers won their suit. The bond was furnished and the work was started.

Ford, in a formal statement made public some time ago, and in his testimony of the trial of the suit, declared he would appeal the case to the United States supreme court if the lower courts' decision was against him. It was charged by the Dodge brothers at the trial of their case that Ford was supreme in directing the business of the Ford Motor company and that the minority stockholders had no voice in direction of the company.

One of the officers of the company testified that it was not uncommon for the company to send from one to five million dollars for materials, without asking the stockholders' approval. He gave as a reason that the company's business had become so large that such transactions were considered to be ordinary routine.

"YELLOW KID" WEIL IS HELD IN BIG SWINDLE

His Photograph is Identified by Charles H. Worden as the Man.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Charles H. Worden, president of the First and Hamilton National bank of Fort Wayne, Ind., Monday identified the "rogues' gallery" photograph of Joseph Weil, "The Yellow Kid," as the man of the "mining promotion" who swindled him out of $15,000 in a fake stock sale two weeks ago. He also identified a photograph of Frank Tarbeaux, called "The Englishman," as Weil's associate. The identification was made after Mr. Worden had consulted with Miss Moore, chief of the detective bureau and an operative of the Burns agency. Tarbeaux is said to have been the originator of the "Spanish Prisoner" fake, by which huge sums have been taken by confidence men. Weil is said to have amassed a fortune of $200,000.

The Chicago police also have been asked to find the confidence man who a few days ago "took" a bank official living near Bloomington, Ill., for $80,000, and J. B. Tierney, vice president of the First National bank of Omaha, Neb., for $40,000. Tierney met a "business man" in Excelsior Springs, Mo., and in the course of a promise-making they stumbled over a wallet containing steel and other stores. They found the "millionaire" owner sick and in gratitude for the restoration of the wallet the owner "let Tierney in" on a steel stock deal which cost the banker $15,000.

CROWDS HERE AGAIN FOR SUBURBAN DAY

Attention Divided Between the Stores and "The Human Fly."

At noon today the great crowds, on the streets, hundreds of whom are from other cities, shows the growing popularity of Suburban Shopping day. "The human fly," scaling the walls of the court house, was an attraction which appealed to many who had not witnessed the earlier performances of this unique and daring climber. The spirit of Suburban Shopping day is taking hold of thousands in the out side cities and towns, as well as in the farming districts, where the people are watching the newspapers for the announcement of "specials" in every line of merchandise needed for fall and winter use. Fort Wayne is becoming better known through the medium of this mid-week shopping day than ever before, and those who are now acquainted with the stores are telling their less fully-informed friends of the advantage of buying here, so the day grows through its own momentum.

NEARS THREE MILLION MARK

Building Operations in Fort Wayne Reaches Total of $2,950,456.

INCREASE SHOWN OVER LAST YEAR

Month of October Falls Short, However, by Almost $200,000.

Building in the city of Fort Wayne has reached the enormous figure of $2,950,456 for the first ten months of 1917, a war-time construction record unequalled by any city of this size in the United States. There is every indication that the figures will mount past the $3,000,000 mark before the year-end.

The liberty loan effort and promise of more needs for war finance had a telling effect on the building activities of October, however. The monthly record falls $196,145 short of the remarkable showing of October, 1916. During the past month there were 33 building permits issued and representing $106,355 in construction work. In October, 1916, there were 75 permits and $302,500 in building.

Permits to the extent of $2,950,456 have been issued this year as compared with $2,824,131 for 1916 and showing a gain of $126,325 over the year which stood paramount in annuals of Fort Wayne growth. During the present year the number of building permits have fallen 210 short of 1916 as 527 permits have been given out as compared with 737 for last year.

BEATS RECORD.

Coal Fire Starts Earliest This Year.

Even a city official may become discouraged about the coal situation. One of the city hall men has been keeping a record for the past eleven years on the date when he started the coal fire in his furnace. This year he finds that he has started his furnace blaze ahead of all former records and he has not put away a full coal supply.

The official started his basement fire on Oct. 5 this year, which is two days ahead of the next earliest date. Whenever the blaze is kindled it means that until the robins sing there must be daily treatment of the big firebox and the blaze maintained throughout the winter from a smoldering glow to a roaring blast.

"Gloomy outlook," mused the city employee as he looked at the list of dates which he had taken from his diary.

Here are the fire-starting dates and it will be noted that for three years the extended blaze was kindled on Oct. 23: 1906, fire started in furnace on Nov. 4; 1907, Oct. 27; 1908, Nov. 1; 1909, Oct. 14; 1910, Nov. 6; 1911, Oct. 23; 1912, Oct. 23; 1913, Oct. 23; 1914, Oct. 26, 1915, Oct. 7; 1916, Oct. 18, and 1917, Oct. 5.

APPOINT INSPECTORS.

Council Will Act at Special Wednesday Night Session.

The thirty-one section inspectors for the coming city contest will be appointed by the city council, meeting in special session Wednesday night. The inspectors will be democrats according to the state election law, which grants the inspectors to the party polling the largest vote at the last city election. The men have been chosen by the democratic central committee and the council action will be only a matter of ratification.

The inspectors will be appointed two judges for each precinct, a democrat and republican. The three men will constitute the election board of each precinct. Chief of Police Lenz will appoint two sheriffs, a republican and democrat, for each election precinct and the election commission will name two clerks, one from each of the two principal parties, for service in each city district. Each party will also be entitled to a challenger and poll book holder, both of which may stay within the fifty-foot radius of the polling place.

PUSHING POOL BUILDING.

Concrete Work for "Swimmin' Hole" Well Under Way.

days of May bring their lure to the cooling depths. City workmen are laying water mains to connect up with the artificial "swimmin' hole." The bathing place is made possible by popular subscription which was led by the Rotary club.

PUT UP BOND.

Satisfactory Adjustment of Lakeside Problem Assured.

Bond in the sum of $2,500 for the assurance that the Lakeside dike situation will be handled in a manner satisfactory to the board of works and city engineer was approved by city officials on Tuesday. The bond is signed by Rose and Pettieord, interested parties in the construction of the new Lakeside dike. The bond will be placed on file on Thursday and construction work in the Lakeside region will continue.

START VACCINATIONS.

Active Response to Request for Wholesale Inoculation.

Several employees of downtown department stores were vaccinated at the health board office, in the city hall, Wednesday, as a response to the notice that all factory, shop and dry goods store clerks should be inoculated against smallpox.

Factory and store managers have been given to understand that they allow their employees to go unprotected against the disease at their own risk. The smallpox epidemic in the plants or establishments there will be a quarantine of the business which may mean the loss of several days' work. There is no apparent opposition to the vaccination request.

The black and yellow cards are now on nearly 100 homes in the city. Health officers point out that the percentage of smallpox victims is low when the population of the city is considered.

New cases of the disease reported on Wednesday are: Leo Nyboer, Samuel Gratz, 203 East Woodland; Richard Groff, 691 Huffman; and Mack Short, 306 East DeWald street.

Must Not Misrepresent. Charles Josse, health inspector and deputy food administrator, has given out that at least a part of the peaches shipped to Fort Wayne from New York State are fit for consumption but are cold storage peaches and lack the flavor of full ripened fruit. He states that the peaches may be sold if they are represented as being cold storage fruit.

REVERSES IN WAR UNIFY ITALIANS

People of That Country Now Are Forgetting Political Differences.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Gratifying evidences of the unifying effect upon the Italian people of the Austro-German offensive is shown by official cablegrams received here today. So many are the reverses in the Italian front in political struggles in order to strengthen the people in resistance to the invasion. The parliamentary socialist group has had several meetings to consider plans of co-operation with the government and only awaits the return of some of their leader, Turilli, to take action. Meanwhile they have let it be known that they are disposed to support the government to any extent short of actual participation and the abandonment of socialistic aims and ideals.

The Austro-German offensive is regarded as the last desperate attempt of the central powers by crushing Italy to force a peace before the fourth winter of war begins.

Military experts in Rome are pointing out that the enormous mass of the enemy may mean the Italian rear lines of all advanced positions. This numerical superiority of the enemy lines along the entire Italian front makes it necessary to mass the Italian forces by drawing back the arch front and shortening the lines which are now divided and stretched along the Isonzo. While this will consolidate and strengthen the Italian lines, the enemy lines will diminish in strength as they advance as they will be obliged to use a large force to maintain their communications and will lose the impetus of the first days.

FOREIGN TRADE BOTH WAYS HAS FALLEN OFF

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—Exports and imports both fell off during September. The decrease of approximately $34,000,000 in exports whose total for September was $456,201,567 is attributed partly to the activities of the war trade board in holding up licenses. While the exports have dropped in comparison with August they show a gain of $30,000,000 as compared with July. Imports in September dropped $34,312,481 from August's total of $270,599,379. Gold and silver are going out of the country far in excess of their import.

MORE GO TO HATTIESBURG

100 Members of 17th Battalion Will Be Transferred Nov. 3.

SERGEANT RUSSEL GIVEN PROMOTION

Fort Wayne Boys Are Now in the Trenches, But Not in France.

BY E. F. F. (Staff Correspondent.)

Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Oct. 31.—The fact that the Seventeenth battalion, of which the Fort Wayne boys are members, is in a training depot, brigade, has again been illustrated. The fact that 100 more of the members of this battalion will be transferred on or about November 3, 1917.

The consolidation of the Seventeenth and Nineteenth battalions brought with it the addition of 127 more men. However, in the next increment of men who will go to Hattiesburg, Miss., several Fort Wayne young men are included. The list has not been officially announced as yet. However, nearly all the men from the Allen county district will be transferred.

During the past week the Seventeenth battalion also lost three of its officers, who have been with the companies since organization. Those who were transferred to other battalions were Lieut. L. M. Arbogast, of the 65th company, and Lieutenant C. R. McNabb and Lieutenant H. E. Scott, both of the 67th company. The Fort Wayne men in these companies were sorry to hear of their transfer.

Sergeant Larry D. Russel, of the 65th company, who has been acting in the capacity of supply sergeant, has received a very substantial promotion and now has the rank of sergeant major of the Seventeenth battalion. His duties are to take care of the supplies for the entire Seventeenth battalion.

Visitors at Camp. More Fort Wayne people visited the camp Sunday. Included in the list were the Misses Bogue and Valette Roussele, Mr. and Mrs. Gushing.

Fort Wayne's interest in the war is not a fact, however, in the recent transfers that have been made. Through the shifts that were made Captain F. W. Eggenman, who is acting battalion commander, was made, in addition to his other duties, commander of the 65th company.

In the Trenches. Fort Wayne boys are in the trenches. They arrived there several days before the boys did in France. And the boys like it very much, due to the fact that bullets are not flying loosely where they are engaged. They are learning the construction of a trench. Those men who were selected to receive this added instruction in the courses as offered to the soldiers are Elvin C. Bair, Arthur W. Miller, George Flag, Elmer J. Grosh, Henry Berghoff, Thomas Ewing, Leo J. Lauer, Albert Gessler.

They are becoming very proficient in this line of work and they say that if the opportunity should ever present itself that they will be in a position to construct the kind of trenches which will insure safety to their comrades in arms.

More Generosity Shown. Through the generosity of the division commander the Fort Wayne young men here at this camp and all others are now permitted to remain out in the evenings until 10:30 o'clock. The boys are also allowed to be sent from camp and duties from Saturday noon until midnight. Also from Sunday morning until taps, which now sound at 10:30 o'clock.

The Fort Wayne young men who are still stationed at this training camp have become attached to their work and are all gaining in weight. Health again reigns supreme. The young men in this battalion are extremely thankful for the benefit recital which was given at the Majestic theater for them. They desire in this manner to express their heartfelt thanks to Miss Irene Roby and Miss Grace Romary, and shall remember this benevolent deed as long as they live.

LIKES ARMY LIFE. William E. Pendland, a press feeder employed at the Fort Wayne Printing company at the time of his enlistment a few weeks ago, has written from Fort Thomas, Ky., where he is now stationed. Young Pendland joined the army the next day after his twenty-first birthday and would have joined sooner had it not been for parental objections.

"This will be our home for about one more week then we go to Texas, I think," he writes. "This army life can be a whole lot worse than it is, believe me. We get good food and plenty of it."

Enlistments Total 108. As stated by the recruiting report there were eighty-three enlistments at the Fort Wayne station during the month of October. By enlistments of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning this total has been raised to 108. Of this last number several were colored men who have taken advantage of the opportunity offered their race to join the army. The response to the appeal for colored people needed in the army has not been so rapid as army recruiting officers had been led to expect, and they are anxious for Fort Wayne not to fall down on her record in any department.

RECRUITING STATION ENLISTS EIGHTY-THREE

Excellent Record Continues Throughout the Month of October.

The local recruiting station has maintained an excellent record during the last month and has kept Fort Wayne on the recruiting map of the state. In spite of the fact that the main station was moved to Indianapolis, Sergeant Arthur Turner, in charge of the local station, has sent the following men to the training camps during the month:

Allen Hazlewood, Fort Wayne; Harry A. Spencer, Fort Wayne; Walter O. Daugherty, Fort Wayne; David B. Ramsey, Fort Wayne; Victor Cosand, Fort Wayne; William Elliott, Fort Wayne; William Moyer, Fort Wayne; James D. Bodkins, Wabash; Clarence H. Bell, Fort Wayne; Fred D. Chever, Fort Wayne; Thomas Windbigler, Wabash; Ignatz Stefanowicz, Fort Wayne; Odes Gould, Decatur; Martin W. Pohls, Fort Wayne; Clarence H. VEILED LADY IN THE MINOTTO CASE KNOWN

Mrs. Eldridge, of New York, Testifies Against the Doubtful Count.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 31.—The mysterious veiled woman witness in the case of Count James Minotto, defendant in deportation proceedings on suspicion of pro-German sympathies, was identified today as Mrs. Chauncey Eldridge, wife of a wireless expert residing at No. 10 Edington avenue, New York city.

The proceedings are for the immigration inspector. Mrs. Eldridge, her features hidden behind a heavy veil, made her first appearance as a witness yesterday. As the hearings are secret her incognito remained complete. Today, however, the name of "C. Eldridge" was observed on her suitcase, accompanied by her mother, she hurried to catch a train.

When this was called to the attention of Dr. Percy L. Prentiss, in charge of the immigration bureau here, he admitted that she was Mrs. Chauncey Eldridge. He did not divulge the nature of her testimony. Others at the hearing today included Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Company, the packers, and father-in-law of Minotto, Commissioner Prentiss and Charles E. Faul, of the immigration bureau.

Minotto's association with Germans in this country and South America, which he claims were merely of a normal social or business nature, are said to have directed government attention to him, but the technical charge, despite the fact that he is a member of the family of a multi-millionaire, is that he was an alien likely to become a dependent.

A BRILLIANT SHOWING.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 31.—D. C. Wills, chairman of the central liberty loan committee, announced today that the fourth federal reserve district second liberty loan subscriptions amount to $389,450,000, with returns not all in. The district's quota was $300,000,000 and the goal set by the committee was $400,000,000.

SILLY TALES ARE BRUITED

Food Pledge Campaign is Halted by Propaganda in Indiana.

DEKALB FARMERS FEAR CHEAP HOGS

Albion Women Do Not Display Food Pledge Cards, Fearing German Troops.

Indianapolis, Oct. 31.—Emphasizing the importance of the work that county food directors will be called upon to do, Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Indiana food administrator, today appealed to the Indiana state council of defense to again urge county councils to make nominations for these important posts.

Dr. Barnard said the enforcement of the federal licensing law which will control retail prices for firms doing a gross business in excess of $100,000 per year tomorrow, November 1, makes more imperative the selection of a competent county director. He stated the food administration through publicity channels expects to effect what will amount to a "black listing" of all retail groceries that ask an unfair profit for their goods and are not within the scope of the federal licensing law. But thirty-nine counties in the state has asked appointment of directors.

In Albion Dr. Barnard said school children whose mothers had signed cards had returned to school with the information that their mothers declined to display the cards for the reason that a man, whose name is now said to be in possession of the department of justice, had informed them that the display of these window cards spotted the house for the Germans, who would get them "when the enemy soldiers came into the town."

Dr. Barnard said Mayor McClellan, of Auburn, said the rumor is persistent there that the government will fix a maximum price for hogs of $10 to $12 per hundred weight, and that as a result the food enrollment campaign is seriously handicapped.

Miss Mary E. B. Culbertson, of Richmond, secretary of the Wayne county council of defense, telegraphed, Dr. Barnard said, that "rumors are traveling faster than the food cards, and that it is difficult, indeed, to persuade people that they are not signing something over to the government when they sign the food enrollment cards."

The state council will make thorough investigation of the facts upon which these false reports are based.

The matter of endorsing the organization of a girls' working reserve from high school students who agree to devote two hours per week to a patriotic activity, as done under the direction of Mrs. Seaboard in the Michigan City, high school, was referred to a committee who will investigate and report. At the request of Charles Fox, chairman of the labor committee, the council also will investigate the action of members of the Gibson county council of defense, who were reported to have incited the formation of a union by its employees. The garment company has government contracts which it is said to have transferred to Fairfield, Ill., leaving the Princeton plant and eighty-five girls idle.

FLOODS IN SOUTH AFRICA DESTROY

Thousand British Indian Natives Are Drowned in Natal.

London, Oct. 31.—Four months of abnormal rain in Natal, South Africa, culminated Saturday and Sunday in a storm in which more than eight inches of rain fell in twenty-four hours as a result of which widespread destruction is reported, says a Reuter dispatch from Durban, Natal, today.

The Umgeni river, deeply swollen by the storm, swept suddenly down upon Durban, submerging the thickly populated district on the Springfield flats. Many persons were swept away and drowned. Reuter's correspondent adds, the mortality being believed great among the Indian population, while much damage was done to railroads by many washouts.

According to a Central News dispatch from Johannesburg the number of British Indian natives drowned is believed to have reached 1,000.

GARRETT MAN IS NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

Lorain, Ohio, Oct. 31.—Having shown that he had no connection whatever with the murder of Mary Koerber, 13 years old, O. C. Dischway, of Garrett, Ind., arrested on suspicion of the murder, has been released by the police. Women who saw a man leaving the scene of the murder say that Dischway was not the man.

Toledo Maroons Will Be the Attraction Next Sunday

Racine Team Cancels, But May Play Here on November 11.

In a telegram received Tuesday by Manager Fishering of the Friars, the fast Racine team which was to have been the attraction at League park next Sunday unexpectedly cancelled the game. The telegram stated that a letter would follow giving full explanation. It also stated that the Racine team could come here November 11. Although the Friars have a game for this date, it may be that arrangements can be made for bringing the Racine team here at that time.

The fans, however, are not to be disappointed for be it remembered that Manager Fishering has been at the switch. Determined to bring a team here equally as good as the Racine eleven he was not long in accomplishing his purpose with the result that the fast Toledo Maroons, an aggregation in the same class as the Dayton Herald, was closed today. In order to bring the Maroons here it was necessary for the Friars to raise the guarantee, as the Maroons already had a game booked. Efforts to bring the Toledo Maroons to this city have been made before without success and the Friar management is congratulating itself in being able to get them for next Sunday.

Boys' Day. As has already been stated next Sunday is Boys' Day. The following plan has been adopted to facilitate matters: Boys' tickets will be distributed among a half dozen merchants, who agree to advertise them and urge the youngsters to come to their stores for them. So it behooves the boys to watch the advertisements in the Sentinel in order to know where these free tickets may be secured. One entire side of the grand stand will be reserved for them and everything possible will be done to look after their comfort.

The Friar management has found it impossible to get a return engagement with the Camp Custer team, which opened the season here with a victory over the Friars. The Camp Custer team is signed up for the entire season and thus far has won every game it has played. The only chance of the Friars to get a return game again this season is by one of the opposing teams cancelling, which, however, is not probable.

Chicago and Michigan May Play Game for War Benefit

Arrangements Are Being Made for Contest on Thanksgiving Day.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—A football game between the universities of Chicago and Michigan on Thanksgiving day became a probability today when letters were placed in the mail by the Chicago board of athletic control, asking other members of the "Big Ten" whether a game of this character for war charity would meet their approval and stating that if no objection is received a formal suggestion from any college to play a game on that day would be considered.

Football on Thanksgiving day was abolished some years ago and the formal approval of every member of the western conference is necessary before such a game could be scheduled.

On account of the old time rivalry of the Chicago and Michigan teams, which have not met since 1905, Michigan alumni started the movement for a game in the hope of realizing a large sum of money for some war charity. It was pointed out that the receipts of the game in 1905, which Chicago won by a score of two to nothing, reached the $400,000 and efforts to obtain were similar to those of the recent world's series.

Prof. Albion W. Small, Chicago's faculty representative in the "Big Ten," said: "You may say that Chicago is in a receptive position, of course our ultimate decision will rest upon the wishes and approval of other members of the conference."

The university of Michigan withdrew from the western conference early in 1906, but returned to membership a few months ago.

Varsity Crosses Freshman Goal Three Times—Strong on Defense.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 31.—Coach Stiehm's rejuvenated Indiana varsity showed its metal in the practice yesterday afternoon by running over the freshmen in a short scrimmage, making three touchdowns. The freshmen were unable to stop the fierce attack of the first team, which was led for the first time in eight days by its captain. Hathaway returned to his place in the line and played with his old-time fire. Left End Risley was the only regular still suffering from injury. His leg is improving rapidly, however, and he expects to be in shape by Saturday. Risley's past performances with his toe would warrant the assertion that he is liable to score a place kick or two if his teammates get within thirty-five yards of the Ohio State goal line.

That Stiehm's men can play as good defensively as when they carry the ball was shown last night when the freshmen were absolutely unable to make headway with Buckeye formations. Stiehm gave the youngsters the pigskin and allowed them three chances to gain ten yards and the freshmen failed. The charging of the varsity line was low and hard and all freshmen plays were smashed before they were fairly started. If the regulars only keep up their present pace the fracas at Indianapolis Saturday will be a regular one. Cunningham, full back on the varsity team, had his collarbone broken in scrimmage.

The biggest pep meeting of the season will precede the departure of 2,000 students and townspeople for Indianapolis and will be staged in the gymnasium. Thursday night the "Boys' Club" committee completing the arrangements. The university band will be present with its new music for the game and the jazz band, which also will make the trip, will be on hand. Coaches Stiehm and Rathbun, Capt. Hathaway, Howard and one or two other members are slated as speakers.

James H. Butler, class of 1918, won the contest of the Merchants Light and Heat company, of Indianapolis, and will write the message for the photograph of the company. The message submitted by the company is: "President Wilson heartily advises the continuance of college athletics as a valuable asset in war times. Show your pride in Indiana's great university by attending the football game Saturday afternoon at Washington park, Indiana university plays Ohio State university."

The judges of the contest were Ralston Gross, sporting editor of the Indianapolis Star; Ray Thompson, sporting editor of the Indianapolis News; Registrar J. W. Craven, Bursar U. H. Smith and A. L. Rothschild, of the Merchants' Heat and Light company.

Interested of American sportsmen in field trials is evident from the fact that more than forty have been scheduled to take place this fall and winter season, ending in January, 1918. There will be one every week, and to the enthusiasts the test of the dog's ability in the open is better recreation than bench shows.

Society women will compete in events of the national horse show, which will be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, beginning November 12. The receipts will be turned over to the American Red Cross fund.

The eight indoor courts of the Seventh Regiment Tennis club, of New York, will witness many prominent players in action during the next few months. Play will begin with the regimental singles matches December 22. The national singles contests will begin February 11.

Fifteen-year-old George von Elm is Utah state golf champion of New York city and vicinity will conduct matches in the annual eastern individual championship tourney now in progress, many of the most expert bowlers being among the contestants.

RAIN STOPS ARMY ELEVEN.

West Pointers Are Much in Need of Practice.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The army's preparation for the game with Notre Dame next Saturday was halted suddenly yesterday by a heavy downpour of rain. The playing field soon took on the appearance of a quagmire and, although the men are in bad need of heavy work, the coaches would take no chances with the treacherous footing.

There has been no release yet of any of the first-string men who have been laid up with injuries, still are unable to take part in any hard work. In fact, it is doubtful whether they will be able to start the Notre Dame game.

The West Pointers are looking to Saturday's battle as the game of the season, and they are particularly anxious to make a good showing against the west-erners.

SOX WILL TRAIN IN TEXAS.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago American league base ball club, has announced that the club would train next spring in Texas, either in Mineral Wells or San Antonio, with a probability of spending some time in each place.

SEES NECESSITY OF THIRD MAJOR

Ban Johnson Says Minors Must Make Adjustments Next Season.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—There is a chance for a shorter playing schedule for the major leagues and a third league may become a reality as a war measure. At least that is the opinion of President B. B. Johnson, of the American league, who, in company with President Comiskey, of the White Sox, returned from Camp Jerome today.

In discussing the shorter schedule, Johnson said that the minor leagues, which might be cut down to a "major," President Johnson said that both moves would be in the nature of war measures.

"The matter of a shorter schedule will be taken up at the annual meeting I soon will call," said Johnson. "I would like to see it in force next season for several reasons which I am not prepared to state now. It would be a schedule of 140 games and would mean a five months' season. The opening game would come about April 26 or 27 and this would permit us to close earlier than in 1917."

"As for the new league, I know nothing official. The only information I have, I gained from the newspapers. However, the project might benefit the game during the war, and it should be considered a war measure exclusively. It is a certainty that the minor leagues will have to make some adjustments next season in order to get by. They can not go on as they have in the past. To combine circuits might help, but the matter is entirely up to those affected."

FAVOR SHORTER SEASON.

President Navin Believes Most American Magnates Want Out.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 31.—Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit American league base ball club, announced today that he favored a shorter playing season.

"The proposed schedule of 140 games is all right with me," said President Navin. "I can understand how some club owners will object, but for the most part I believe the magnates are for it."

Local base ball writers have for two years been prominent in the agitation for a shorter season and a later training camp. It is understood here that President Comiskey, of the Chicago Americans, is the leading opponent of the proposed plan.

DEPAUW STAYS INSIDE.

Players Will Practice in Open Today, Regardless of Weather.

Greencastle, Ind., Oct. 31.—Signal practice in Bowman gymnasium was the only work indulged in by Coach Busch's proteges this afternoon. A scrimmage is on the schedule for today regardless of what point the mercury may be lowering about on McKean field.

Coach Bachman has been looking over a substitute guard, as a prospect for the team. He is too valuable a man to play the bench, according to the DePauw line coach. Julian is fast. He weighs 175 pounds. Smith's disqualification at St. Louis gave Julian the chance that may prove his making. Playing at guard, Julian captured a tumbling punt and the manner in which he carried the ball in returning it marked him as a strong offensive player. He will be tried out at the wing position during the coming two weeks.

COAL PROBLEM IN THE STATE OF INDIANA

Farmers Can Aid Solution by Using Their Wood for Fuel.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—One practical way in which the farmers of Indiana can render material assistance to the state in the coal situation is to use wood for fuel as much as possible. Several dealers have been raising to sell coal to farmers who have a supply of fuel wood on their farms to tide them over. The United States fuel administrator is urging farmers to reduce their coal consumption as far as possible and in towns where citizens can buy fuel wood it is suggested that insofar as practical, wood be substituted for coal.

The First M. E. church, of Brazil, sets a good precedent for church and social organizations in Indiana during this period of coal shortage. Meetings on the church grounds in Brazil held in the evening are being changed over to afternoon in order to make less of a demand on lighting facilities. Insofar as possible these meetings are grouped on Thursday, when the church must be heated for the prayer meeting. The church owned

Noted Diver Has An Ambition to Salvage War Wrecks

GOING TO WORK, WITH MRS. JONES AT LINES

BY LOUISE LENOIR THOMAS.

WHAT a tremendous lot of housecleaning this world is going to have to do "when the war ends!"

Mr. Britling said that England didn't want to fight, but it was as if a great mass of filth had been spilled across Belgium and France and it wasn't decent to leave it so—that's why they had to get to work and push the dirt back.

It isn't only Belgium that has to be cleaned up—it is just about every corner of the continent—rather as if some wicked boy had done his worst to play havoc in the household—and succeeded most gloriously.

Nor must we forget the sewers and water systems which the terrible boy has stopped up with debris and down which he has thrown all manner of valuables which we've got to rescue—not only because they are treasures that we want back again, but because they are clogging up the water system so that we'll not be able to clean house until it is opened once more.

One is reminded of the nursery rhyme—didn't we used to sing it?

"A mother was chasing her son 'round the room,
She was chasing her son 'round the room,
And while she was chasing her son 'round the room—
She was chasing her son 'round the room."

So it has been in the world war—a futile chasing of the wicked boy (let us not say "son") 'round the room—availing one nothing. Those of a sanguine temperament say that the lawless boy has been cornered and that we need do no more chasing "round the room," for he is ready to quit and be good. It isn't quite safe to leave him be and begin our cleaning up after him yet awhile, but after he is thoroughly subdued, the vacuum cleaner must be got out, and restoration begun.

Diver the World Plumber.

Everyone knows more or less of the manner in which the housewife goes about her task of superficial housecleaning—there is the dust rag, the broom, the mop, the vacuum device, the scrub bucket and the brushes. The bachelor who will have none of it, and the hotel habitant who flees when the broom enters, has a certain degree of knowledge thrust upon him, but even the consecrated housewife has vague ideas of the ways and workings of a plumber and the whys and wherefores of the implements he wields—how then can the layman know the mysteries of his pursuit.

It is the deep-sea diver who is the World Plumber, and whom the world must employ to clean out the waterways and get to rights the impaired system, and to rescue the valuable treasures that the terrible boy has so ruthlessly hurled down our once sanitary sewers and pipes.

The analogy need be carried no further.

Since the unspeakable event on May 7, 1915, when the palatial Lusitania was sent to the bottom of the Atlantic with its precious cargo and its priceless lives—$12,000,000 and 1,198 people—the amount of tonnage that has been sunk up until the 1st of last February, aggregates something over 8,000,000. Unhappily, the human lives cannot be restored, and it is futile to take account of that cargo, but of the rest there is much to be thought of and acted upon.

When one stops to think of the things that lie at the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean, the English Channel and the Norwegian seas, awaiting salvage, it is then that one realizes that there are but few products of nature or industry which have not settled in the sands. Clothing, foodstuffs, cotton, silks from the Orient, beasts—these shall have long since rotted away when the diver searches for the lost treasures. Coal, ammunition and machinery—many of which may be not worse off for their long standing in water and can be made use of as soon as the diver brings them to land once more.

Guiding Hands Required.

Considering the millions of dollars lying at the bottom of the seas that would be eternally lost were it not for the men of courage and daring who have made the practice of diving their careers, our interest will doubtless be drawn toward those men of whom we know and hear so little, and tales will be told which will quicken our desire to know something of the diver's life. Now and then we read in some journal of a ship being drawn up from a harbor bottom, or we stand on the wharf and watch the building of a great bridge that spans a powerful stream of water. "It is all done by machinery," we say, "how wonderful is this mechanical age in which we live!"

Truly, the sunken boat is raised by machinery and the wooden piles are sunk into the river bed and fastened by steam or hydraulic power, but machinery has no mentality, and we cannot send an iron hand into the water and expect it to make an intelligent grasp on the thing we desire it to fetch up, nor can we train a steam builder of bridges to do its work under water without guidance.

More to be wondered at is the work of the man who submits himself to be sunk to the water's bed and there guides the machinery by which "it is all done," than the machinery itself.

To the average inlander the diver is a rare species of human found mostly in the Southern Ocean and Indian seas, where corals, sponges and pearls are gathered—sometimes appearing in river waters and lakes after disaster, picking over the debris like vultures after carrion. The wharf rat knows better. To him the diver is as familiar a figure as is the fireman, though less often. The diver is as necessary, quite, in the New York harbor and at all anchoring places, as the fireman is among the tenement districts. He is an established institution and not a rare occurrence. In his headquarters are men forever on the alert day and night for the signal that shall call them forth and into their grotesque calling, to go down into the black water of the ship's resting place—to repair a leak in a dock—to stop a boat from sinking. Not only is there the emergency diver, who is called to repair disaster, but there is the diver who makes the practice his avocation and is sent for on various "jobs."

Of such an one, James L. Jones of St. Louis is worthy of note, for he it was who alone was successful in bracing all of the false work for the great free bridge spanning the Mississippi river at that point. The work consisted in diving to the bed of the river and boring holes in the wooden piles by means of an auger run by air power and inserting the bolts for the cross timbers that braced the double piling. This is the first work of the kind ever known to have been successful under water, and Jones has the signal honor of having accomplished a task at which several other divers were set and failed.

Jones, however, does not say, "I accomplished the job." He says "we" did thus and so, for wherever he takes over a "job" his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Jones, accompanies him, acting as his "tender;" nor will he go under the water unless she is holding the life line and air hose and watches the men who turn the wheels of the air pump, for if ever a man's life "hangs by a thread" it is the diver, whose life depends upon the rope and hose from which he clings in the water.

There is no bravery wanting in the make-up of Diver Jones. He has gone down where others less lion-hearted have hung back. "But," he says, "with Mary at the life line I can fear nothing, and when she says 'Go' no earthly power could hold me back."

It was eleven years ago that Jones, a Texas farmer from Dallas county, grew restless of his work and sought an opportunity to quit ranch life for the life of the city. He moved up to St. Louis and got employment as a bridleman on the McKinley bridge, which was then being constructed across the Mississippi. He would watch with interest the divers who went into the river to do the underwater construction work, and the desire to become one of the clan grew until he ventured to request that he be allowed to don the ponderous underwater attire and go under the muddy currents of the river. The request was granted, and at midnight of that same day he took his first plunge.

"I don't remember my first sensations as the dark water closed over my helmet. I only thought of it as an adventure, but one which I wanted to make a success of, for I was anxious to follow the diver's life. Well, I guess I made a success of my first attempt, for after that I was called upon to do all sorts of jobs and have now been at it for ten years.

The Diver's Suit Described.

Jones describes the grotesque garb that the diver has to wear in defiance of the water.

"A man can't put on the suit alone, for it is of ponderous weight and he has to be screwed into it and buckled down, airtight. First he slips into the 'dress' made of solid sheet India rubber between specially prepared, double-tanned twill that draws over the feet and completely envelopes the body from the neck to the soles, save at the hands, which are left bare. In order to draw the tightly fitted vulcanized India rubber cuffs over the hands they have to be soaped to make the 'slip-over' possible. They are the only exposed part of the body in warm weather, but the diver wears heavy rubberized canvas gloves in winter.

"Over this dress the diver puts on his boots, heavily weighted, gun-metal protected, with gun-metal or brass toes and buckles, each boot weighing 80 pounds; then the breastplate and helmet of tinned copper with gun-metal fittings which is fastened to the gasket (a rubber joint) with thumb-screws. The helmet looks like the body of an octopus—three eyes glaring out, which are three windows of heavy plate glass in glass frames with wire guards in front to prevent any heavy object that might strike the glass from breaking it.

"The 'front window' is round, and screws into place just as the diver is ready to take his last breath of free air before the air pump is put into action and he makes his descent. The back of the helmet is fitted with an outlet valve with an adjustable cock, by which the excess of air can be let out and also by which the impure air escapes. The stoppage of this valve (it has been known to freeze shut in icy water) would mean the inflation of the suit with the air which cannot escape until the diver becomes so light that he is shot up to the surface of the water like a balloon."

The two most important things in the diver's outfit is the air hose and the life line. The air hose is of vulcanized India rubber, sometimes wire wrapped, which is attached to the helmet with a gun-metal inlet valve, which admits air, but will not allow it to escape or return through the hose. This hose goes under the diver's left arm and the life line—a half-inch manilla rope—winds under the right arm. By these two lines he is pulled to the surface after his work is done.

Those who work the air pump which supplies the diver with fresh air dare not stop, for, were the supply shut off, the diver's life would last but a moment, or, at the most, two. Ten pounds of air must be sent down for every 25 feet the diver descends, and a gauge indicates the supply he is receiving.

It is Jones' wife who watches this gauge with a jealous interest, and at the same time she is sensitive to any signal on the life line which she holds in her hands. Modern helmets are fitted with telephones, the transmitter being at one side and the receiver fitting over the ears similar to the "hello girl," but old-timers in the diving game scorn all of the new inventions, preferring to carry with them the least possible paraphernalia, and they cling to the use of the life line rather than be incumbered with the modern device of communication. Every jerk of the line has a meaning, and these jerks must be familiar to the tender. Mrs. Jones has learned the code of the diver, and when she feels the life line pulling once, instructs the operators of the pump to send down less air. At two jerks she bids them hasten the supply. Three jerks means "slack off the line, I would go off further." The diver is drawn up at five jerks, and ten, a signal which, happily, he has never had to use, would indicate distress. Each signal is answered by the tender, and the diver is assured that his orders are being carried out.

Jones' diving career had been some four years before his marriage insured for him a permanent "tender," not only in the perils of the water, but on the solid land as well. Before that time an old reliable one-legged salt whom the men called "Andy Anderson" was the faithful holder of the lines. With him above, Jones felt secure in his watery excursions, but one day when "Andy" was absent from his accustomed duty a chap who was rather fond of his liquor tended Jones, and from that day Mrs. Jones resolved to trust the life of her husband to no one save herself. She has since been present at every descent Jones has made, and witnessed many heroic ventures by her diver-husband.

Matter-of-Fact Attitude.

A good diver lacks, perforce, a vivid imagination, and it is with difficulty that one can get him into the mood of victims of the ruthless flood.

"Four years ago we went up to Grafton, Ill., to get the machinery from the wreck of the City of Molina. I had as near an escape then as I ever care to have. After I'd got the lines hooked to the machinery, somehow I got tangled in the wreck and was drawn under the barge and couldn't 'get up.'"

"Now, about the most dangerous thing that a diver has to face is the tangling up of his life line and air hose, for there is no chance of 'getting up' unless the life line is intact to give the signal, and—well, if the hose gets a kink in it there's no use in coming up at all. I managed to give the 'slack off,' however, and in some way got off from the wreckage so that they could haul me up—I never knew how."

take it apart, where to fasten the lines and what is worth salvage and what is not, he would better never have attempted the profession. There is always carpenter work to be done—in the mending of a dock, in the patching of a ship's keel and in innumerable other places where the under-water saw and hammer and ax and awl are active implements. Also, like the old tar, he must "know the ropes," for to be able to tie the half-hitch, the timber hitch, the square knot, the boland and half a score of others is as indispensable to the undersea workman as the knowledge of the trade itself.

Wants Deep Sea Work.

River diving is even more difficult than deep sea work because of the force of the current against which the diver must work. The clarity of the ocean water is also an aid to the mas-spinning yarns of his experiences. He will narrate with matter of fact coolness a narrow escape from death that would freeze the hearts of the most intrepid folk.

"Did you ever have a very close shave?" Jones has been asked some scores of times, and his answer is always the same: "Oh, I don't know as I have." But it is the wife who breaks in with, "Yes, he has; don't you remember last February, James, when we were working on the water works in Alton, Ill.; how the great floating cakes of ice crushed you down and pounded against your helmet until you were almost exhausted, and the sharp ice cut against the air hose until we thought every minute that it would be ripped in two?" "Yes," Jones assented. "But," he adds, with a smile at his wife, "you pulled me out all right, didn't you?"

No diver is without a vast fund of harrowing tales of sights and sounds under the water of which the landlubber has no conception. It may be his natural or acquired reticence that keeps the tales from being spread abroad or the lack of a colorful fancy such as that of Jules Verne, whose imagination could create such a tale as "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." Some stories are gathered in fragmentary bits, however, as the diver carelessly drops an incident here and there which to him is of negligible concern, but to the layman of such commanding interest.

"I was sent for after the Dayton (Ohio) flood, back in 1913," Jones narrates. "I went down to West Point, Ky., to raise a bridge that had been swept into the water. The river had brought with it so much mud that I couldn't see what I was doing, but in feeling around I came across soft floating masses that were no doubt

The last diving that Jones—and his wife—did was raising the wrecks of the two gasoline boats which were built in Chicago for light tenders in the Mexican Gulf and were set on their maiden voyage down the Mississippi last August. The voyage was an ill-fated one, for when they reached the harbor of St. Louis one of the boats caught fire and caused an explosion of her gasoline, which ignited the oil on her twin boat and sent them to an early grave in the river bed. Jones passed twenty days in raising the one, but the other had broken in two, and he left all save her machinery where it had settled in the mud.

Working under the water in the Mississippi river is, in most cases, a dry man's task, for no object is discernible in the muddy depths of the "Father of Waters," and in few seas is the sense of sight an available asset to the diver. So sensitive does the touch of the diver become that he soon grows indifferent to the handicap of opaque water and, like a blind man, soon acquires a sense of direction so that he is seldom confused. The wreck to be raised or the leak to be repaired is found, and the necessary operation performed with a total lack of sight, and at times many tools must be employed in one delicate piece of work.

The diver's knowledge of machinery, carpentry and a variety of other trades must be broad if he is successful, else the practice may as well be called a "sport" and confined to the faddist of Newport who buys every new invention thrust upon the market—and keeps them safely on the dry land, in the trophy room or neatly boxed among his pole mallet, golf sticks, hunting rifles and billiard cues.

Mechanical knowledge is necessarily displayed where there is a wreck to be hauled up, for unless the diver knows the parts of machinery, how to who must search the bottom of the sea in his assigned task. The greatest depth to which Jones has ever descended is 90 feet, but his ambitions would take him thrice the depth.

"I want to be a deep sea diver," he confessed, "and as soon as the war is ended, I am going straight to the coast—perhaps I can do my bit in bringing up some of the treasures that the German submarines have sent to the bottom of the pond."

Consistently enough, the people who have mercilessly sunk so many of our ships and valuable cargoes are the best equipped to bring them up again. They, with their "kultur" have progressed in the technology of salvage quite as far as their "kultur" has taken them in the technology of destruction, and we cannot but look with some lively interest at the inventions that they have made and successfully tested to aid the deep sea diver in his perilous work.

Notable among these inventions is the latest improvement on the original air-lock, ponderous vacuum chambers which are sunk by chains from the wrecking vessel, containing all manner of apparatus for the safety and comfort of the diver. These air locks are equipped with the telephone, cables, air hose, and a much greater variety of tools than the diver could carry about on his already 300-pound-weighted person.

An Exceptional Woman.

Magistrate—You say your wife threw a teacup and struck you on the head?

Plaintiff—Yes, your Honor.

Magistrate—How far was she away from you at the time?

Plaintiff—About ten feet.

Magistrate—What did she aim at?

Plaintiff—At me.

Magistrate—Well, all I've got to say is that you ought to be proud of a wife like that.

It really seems that the world has to be amused, whether it is fed and clothed or not.

The members of the Coterie tene-dered a farewell surprise Monday evening to Mrs. Joseph Huff, at the home of Mrs. Will Clapp, and an evening of readings, music and singing was enjoyed. Mrs. Huff leaves Thursday for her new home at Logansport.

Sam Raber and daughter, Mrs. Will Oberkiser, arrived home Tuesday from Camp Taylor, Ky., where they went to bid Mr. Oberkiser good bye. He was to have left Friday with several Whitley county boys for Camp Shelby, at Hattiesburg, Miss., but orders were countermanded at the last moment and the Whitley county boys will not be sent at least until November 3, although several are already in the south. The Whitley county boys are in Company 65, battalion 17, and Fred Yonitz, former sergeant-general of the 19th battalion, now holds the same capacity in the 17th.

Robert Heves, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Heves, of Washington township, and Miss Ruth, daughter of Mrs.
Maria Goble, of the same locality, were wedded Saturday evening, it has been learned, at the home of Rev. Elmer W. Cole, of Huntington. They will reside with the bride's mother until the groom is called to Camp Taylor with the last Whitley county contingent.

The schools of the city closed Wednesday and most of the teachers, with Supt. C. E. Spaulding, left for Indianapolis in the evening to attend the state teachers' convention. Several teachers of the county schools also at-
nesday forenoon.

Mrs. Arthur Pressler, northwest of the city, was seized with a stroke of paralysis Monday and her condition was serious for several hours. Her vitality and comparatively young age
will aid in her recovery.

The annual meeting of the Red Cross chapter, now composed of 1,526 members, was held Monday evening in the Commercial club rooms. With the exception of Mrs. Emma R. Brand, who was chosen to succeed Mrs. Lura Souder, now of Rockford, Ill., all the members of the executive committee were re-elected. The officers will be elected later. H. D. McCallen is the present president.

Complexion Lotion! Use Fresh Lemons and Strain Juice

Any grocer will sell you two fresh lemons and your drug store will supply
you with three ounces of orchard white.
Put these in a bottle and shake well.
Here you have a whole quart pint of the most wonderful lemon lotion at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams.

Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoother and beautifier.

Used by day, this sweetly fragrant lotion protects the skin from the evil effects of the weather and prevents roughness, redness, chafing and smart-
ing. At night it works in the pores while you sleep and is intended to bring a freshness and peach-like beauty that wins envy and admiration.

Just try it! Make up a quart pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion
and massage it daily into the face, neck arms and hands. It naturally helps to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It works marvelously on rough, red hands. Try it and see for yourself.—

BANQUET TONIGHT

Convocation Exercises Will Be Completed Thursday Evening.

The height of Masonic festivities will be reached Wednesday evening when the doors to the banquet chamber will be thrown open. Ninety-one candidates were initiated into the fourth to the thirteenth degrees Tuesday afternoon and in the fourteenth Tuesday evening. They will be given the twenty-first degree this evening and up to and including the thirty-second degree Thursday.

SENTINEL WANT ADS ALWAYS GET RESULTS

FAITH IN WAR CHIEF.

London, Oct. 31.—Confidence that Gen. Cadorna will be able to hold his own is felt in Italian military quarters here. The capture of Udine caused no surprise as it is pointed out the Italians evacuated Udine some days ago. The Austro-German drive, according to news dispatches received in London from Italy is as much political as military. It is pointed out that for weeks the Austrians have been inundating the Italian lines with bombs filled with tear-gas. Numbers of pamphlets of all sorts and other literature were dropped from airplanes, as well as quantities of pictures showing Italy under the power of Great Britain and France. The soldiers were urged to follow the Russian example and retreat and then a separate peace might be made.

The Ladies' Woodmen circle will give a masquerade party this evening in Vordermark's hall.

STATESMEN OF THIS NATION ARE GUESTS

Are Given a Banquet in London.

London, Oct. 29.—Thirteen representatives and two senators were the guests of honor at a dinner given this evening at the Athenaeum club by the lord high chancellor, Sir R. B. E. E. The guests included Premier Lloyd George, Foreign Minister Balfour, Ambassador Page, the archbishop of Canterbury, Viscount French, commander of the home forces, Lord Robert Cecil and the Rt. Hon. J. W. Lowther, speaker of the house of commons.

The dinner had been finished and the guests were chatting when warning of an air raid was given. Viscount French immediately left the room to be followed a few minutes later by the premier.

Senators Kendrick of Wyoming, and Kenyon of Iowa, told of their experiences on the steamer on which they crossed the Atlantic, which was attacked by a German submarine off the coast of Wales Saturday. Representative John J. Rogers of Massachusetts, and James S. Parker, of New York also were aboard the steamer. The gunners on the steamer fired several shots at the submarine which came very close to the mark. The U-boat submerged before it had time to launch a torpedo.

PRISONER SAYS GERMAN TROOPS TIRE OF STRIFE

With the American Army in France, Oct. 30.—(By The Associated Press).—"The German soldiers in the ranks are tired of war and want it to end but the officers want it to continue as they are well paid."

Such was the statement made by the first German soldier taken prisoner by the American troops in the war, whose capture and subsequent death from his wounds in an American hospital was related last night.

The prisoner, a blond youth engaged in carrying mail, talked freely after being taken to the hospital. The Ameri-

Washington, Oct. 30.—Fifty new ways to end the war were proposed daily to the war department, for that many military inventions are submitted each twenty-four hours and nearly every inventor claims his device will revolutionize warfare. Ninety-nine out of a hundred are discarded as impracticable in the war emergency, but for the sake of the possibilities in the one all are welcomed and investigated.

Some of the Devices.
Here are a few of the devices before the war department's board of ordnance and fortifications, which gives preliminary investigation to inventions for consideration today:

Polished reflectors to throw sunlight into the eyes of the enemy and blind him; elaborated slingshots for throwing bombs; land torpedoes resembling small tractor engines to run across no man's land and explode in the enemy trenches; aerial torpedoes to fly without a pilot; double shot connected by chains to onto airplane in the sky; self-propelling bombs resembling skyrockets; sabres with pistol attached to the hilt, to inflict dou-

Summary of the Day's War News

Gen. Cadorna is bending every effort to retard the forceful Austro-German advance in the Isonzo front while he effects a retirement to the strong line of the Tagliamento river. His cavalry is reported today in close touch with the enemy, who has been further hampered in this forward movement by the strong resistance of the Italian rear guards and the destruction of the bridges over the Isonzo. Spread of Smallpox

Ten thousand more Fort Wayne citizens are expected to be vaccinated as the result of the wholesale inoculation order issued by the city health board, Tuesday morning.

Workers in every shop, foundry and factory and employees of all downtown dry goods stores are to be treated against smallpox, if the latest notice from health officials is carried out.

The first statement to managers of all industrial plants and dry goods stores urges that employees be vaccinated without a formal order from the health board. In case there are refusals to the vaccination request, health officers state that there will be a definite command for inoculation later.

The notice mailed to industrial centers and store managers went out Tuesday morning as the latest stand of health officers against the smallpox epidemic, which now claims seventy victims in Fort Wayne.

Later may come orders for employees in the Five and Ten Cent stores and other large stores of the city to be vaccinated.

Nearly all school children have now been inoculated against the disease by health board order. It is expected that 20,000 vaccinations will be made by health men and family physicians before the present defensive against the smallpox is ended.

Italy Said to Have Been Corrupted Much as Russia Was.

London, Oct. 30.—Satisfaction with the decision of Great Britain and France to help the Italians is expressed by most of the morning newspapers which again urge that whatever assistance is possible must be given without delay. There is, of course, no certain indication of the exact form this help will take, but the general assumption seems to be that concrete reinforcements contributed by Great Britain and France will appear on the Italian front.

The Morning Post, however, contends that the best way of helping Italy is to keep hammering the Germans on the western front. It adds:

"A German victory over the Italians will not help them if we keep striking hard in Flanders. It is a maxim in the war never to allow the strategy to be diverted to the enemy and every move of our enemy now is to attempt to create a diversion from the western front."

Sees Treachery.

PROPAGANDA IN RESULTS OF THE LOAN CAMPAIGN

Chicago, Oct. 30.—The federal government has started an inquiry into the activities of pro-German and pacifist propaganda conducted in those districts of Illinois that failed to support the second liberty loan. Jos. B. Fleming, assistant district attorney, is in charge of the investigation. No county in Illinois fell below ten percent of its allotment, but it was said today several counties were financially able to subscribe for more than they did and apathy is ascribed to the activity of pro-Germans and peace propagandists. Attention is called to the fact that these same districts refused to aid in the Red Cross drive and were laggards in the first liberty loan.

GERMAN FORCES HAVE OCCUPIED UDINE

Rome, Oct. 30.—The Italian retreat continued yesterday, the war office announced. The Italian cavalry is in contact with the vanguards of the advancing enemy.

The Italians destroyed bridges over the Isonzo and fought rear guard actions, by which means they checked the Austro-German advance.

"During yesterday the withdrawal of our troops on their new positions was continued. Destruction of the bridges over the Isonzo, effected by our troops, and the successful action of our covering units have detained the advance of the enemy."

"Our cavalry is in contact with the hostile vanguards."

GERMANS OCCUPY UDINE.

Berlin, Oct. 30.—Udine, the former Italian headquarters, has been occupied by Austro-German forces, army headquarters announces today.

The Austrians and Germans are pressing forward irresistibly in the northern Italian plane towards the course of the Tagliamento river, the statement says. Austro-German troops advancing from the Carnic Alps have reached Venetian soil on the whole front and are pressing forward

RETAILERS WHO BOOSTED PRICE UNDER INQUIRY

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 30.—An investigation of reports that some Indianapolis retailers had raised greatly the price of substitutes for foods needed for the war is being conducted here today by Dr. H. E. Barnard, Indiana representative of the national food administration. The reports name some of the larger retailers, as well as some of the smaller ones. One report being looked into was that corn meal had increased in price in the last few days from 5 cents a pound to 10 cents a pound. According to the Indiana food administration six cents a pound is the maximum retail price that should be paid. Mr. Barnard said the investigation would be of prices charged for other foods as well as the substitutes, wherever his attention is called to what are considered "outrageous" prices.

GERMANS BUILD VAST NAME FOR ENGLISH TANKS

Washington, Oct. 30.—Thirty-five letters are required to spell the "one word" which in German is the equivalent of the four letter English "tank" or land battleship which has worked such havoc in the present war. The German word as it appears in official dispatches received here is "Schützen-grabenverrichtungsautomobile" which freely translated is "machine for suppressing shooting trenches."

INVOKE LUTHER AS JUSTIFICATION OF AUTOCRATIC FORMS

Amsterdam, Oct. 30.—On the occasion of the 400th anniversary of the Reformation, the German Evangelical league launches from Wittenberg a manifesto in which the militant sayings of Martin Luther are applied at random to present day events. The manifesto rejects pacifism and thunders against the peace proposals as being invested with no religious authorities.

The manifesto concludes: "We especially warn against the heresy promulgated from America that Christianity enjoins democratic institutions and they are an essential condition for the establishment of the kingdom of God on earth. As Luther said: 'The freedom of a Christian does not depend on the forms of government which are shaped by historical developments and the accumulated experience of nations.'"

HEALTH OFFICER IS SLAIN BY NEGRO IN OUTBURST OF FURY

Dr. F. A. Rodabaugh Hacked to Death By Strange Negro Recluse Whom He Was Investigating.

MURDERER COMMITS SUICIDE WITH GUN

(Special to The Sentinel.)
Garrett, Ind., Oct. 24.—Dr. F. A. Rodabaugh, 70-years old, city health officer, was murdered here at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon when hit in the back of the head with a hatchet by a negro named Dixon, who later committed suicide by shooting himself through the neck with a Winchester rifle.

After murdering the health officer the negro frightfully mutilated Dr. Rodabaugh's body, cutting two or three deep gashes in the head and innumerable cuts about the chest.

The murder, the most cowardly and dastardly in the history of Garrett, and suicide occurred at the boarding house of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Dorster, colored, on North Guilford street.

Dixon came to Garrett two weeks ago. He was a stranger and was not known among any of the colored population of Garrett. He went directly to the Dorster home and rented a room. After being shown to his room he barred the door securely and so far as is known had not left the room, going the entire time without a thing to eat. Knocks at the door were greeted by curses.

Investigated Few Days Ago.
Upon complaint of neighbors Dr. Rodabaugh had gone to the Dorster home to investigate sanitary conditions a few days ago. He knocked at Dixon's door, but being refused admittance and unable to break down the barred doors, made no further effort at that time.

Further complaint, however, was made by neighbors and this morning he swore out an affidavit for Dixon's arrest on the charge of resisting a health officer and accompanied by City Marshal Walter Saxer went to the Dorster house to serve it. After much persuading, Dixon finally admitted them to his room. He remained in bed all the time the officers were in the room. He seemed harmless, although refusing to leave the room.

Finally, Marshal Saxer suggested that they leave and had gone out into the hallway, thinking Dr. Rodabaugh was following him. He had no sooner reached the hallway, however, than he heard a commotion inside the room and started back in the room when the door was slammed in his face and barred. All efforts to break it in were of no avail.

Apparently when Dr. Rodabaugh turned his back on the negro to leave the room, Dixon leaped from his bed and struck him in the back of the head with the sharp edge of a hatchet, which he had concealed somewhere about the bed. The doctor's head was split wide open. Death was instantaneous.

The negro was cursing and rushing about the room like a mad man. The marshal immediately turned in an alarm of five, thinking that this would frighten him and cause him to come out.

However, the negro had no intention of giving himself up. As the fire department rushed upstairs to Dixon's room a report of a rifle was heard and all was silent inside the room. Further investigation revealed that he had shot himself through the neck.

Citizens Aroused.
Garrett citizens are greatly aroused over the affair and drastic action as regards the rapidly growing colored population of the city will be demanded of the city officials. The colored people are being brought here to work for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and many of them are of the most undesirable kind.

There is also much protest because both colored and white children are permitted to attend the same school and at a meeting held here but a short time ago the citizens demanded a separate school be provided for the colored children.

Dr. Rodabaugh had been health officer of Garrett for the past five or six years. He was highly esteemed and well known throughout this part of the state by reason of years of practice as a veterinary surgeon. He was a Mason and Knight Templar. A wife and several children survive, one son now serving his country in the army.

WOMEN ARE DISAPPOINTED

But Determined to Keep Up Suffrage Fight Until Victory is Won.

NOTHING TO DO NOW BUT SMILE

Dr. Carrie Banning Says Supreme Judges Should Be Appointed.

While Fort Wayne suffrage leaders were keenly disappointed in the decision of the Indiana supreme court in declaring woman's suffrage measure unconstitutional, they do not believe that their efforts have been in vain and are more determined than ever before to keep up the fight until victory has been won.

Statements relative to the decision were secured from a number of local suffrage leaders as follows:

Dr. Carrie Banning: The decision is a great disappointment to me. I have been a suffrage worker for a great many years. However, I feel that our work is not lost for never again can it be said that the women take no interest in politics and affairs of government. That was proven by the last registration here when there were as many women registered as men. It seems to me there is a tremendous waste of time and money in sending representatives to the legislature to pass measures only to have those measures declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. It is a pity that our supreme court judges are not appointed for a long term of years and not elected, so that they would be entirely free from political influence.

Mrs. Carolyn Fairbank, ex-president of the Indiana Federation of Clubs: The decision is a great disappointment to the women of Indiana, but they never will stop until victory has been won.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shiers: The women of the country are giving up their sons, are working in every department of the government and are doing everything that can be to help win the war. It seems to me to be no more than fair that the men should gladly give women suffrage. I think the men would feel honor bound to give women the right to vote.

Mrs. A. J. Detzer: I have nothing to say under the circumstances. There is plenty of work, but nothing to say just now.

Mrs. C. C. Warrington: We will not let the fight drop by any means.

SCHOOL BOARD ISSUES VACCINATION ORDERS

All Public School Children Must Be Innoculated by Monday.

At a meeting of the school board Friday afternoon action was taken to comply with the recent order of the health board in regard to vaccination. An order has been sent to all principals telling them to admit no pupils to school who have not been vaccinated by Monday. Children not vaccinated by Monday will be examined and if there are no signs of inoculation within the last five years admittance to classes will be refused.

Four more doctors, in addition to the previous three, have been secured to do the work. Dr. Dryer reports that any child reporting at the city hall will be vaccinated free of charge.

Albert Seibt Resigns.
Albert E. Seibt, for the last two years assistant manual training teacher in the forge and machine shop of the Fort Wayne high school, resigned his position last week and will take employment at the General Electric works. Seibt is a high school graduate, and has proven himself a workman of unusual skill in the machine and forge shops.

Fort Wayne Subscribes $3,065,450 to Liberty Loan.

Allen county will buy her quota of Liberty Bonds.

The city of Fort Wayne has subscribed $3,065,450 to the great loan. From the rural districts is expected $800,000 more. C. M. The Teddy Roosevelt team leaders announced that they have solicited 384 persons in their loan campaign.

The great drive for mustering Allen county dollars will go on over Saturday. The reports from outlying townships will not be in until Saturday afternoon.

County Commissioner William Schiwer at the head of the rural effort, announces that from his early reports he believes there will be at least $30,000 subscribed in each township of the county. This would make a total of $600,000 from the twenty townships.

Individual subscriptions which were given special mention at the Friday noon banquet, and the report of amounts from industries follows:

Barney O'Connor, $15,000; Mrs. Mary Ewing, $2,000; P. S. Macbeth, $1,950; Rothschild Bros., $5,000; Clyde Dumbley, $10,000; R. L. Loney, $2,000; Irene Dunkelberg, $1,500; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Summers, $4,300; Frank Morsches, $2,000; General Electric Co., $205,000; Pennsylvania employees, $151,000; Wayne Knitting Mills, $120,000; S. Co., $18,000; Perfection Biscuit Co., $18,000.

Much Excitement.
Enthusiasm marked every period of the Friday noon luncheon. Each announcement brought a round of cheering. The grand opening was in the form of the entrance of a jazz band, an organization of creoles appearing at the Palace this week.

The balcony of the auditorium was half filled with men and women visitors on the closing day of the banquet series. They joined in each outburst of applause.

It was voted that a booklet in the form of a roll of honor, giving the names of principal loan subscribers and loan workers in the county be made up. C. H. Worden will send the pamphlet to President Woodrow Wilson.

A special vote of thanks was tendered the young women of the Red Cross organization who have aided in the serving work, under the direction of Mrs. Robert W. Fowler.

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!
With force that shook the auditorium the men and women joined in singing "Send Old Kaiser Bill to Hell," which was rendered to the tune of that well known marching song, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching." The words of the song follow:

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!
The girls are marching With Old Kaiser leading on;
We will bring the nation's gold,
Till the Kaiser's staff and cold
And the Hohen-Zollerns all are dead and gone.

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!
The boys are marching
Uncle Sammy's purse to fill;
You can bet we'll do it well,
Send old Kaiser Bill to hell,
It will be a dose that cannot help-but kill.

In answer to repeated calls, Mrs. R. W. Fowler mounted the platform and led in singing "Over There," the song which has become the most popular of the numbers sung at the banquets. Every man and woman helped swell the chorus.

Aged Man Buys Bond.
One of the fine examples of loyalty to democracy was the purchase of a $50 bond on Thursday by John Springer, 92, who served seven years in the German army and who came to this country when a middle aged man. He called his nephew, George Springer, to the bedside where the aged man has been confined for several weeks.

To the young man, who is a liberty bond salesman, he said: "I want to show the folks that I am a citizen of the United States and especially a citizen of Pleasant township."

It was with difficulty that the enraptured man wrote his signature to a bond subscription slip.

CITY LIGHT BOOSTS LOAN

Puts $20,000 Into Fund for Throtting Kaiser's War Dreams.

FORT WAYNE HAS PUT $202,000 INTO BONDS

Coliseum Fund and Light Margin Are Standing Back of Democracy.

This city light department bought $20,000 worth of Liberty bonds Saturday morning.

The amount which the city administration has put back of the cause of democracy represents the entire margin of the light department funds.

Fort Wayne as a city government now has $202,000 in the liberty war on the side of the forces of liberty. The city coliseum fund of $18,000 was put into the first Liberty loan.

Mayor W. J. Hosey brought up the matter of using the city light margin for helping Uncle Sam win the war as soon as the present loan campaign was opened. There was some doubt as to whether or not the money could be taken at this time.

After a careful study of the situation City Attorney Guy Colerick reported to the mayor and works board Friday night that all available money could legally be taken for war bonds. Accordingly the purchase of $20,000 worth of bonds was made on Saturday morning, assuring the gaining of the loan quota for Allen county.

In the city light treasury at present is $116,000. Contract for the purchase of turbines, boilers, stokers and other equipment for the lighting plant to the total of $100,000 have been let by the city. Since deliveries of the engines and installing of apparatus cannot be carried on by the contractor until next spring, the light managers are sure that $20,000 can be invested in Liberty bonds without impairing the financial safety of the light department.

City Attorney Colerick held that $20,000 could be taken from the fund now at hand since the income of the light plant makes sure the renewing of the margin by next spring. He held that $20,000 was the maximum amount which could be invested with safety. The money was invested at once and much to the joy of Liberty loan workers.

POLICE COURT HOLDS INTERESTING SESSION

Shepard-Davis Case Develops Into Long Drawn Out Affair.

What promises to be the longest session held for a long time in the police court was started Saturday morning. The case of Charles Shepherd and Harold Davis, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. Much evidence was called in connection with the case Saturday morning and the preliminaries had hardly been started before the noon hour. Court was again called at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, but at a late hour no verdict had been issued.

It appears as if Shepherd, the older of the pair, will be discharged, either unwittingly or through deep foresight, he neither did the talking whilst the soliciting was going on nor did he endorse any of the checks. The men obtained $25 in all, but the specific charge is for obtaining $15 from the Corrugated Paper company.

Doem't Like Rain.
Frank Jackson evidently doesn't like to get wet on the outside, although he is not so particular about the inside.

While drunk Friday, Jackson spent an evening raincoat hanging in front of a clothing store. He appropriated the article and was well on his way when hailed up by Officer Smith. In court Jackson explained that he never stole unless he was drunk. The court advised him not to get drunk and assessed a fine of $20 and costs with an additional thirty days' labor on public highways.

A Kind Soul.
Ralph Streibig is a kind soul. Although he does not smoke himself he appropriated some cigars from his friends. When found Streibig was in a house that bore a scarlet fever sign. He entered a plea that he was drunk at the time of the theft, but the officers testified otherwise. As this is his second offense he was given $10 and costs and thirty days' labor on public highways.

Other Police Court Cases.
Matt Penning, a drunk, was given $1 and costs, while Frank Merson, another drunk, had his case continued until November 2. Charles Dennis and Nick Pops, charged with loitering, had their cases continued indefinitely. Albert Johnson was too drunk to be tried and had his case continued. He went about his spree in a grand style, running up a $10 taxi bill in the course of the evening.

LOAN FLOOD $3,440,400.

Mounting Figures of Allen County Help Engulf Plutocracy.

WOMEN OF CITY HAVE COLLECTED $200,150

Fort Wayne Over Subscribes But Farmers Fall Down.

Allen county has gathered $3,440,400 for the mounting flood of dollars which is to sweep away the Hohenzollern war hopes. Every bank window in Fort Wayne is a source through which the stream of gold and silver is flowing to wards that deluge of dollars which is to crush ruthlessness and autocracy.

Hundreds of dollars which are not included in the total of $3,440,400 were subscribed through Fort Wayne banks on Saturday.

Allen county will subscribe more than $4,000,000, said C. H. Worden, president of the First and Hamilton National bank, city leader in the campaign for the second Liberty loan.

To the amount now at hand is to be added probably $750,000 or more which banks of Fort Wayne will turn in by Saturday night. More money will come from the rural districts. Many factory reports are incomplete and have reported much less than their full subscription.

"I expect the outlying townships to subscribe $500,000," said William Schiwer, head of the rural campaign, Saturday noon, when full reports had been turned in from a part of the townships and only verbal announcements made from others.

"Considering the banking resources of Fort Wayne and the rural districts of Allen county, I can say that Fort Wayne has over subscribed her quota of the liberty loan," said C. H. Worden Saturday.

As much cannot be said for the rural districts of the county, where the response has caused much despondency among loan boosters.

From the farms of the county, which are estimated as representing at least one-fourth of the capital of Allen county, will come about one-eighth of the loan fund of the county. Figures to date show that Fort Wayne has raised $3,103,450 for the loan and all the rest of the county has invested $337,950 in war bonds. In some townships the results are termed "pitiful" by loan workers.

Liberty loan boosters have called attention to the fact that shop and factory labor has borne a grand share of the loan burden. In some of the townships where the foreign-born workers could not understand English, and yet listened to the speeches of the loan boosters, the men subscribed for bonds to amounts which have placed many land owners to shame.

Rural Figures.
Following are the sums turned in by rural loan workers at noon Saturday. In many cases there are no reports yet available and in most instances the records are incomplete:

Township.	Am't. Sub.
Abbots.	$19,050
Adams.	23,550
Cedar Creek.	23,550
Jackson.	10,700
Jefferson.	25,800
Monroe.	30,000
Lafayette.	16,300
Lake.	17,850
Madison.	40,500
Hogland.	18,000
Marion.	8,500
Marmes.	no rept
Milan.	9,450
Perry.	34,200
Pleasant.	26,350
St. Joe.	12,500
Scioto.	5,300
Springfield.	36,800
Washington.	no rept
Wayne.	9,050

It is only fair to the rural communities to state that in many cases the amount reported here will be at least doubled. William Schiwer states that he believes the average will be $25,000 to a township.

No Report.
Team captains of Fort Wayne did not make a report on Saturday. There is no way of knowing, at this time, the amounts they have gathered since Friday noon. Harry Hogan, in charge of the city teams, expects a full report by Monday.

"I think the added amount will be a goodly sum," said Harry Hogan, whose work as director of the city effort has been one of the inspirations of the campaign. "All the men are staying on the job to the last minute. Every man has done himself proud."

To the Friday total is added $400, taken in at the liberty loan headquarters, $18,000 gathered by the women since Friday and $20,000 subscribed by the city light department on Saturday morning.

Wonderful Work.
Too much tribute cannot be paid to the women of Fort Wayne who raised more than $200,000 for the liberty loan. The ten workers on the two women teams have been at the task early and late during every day of the week. It must be recorded to their credit that the territory allotted to them was the residence districts of the city and that most of their contributions were from women.

The grand total from the Clara Barton team, led by Mrs. C. J. Shoo, is $117,200. Of that amount $9,700 has been subscribed since noon on Friday. Fifty-two new subscriptions were gained by the team since Friday.

The Betsy Ross team, headed by Mrs. A. S. Bowser, has collected $82,950 during the campaign. Since Friday noon, $3,950 have been collected. The grand total of the two teams is $22,150.

The report from the women's booths turned in to Mrs. C. B. Crankshaw at noon, Saturday, follows:
Round Table club—Wolf & Desauer, $1,800.
Saturday club—Gates store, $9,700.
Morning Reading club—Rurode's, $16,750.
Twentieth Century club—Rurode's, $4,250.
Liberty club—Anthony hotel, $5,700.

Mothers' club—Steele-Myers, $6,850. Mrs. H. E. Crane and helpers—Tepper's $7,200.

Needle Work Guild—Y. W. C. A., $2,500.

Both the Mothers' club and the Mrs. H. E. Crane workers solicited 44 subscriptions.

Praises Helpers.
"I cannot say enough for the women who have so loyally carried out the soliciting work," said Mrs. J. B. Crankshaw, head of the women's effort in Allen county. "Their work has surpassed all hopes. When one considers the territory assigned to them, that of the residence district, and the fact that nearly all amounts were small, it adds heroic renown to their work."

Below Quota.
Leaders in the Liberty loan effort in Cedar Creek township report to the central committee that their district fell at least $20,000 below what should have been the quota in that township. Cedar Creek township subscribed $23,200 to the great loan.

Members of the soliciting committee have made a personal investigation of the cause of the apparent lack of interest in the loan, they report. They state that few members of the Mennonite church in that township have contributed to the war fund.

Ministers of the Mennonite church have frankly told the loan workers that they believe the canons of their church do not sanction the aiding of war forces in any way. When visited by the committee the Mennonite ministers quoted such scripture to support their stand of inaction on the bond call.

"Did you preach against the liberty loan, as has been reported?" one of the Cedar Creek township ministers was asked.

"I can only give my view of the question," was his answer. "I do not direct the steps of my brothers in this matter."

Three of the young men of the Mennonite church in Cedar Creek township subscribed for liberty loans after they had been told that their present exemption from service, because of agricultural and religious reasons, might be revoked if they refused to aid the government financially.

IT OFTEN HAPPENS IN HIGH ART REALMS

Success of High School Work Depends Upon a Touch of Type.

What was the delicate touch which gave the soulful expression to the "Mona Lisa," that matchless work of art?

Masters of the brush have pondered long over this question. Through all the years they have never found its answer.

Finished artists know that a last faint tracery may make or unmake a painting. It may be only a touch of color or a short lived line which brings success or failure to the work.

In every branch of art it is the meaning of the little touches, intangible tricks of the highest trade, which fascinates and holds those who understand. Often times the craftsmen themselves differ upon the probable effect of a flick of pigment in bringing out the soul of an artistic production.

Something of this sort of professional differing seems to hold the leaders of the staff of The Caldron, the Fort Wayne high school publication.

Should the numbering of the pages be enclosed in parentheses or brackets? While the page numerals appear, in true modest and artistic fashion, at the bottom of the printed leaf, yet there is the understanding that every part of the publication must aid in expressing the exacting impressions portrayed in the body of the book.

Howard Shambaugh, editor-in-chief of The Caldron, holds for brackets as lending the finest shade of meaning to the numerals. William Moellering, business manager of the publication, feels certain that parentheses would best bring out the dainty suggestion desired.

When the heads of the two departments could not agree, after hours of discussion, a meeting of the senior class was called to decide the matter, Thursday. The vital question of the parentheses and brackets was placed squarely before the class.

The drawn out debate, in which every angle and curve of the figure lines was carefully considered, finally resolved itself into a misunderstanding as to whether the editor-in-chief, who governs the literary success of the magazine, or the business manager, who holds the financial prosperity of the work, should have the supreme power.

There was a touch of bitterness in a few of the remarks which followed. A committee of five seniors was finally appointed to fathom this question. A report of the findings is expected in a few days. Meantime the senior class leaders are not giving all their attention to prosaic and unclassical assignments in dry history and language books.

Y. W. C. A. HOLD WAR WORK CONFERENCES

Six Local Women Delegated to Attend Convention at Chicago.

The Y. W. C. A., realizing the part that women must play in the present world war, have arranged to hold four large war work conferences next week to make plans for the part that they will take. These conferences will be held in St. Louis, Pittsburg, Atlanta and Chicago. Each of the Y. W. C. A. chapters will send delegates to one of these conferences.

Fort Wayne will send six delegates to the Chicago conference, which will be held next week. The delegates chosen are Margaret E. Paul, Mossman, George Evans, Fred J. Thomsen, A. H. Perfect, May Jewel Smith and A. S. Hunting. Among the notable speakers who will be present at this meeting will be Mrs. John R. Mock, Mrs. Mable Carpy and Mrs. James Cushman, of New York.

STEAL AWAY AND MARRY

Nickel Plate Watchman Marries Nickel Plate Watchwoman

HE'S TWENTY-FIVE SHE IS FORTY-TWO

Petition Now Pending in Circuit Court to Declare Him Insane.

Dudley W. Weber, 25 years old, Nickel Plate watchman at the Columbia street crossing, and Mrs. Clara Kruse, 42 years old, Nickel Plate watchwoman at the Clay street crossing, were married Thursday by Rev. Louis DeLamar at Hilldale, Mich.

The two crossings are a block apart and the two became infatuated soon after Mrs. Kruse began to stand sentinel at the Clay street crossing. The love-making was carried on between trains, or rather it might be better understood to say the love-making was carried on while there were no trains in sight.

Some days ago leaves of absence were given the couple by Nickel Plate officials and without telling relatives or friends, they went to Hilldale, Mich., where they were married at the Methodist parsonage.

A few days ago a petition was filed in the probate court by James Weber, 1509 Boone street, brother of the bridegroom, asking that Dudley W. Weber be declared of unsound mind. Weber is said to own considerable property. Mrs. Weber lives at 1411 East Washington street and is the mother of four children by a former marriage.

Richard K. Gramling and Miss Dorothy L. Chittenden, both of DeKalb county, Indiana, were also married by Rev. DeLamar, Thursday.

MARRIED SIXTY-EIGHT YEARS.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Owens celebrated their sixty-eighth wedding anniversary Sunday, with a number of relatives and friends as guests. They were married in Randolph county, at Union Chapel church, October 21, 1849, and came to this city in 1853, where they have been continuous residents since. Mr. Owens, who is eighty-nine years old, is a civil war veteran. He was wounded in the service, and his blindness of the last several years is attributed to this wound. He formerly was treasurer of Randolph county. Mrs. Owens is eighty-eight.

SMALLPOX AT DECATUR.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 24.—Elijah Walters, well-known civil war veteran of First street, who has been ill for several days, is said to be suffering from smallpox and the house is quarantined. Mr. Walters' grandson, Audley Moser, who resides next door, is recovering from the disease contracted from a cousin who came here from Fort Wayne, where he had been boarding at the Quincey Higginbotham home, which was later contacted from a tramp who begged for shoes and tried on a pair which he found too small and didn't take.

PAY ROLL $11,000.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 24.—E. K. Sottergin, superintendent of the H. C. Bay Piano company, stated today that the pay roll for last Saturday night—the 20th—for the thirteen days' work amounted to a little over $11,000, seven hundred dollars of which was sent to Chicago to men working on some special machinery. The factory has now 233 on the pay roll and is still doing some night work. Fifteen instruments are being shipped out each day, 90 per cent of which are player pianos. The factory surely is doing big business and is a wonderful help to the whole county.

FARM SOLD.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 24.—David Meyer and Bruce Williamson have sold a farm of 160 acres located south-east of Bluffton, which they recently had recorded as the "Broadacres Farm," and the purchaser is Charles H. Weakley, of Lexington, Ill., who expects to move onto the place. The price paid was $180 per acre, a total of $28,800. The present tenant of the farm is Charles Dubach. Mr. Weakley is to be given possession in the spring.

TELEPHONE GIRLS.

At Huntington Push Sale of Liberty Bonds.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 26.—Every person using the telephone here today was greeted with these words, spoken with the sweetness that only a telephone operator can put into her voice: "Buy a Liberty bond—number please." From 7 o'clock this morning until 6 o'clock was the order for the continuance of the practice, and before 8 o'clock nearly everybody in town had learned that Alfred L. Greenman, manager of the company, and every operator in his employ were boosting Uncle Sam's bond sale. It meant much more work for the operators, and the company's kitchen, came into use. Hot coffee, sandwiches and apples were served from the kitchen all day to the operators at the expense of the management.
Mr. Greenman thought of the plan last night when he went to his home and was reading the evening paper, telling of the bond sales. He talked it over with his wife, and Mrs. Greenman said she believed in the interest of the government and the boys at the front, and the operators would be glad to do their bit.
The public took the new order gracefully, and the girls remained sweet all day in spite of the extra work. As far as known here it is the first time any telephone company has tried such a scheme of advertising Liberty bonds.

RECIPE FOR "WAR BUTTER."

One Pound Made to Produce Two and One-Fourth Pound.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 26.—J. W. Caswell, principal owner of the Caswell-Runyan company, and president of the Commercial association, is setting an example for Huntington county people by using "war butter." The butter is made from cream, butter and it yields two and one-fourth pounds for every pound of butter used. Following is the recipe:
"To each pound of butter use one pint of rich milk; one tablespoon of gelatin, one tablespoon of salt. Cream the butter as for cake (squeezing it through the hands). Dissolve the gelatin in a little milk. Heat the rest of the milk to the boiling point, then pour over gelatin (as for pudding) and stir until thoroughly mixed. When about lukewarm—warm as new milk—pour slowly over the creamed butter (to which has been added the salt) and beat with an egg beater until well mixed smooth and thick. Take a spoon and ladle on a plate, and as you do this each spoonful will set, piling up into firm butter."
The butter is used on the Caswell table and for every other purpose except frying.

MAKES FIRST FLIGHT.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 24.—Ben I. Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Butler, now at the preliminary aeronautical school at Ohio State college, at Columbus, Ohio, made his first flight as a passenger Sunday, October 13. The flight was made at Dayton, Ohio, with Lieutenant M. G. Sharpe, a friend of Butler's at DePauw university. Sharp graduated recently from the school at Columbus.

OVER HALF SUBSCRIBED.

ARM TAKEN OFF.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 25.—Arthur, aged about 18 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Butler, of West Monroe street, was the victim of a very bad accident at the sugar factory when his left arm was caught in a white sugar centrifugal machine, fracturing and tearing it so that it was found necessary to amputate the arm about four inches below the shoulder.

HOWARD COLLINS DEAD.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 25.—Howard Collins, 28, died at the home of his father, Wesley Collins, one mile east and a half mile south of Reiffsburg, in Nottingham township, about 9:45 o'clock this morning. Death was due to tuberculosis of the spine, from which he had been a sufferer for some time.

HERE'S A PATRIOT.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 26.—There is said to be a farmer not far from Hartford City who has not sold his wheat for three years. There may be others over the country. Sooner or later the local councils of defense will have these men all spotted. This Blackford county man did not have to go to war. He has bought no Liberty Bonds. As a citizen this man may be considered by Uncle Sam as a liability and not an asset. He certainly has shown no patriotism. Do you know of others? If you do now is the time to report the names to the council of defense. This is no time for holding up wheat or anything else. Prices are high enough and there is no excuse for holding large quantities of farm products. It is the poor man who is the hardest pinched.

WOMAN, 95, HOLDS BOND.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 26.—Probably the oldest Liberty Loan bondholder in Hartford City or Blackford county is Mrs. Sarah Allen, age ninety-five, mother of Dr. Ella Hollis, who in addition to knitting for the Red Cross and other wise aiding in war work, has shown her patriotism and good business judgment by investing in Liberty bonds.

His body was carried for almost half a mile on the pilot of the engine.

Death was instantaneous, as his skull was crushed, one arm and one leg broken and his face badly disfigured.

The decedent, who was making his daily delivery of mail, had stopped his automobile at the railroad crossing while a westbound freight train was passing, and then drove onto the tracks in front of the passenger train. Mail, consisting mostly of newspapers and magazines, was scattered along the railroad right-of-way for considerable distance.

HONORS ITS PRESIDENT

State Federation of Clubs Suspends Rules to Allow Vote by Proxy.

MRS. FAIRBANK ILL AND NOT PRESENT

Convention is Voting by Ballot for Officers of Federation.

The Indiana Federation of Clubs did an unprecedented thing at the Thursday morning session when by unanimous vote, of the delegates the rules were suspended in order that the ballot of its president, Mrs. Carolyn R. Fairbank, of Fort Wayne, for federation officers might be cast by proxy.

Mrs. I. N. Taylor, Fort Wayne, chairman of the credentials committee, made the request of the convention after being granted the privilege of addressing the convention by the presiding officer, Mrs. E. C. Rumpel.

Mrs. Taylor made a brief but eloquent appeal in behalf of Mrs. Fairbank, who has been very ill for months, but whose heart and interest are still with the organization to which she has devoted time and strength for two years, when she held up the absent president's credentials card and asked for a dismissal of rules and regulations for this once to permit the vote of the president to be cast by proxy.

A wave of emotion swept through the convention and the hundreds of delegates responded unanimously to the appeal and voiced assent. Mrs. E. C. Rumpel, first vice-president, cast the vote.

Voting for Officers.
Voting according to the Australian ballot system for the officers to serve the federation the coming year is proceeding all day and new interest in the election of a president has arisen owing to the withdrawal of her name by Mrs. O. B. Jameson, thus leaving Mrs. Edward Franklin White, Indianapolis, and Mrs. John Edward Moore, Kokomo, the remaining candidates.

Mrs. Jameson withdrew her name late in the afternoon on Wednesday and intimated her favor for Mrs. Moore. Miss Vida Newsom, of Columbus, also withdrew as a candidate for the vacancy as trustee, thus leaving the way clear for Mrs. Arthur T. Cox, of East Chicago. Aside from the presidency the only race lies between Mrs. Fred H. McCulloch, of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Sara Messing Stern, of Terre Haute, for the office of federation secretary.

Naturally delegates from this city as well as many friends throughout the state favor Mrs. McCulloch, but Mrs. Stern has had valuable experience in federation work that makes her a powerful opponent. Mrs. Stern is just closing her second year as a member of the credentials committee, she was treasurer two years and is a member of the committee on revision of the constitution the past year.

The Candidates.

The line-up for election is as follows:
President—Mrs. Edward Franklin White, Indianapolis; Mrs. John Edward Moore, Kokomo.

First Vice-President—Mrs. E. C. Rumpel, Indianapolis.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. William W. Reed, Warsaw.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Blanche Sargent Boruff.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Imogene Taft Lesh, Muncie.

Treasurer—Mrs. William Morris, Frankfort.

General Federation Secretary—Mrs. Frederick H. McCulloch, Fort Wayne; Mrs. Sara Messing Stern, Terre Haute.

Auditor—Mrs. A. W. Roach, Richmond.

Trustee—Mrs. Arthur T. Cox, East Chicago.

Late Wednesday Sessions.
The afternoon and evening of Wednesday were crowded with successful things of the big program arranged for the convention. An unusually scholarly address of the day was on "Tendencies and Influence in Literature of Our Times," by William E. Smyser, dean of Ohio Wesleyan university. Prof. Smyser reviewed the writings of the Victorian age whose influence had been most powerful, paying high tribute to many and leaving Rudyard Kipling to the last in order to call attention not only to the poet's ability in force, beauty and description but to the deeper quality of the spiritual and his great conservatism in his writings of the principles of life, hope and duty, and that of obedience, Kipling's great doctrine.

Following Prof. Smyser, the chairman introduced Earl H. Reed of Chicago. Mr. Reed is the artist whose etchings of The Dunes are attracting so much attention. Mr. Reed spoke with certainty and beauty of his subject, asking the club women to give attention to the preservation of nature's gift to this part of the country and its value to the people and the government.

Evening a Brilliant Event.
The gathering at the Anthony hotel last evening was the scene of brilliance and patriotism. American flags predominated in decorations, but the flags of the allies were also used with good effect. Covers for the banquet at 7 o'clock were laid for 500 people and the number required the use of the ballroom, the mezzanine floor and one long table in the main dining-room.

Mrs. James M. Fowler, of Lafayette, chairman of the program committee, presided and introduced the speakers of the evening, who were Miss Grace Parker, of New York city, and Mrs. Thomas Winter, of Minneapolis. Musical numbers were furnished by Mrs. Marian Andrews Rogers, soprano, and Mrs. Florence Robinson Cleary, contralto, with Mrs. D. F. Urbahn and Miss Emel Verweir accompanists.

The addresses were of a high order from every standpoint of merit. Mrs. Winter is a delightful speaker, witty, clever and sympathetic. Her address on "Getting Middle-Aged" made many excellent points for the consideration of women who are in that period of their lives or approaching it, and was extremely entertaining.

Miss Parker's stirring plea, "The Big thing before us now is the National League for Woman's Service, talked on the "Woman Power of a Nation in War Time." Miss Parker spent three months in England, and spoke from first-hand knowledge and experience.

Miss Parker told of how this country must prepare to face its crisis, also, and not let it find us unprepared. She told of the need of canteen service for our soldiers, who must be fed as they are transferred from post to post; of how her own brother said they were nearly starved while going from Fort Benjamin Harrison to Fort Monroe; of how the soldiers in camp must be surrounded by wholesome influences and how one of them had come to New York asking to be enabled to meet some decent women, as he had not seen women like his mother and sister since he had been in camp; how homesick the boys are; how they want the true type of womanhood and not the fluff ruffles type of girl; of the "At Home" club which had been formed for boys, and the Comrade club for girls, and how the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are working to bring the young people together in the right way. She told of the motor service division for which women are training, one such division in Atlanta, Ga., going on duty to relieve a situation brought about by a devastation from a great fire, doing rescue work from 4 p. m. one day until 12 the next.

She also told of how women clerical workers are needed for census taking. "It is a spiritual war that we are fighting," said Miss Parker, "and a spiritual principle that we are fighting to establish."

Credentials' Report.
Of the routine business before the convention the report of the credentials committee was the most important this morning. This report was presented by Mrs. I. N. Taylor, chairman. Statistics of general interest are: Officers present, 89; honorary members, 4; chairmen of committees, 25; district chairmen, 89; district delegates, 309; total delegates, 379; total of registered visitors, 51. Naturally the Twelfth and Thirteenth districts led in number of delegates present.

Addresses of the day were made by Mrs. Frederick Schoff, of Philadelphia, president of the National Congress of Mothers' and Parent-Teachers' associations, Mrs. Isaac Born, Indianapolis, on Americanism.

Resolution of Sympathy.
One of the resolutions adopted during the presentation of the resolution of the committee was the expression of sympathy for Mrs. C. B. Fairbank, whose inability to occupy the president's chair, has been a source of deep regret to the delegates who have well appreciated her service and devotion during the past two years.

At the department of conservation program, which is in order all day, Mrs. L. S. Fickensher, South Bend, chairman, reports were read by Mrs. Albert Fellows Bacon, Evansville; Mrs. A. L. Randall, Fort Wayne; Mrs. Blanche L. Utz, New Albany; Mrs. Frank J. Sheehan, Gary; Mrs. O. C. Crocker, Indianapolis; Mrs. Gaylord Crozier, Madison, and Mrs. Walter B. Christopher, Mishawaka.

In referring to her visit in England Miss Parker remarked tersely of the changed conditions she found upon landing in England; of dimly lighted landings and streets; of the multitude of avenues of work into which the women had gone, in order to stand back of the boys in the trenches. She spoke of the leveling of social castes, and the working shoulder to shoulder of women who had never known any hardships or work in their lives before, but who had forgotten all non-essentials in their realization of the needs of the hour, and their desire and duty to help to the utmost; of thousands upon thousands who are working in the Red Cross rooms; of the voluntary aid detachments which had been in training since 1909, and had proved the only organization ready to help when the war broke out; of the wonderful canteen service, worked in three-day shifts of eight hours each, serving in three days nearly 40,000 returning soldiers who needed food on their way to hospitals for treatment; of how the men in the trenches, finding themselves all unprepared before German preparedness, had turned to Christ for help and had received it; of how the god of materialism which had been worshipped did not satisfy in time of trouble; of how churches of all denominations were packed at every service, and the people were turning to God and to religion as never before.

One of the most important addresses of the convention was given by Prof. Mary L. Matthews, state director of home economics at Purdue university, on Wednesday night. Professor Matthews' subject was "The Relation of Club Women to the Food Administration," and she remarked in beginning that women had not forgotten conservation, but she would place emphasis on certain points that will be better realized as the war continued. The subject is one of education and even the most willing and earnest of home heads the suggestion and help of other women, even though she may be able to give helpful suggestions herself now and then.

Then Professor Matthews gave reasons why it is necessary to conserve food and among them the reason why women of this country must use corn meal and thus help to save wheat. "Women ask why we do not send corn to France for the French to eat," said Professor Matthews, and continued:

"France has no milling facilities for making corn into the proper kind of food, and if we send corn meal it is not in proper condition to use when it gets there. In France baking is a big item, and it is difficult to have baking done in a public oven and delivered to the consumer. Why ask a French woman who may have a wounded soldier to care for to stop this important work and learn about our corn products?"

"France is not producing nearly the food she needs; England is not producing anywhere near the food she must have. Some of the neutral countries, Switzerland and Norway, are only producing about one-third of the foods they are going to use, so the women are not interested so much in food production, but in the proper utilization after it is produced."

"The food administration is asking the women to conserve this food and help care for it in the very best possible way, because we must send an added supply abroad; so we are asked to be a little more economical and a little less extravagant. We find many women have been canning and canning, and they seem to think to them conservation has ceased, but I think that it has just begun. Canning is but a small part of the work we must do."

"The big thing before us now is planning the best kind of meals. We must plan our meals intelligently. We are told that we eat too much and we know that we do, and many of us are planning our meals just as we always did. If we knew more about food values we could save by using substitute foods. It would be a good plan for every club to spend one or two afternoons discussing the proper use of food."

GARRETT MAN SAYS HE DID NOT MURDER GIRL

Q. C. Dieschley Arrested at the Home of His Mother, Mrs. Prouty.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Garrett, Ind., Oct. 25.—Sheriff William Whitney, of Ellettsville, Ohio, and Detective William Burns, of Chicago, who have been in this city since Monday evening, searching for Q. C. Dieschley, suspected of the murder of Mary Koehner, a 14-year-old school girl of Lorain, Ohio, found him Wednesday afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. Samuel Prouty, three miles and a half north of this city. Dieschley has been employed on the Baltimore & Ohio in the capacity of detective. He was arrested by County Sheriff Frank Baltz and taken to the jail at Auburn.

Dieschley came to Garrett, Monday evening and registered at the Ueber hotel under his own name. Tuesday he was about town the greater part of the day. The warrant for his arrest arrived here Tuesday evening. When arrested he claimed to know nothing about the crime.

The story of the murder for which he is held as a suspect is that Mary Koehner was on her way home from school. Her route took her along a path at the edge of a woods. Dieschley's beat or patrol duty was past this strip of woods. "The girl was caught and dragged to the woods where all the clothing was torn from her body and after accomplishing his crime bound and gagged the girl with her clothing and left her, death finally being caused by suffocation."

Less than a week before another girl was attacked near the same place but survived the attack. Dieschley will be taken back to Lorain today and taken before the girl who was first assaulted. Whether he is the guilty man or not remains to be seen, but from portions of conversation heard among the four detectives who were here working on the job it seems that they have a bunch of evidence against him.

Detective Burns feels sure he has the right man, although he is the fifth man arrested as a suspect. Burns has evidence to prove that Dieschley had cuffed a young girl in a hotel at Cumberland, Me., about two weeks previous to the Koehner murder. Dieschley is suspected of being implicated in three such crimes and if found guilty will no doubt get what is coming to him. He is 27 years old and single.

SECOND LIBERTY LOAN.

It will be near the end of the week before anything definite can be known respecting the result of the second Liberty Loan campaign, but enough detail has been gathered to justify expectation that the full amount of the maximum desired has been subscribed.

It even is thought that the complete returns from all over the United States and from its outlying territories will carry the total beyond the five billion goal that was set as the farther mark. It will be the hope of all loyal people in this country that this may turn out to be true and more than merely true. An excess over the maximum would be a splendid commentary upon the American spirit for the great task in hand. It would be a happy offset against the disasters that have overtaken the Italian arms. It would be a solemn notice to the kaiser that he is fighting resources against which he cannot endure.

The second Liberty Loan, at all events, is a substantial success. Much more than the minimum amount at this time required is safely on the books. The next war loan will go better, we believe. The people by now ought to have a pretty clear understanding of what government bonds are and the advantage of owning them. A year hence and there will be little or no difficulty floating a three-billion-dollar loan. So far the war bonds subscribed by the American people aggregate about one-twelfth of their annual income. That is not touching the common resources very hard nor going into the general pocket very deeply. Those who buy bonds save money and money saved is wealth conserved.

Issuing war bonds will have to go on for a long time and in unprecedented volume before the process begins to pinch the people. We are too well off, too busy and making too much to feel the fifteen or twenty billions the first year will require.

AROUND THE TOWN WITH HOSEY—A 3.

The feeble defense that is set up for Candidate Cutshall as having four years ago sought to attach himself to the oncoming Hosey administration serves only to confuse and confound the republican mayoralty nominee. Mr. Cutshall would have done much better to interdict explanations in his behalf and permit his singular epistle to speak for itself, which it continues and will continue to do in its own way to the inevitable point in stubborn despite of all undertakings to illuminate it.

It is painful, of course, to many of Mr. Cutshall's friends to learn that four years ago he had silently and secretly committed himself to the cause of Mayor Hosey, whereas it was reasonably supposed and implicitly believed that he had joined his support to the independent movement. No one thought otherwise and no one had occasion from Mr. Cutshall to believe otherwise. Repeating what we already have said as to this, Mr. Cutshall had indefeasible right to do that and, having done that, was not only within his further right but was acting quite within propriety in asking the mayor-elect to appoint him to office. It is not that he had done this thing, but that he had provided himself with occasion and defense for doing this thing, that is now painful and shocking to his friends and bitter to the taste of his entire political party, leadership and mass.

Mr. Cutshall's organ says there was nothing wrong or improper in the fact that Mr. Cutshall sought office under Mayor Hosey. Of certitude there was not. Mr. Cutshall had governed his conduct and action in the campaign and at the polls in such wise as that he went to Mr. Hosey with some justice of claim.

That is not the thing at all. His conduct and action were secret at the time and their concealments were never stripped off until a few days ago. Meanwhile, Mr. Cutshall had organized his mayoralty campaign in the republican party. He drew about him the most aggressive and impeccable of standpats. He raced on the ground of a tested and unimpeachable loyalty. He won his nomination as a republican whose record was blameless and without flaw. He is seeking election as a republican who in loyalty yields to none. Yet at the very close of his campaign the bar sinister is drawn across his shield. What are republicans who set great store by loyalty and devotion to make of that? Does Mr. Cutshall suppose, do his managers suppose, can anyone suppose that had it been disclosed in the beginning of March instead of at the end of October Mr. Cutshall, four years ago seeking a continuance of his political fortunes, had deserted his colors, turned renegade and skeddaddled by night into the Hosey camp, there would have been any possibility of his nomination?

The republican party of Fort Wayne has a right to require Mr. Cutshall to submit explanations that will explain. Mr. Cutshall's organ has a right to demand explanations of Mr. Cutshall's base betrayal of it in gaining the doubtful if not fatal boon of its support after having assisted to drive it mad with "Hoseyism"—whatever that is. These matters do not in any wise concern us. We cite them as facts in a situation that has become fraught with a new, peculiar and somewhat amusing interest. Mr. Cutshall's offense consists not in supporting Mayor Hosey, not in seeking office under Mayor Hosey, but in concealing these things from his friends, his party and his organ. They are surprised and pained. Mr. Cutshall is merely embarrassed.

CLOCKING THE TOWN.

Candidate Cutshall's organ submits this observation as worth while:

Possibly if the city hall is cleaned out we may be able to secure a little inside history on that $3,500 electric clock. That there is some inside history no one of any intelligence doubts, for that purchase was as wanton a waste of public funds as this community ever witnessed.

If the city were to set up a $3,500 electric clock every thirty days for a year it would not cost the people of Fort Wayne so much money in a year as they are mulcted every twelve-month by the act of the Fort Wayne man who torpedoed the Fort Wayne relief bill in the legislature last winter.

There is some "inside history" relating to that nefarious business upon which we suspect the people of Fort Wayne will have light before many days.

That clock at least proclaims a purpose to promote the interests of the people's light and power enterprise. The stabbing of that bill that would have permitted a reduction of 15 per cent in the lighting bills of the people of Fort Wayne was designed to aid in the destruction of the city lighting plant.

Whatever the "inside history" of that clock, it is nothing that in political sordidness and public enmity can compare with the deed of the man who imposed the death sentence on the bill for reducing lighting rates in Fort Wayne.

PERVERTING THE NEWS.

The organ of Candidate Cutshall and Anselm Fuelber makes this garbled offering of the amusement news:

The great melodrama, "Hooked Up With Hosey," is now enjoying a run in Fort Wayne with that accomplished matinee idol, Maurice Nizer, in the stellar role.

"Hooked Up With Hosey" had its run and disappeared from the boards four years ago, with W. Sherman Cutshall, the lightning-change artist, starring the part. The star had planned for a long run and perhaps a return engagement, but the production hit the rocks and "went in" after a short and unprofitable bid for favor. Actor Fuelber also essayed the role with no better success either "in front" or at the box office. In consequence of this dual failure of the enterprise both stars "unhooked."

Mr. Cutshall four years ago thought he would like to share in the honor and glory of the Hosey administration, then coming on. Perhaps he has got just a plain mad on because that privilege was denied him. Anyway, it sounds very unpretty for him to abuse Mayor Hosey after all that has been shown respecting his opinions of Mayor Hosey four years ago.

Food conservation, like the buying of Liberty bonds, is no sacrifice. It is a good thing to do wholly for its own virtue and profit. Not many Americans will be much hurt by cutting down on the eating or by reforming the diet.

The man who killed the Fort Wayne relief bill is stripping the people of many thousands of dollars each year and it may go on for many years.

Did you get your Liberty bond? If you didn't you are to be pitted. You have missed both glory and

JESSE DAVID BRIGHT

(Christian Science Monitor.)
The biographical national directory, emanating from the government printing office in Washington, tells that Jesse David Bright, a senator from Indiana, a native of Norwich, N. Y., moved with his parents to Indiana in 1820; attended the public schools; studied law, was admitted to the bar in 1831, and practiced in Madison, Ind.; that he was elected judge of the probate court of Jefferson county in 1834, and a member of the state house of representatives in 1836 that he was appointed United States marshal for the district of Indiana and elected lieutenant-governor of that state in 1841. Furthermore, we are told that he was elected, as a democrat, to the United States senate, to succeed Albert S. White, who was twice re-elected, and that, after serving from March 4, 1846, to February 5, 1862, he was expelled for having, in a letter to Jefferson Davis, recognized him as "President of the Confederate States."

This offense, however, was simply the last straw upon the patience of the senate and of the people. The letter itself was written to introduce a friend who had "an improvement in firearms" to dispose of. Bright, who had once been president pro tempore of the upper house of congress, had known Jefferson Davis as secretary of the war in the cabinet of President Pierce, and as an associate in the senate. Bright's attitude of disloyalty, not unlike that exhibited in other and later instances, seems to have been purely the outgrowth of willfulness and perversity. From the brief record of his public career just given, it is seen that he had nothing to complain of. His preferences were many and came rapidly. They also go to show that he must have been a man of parts, and popular. His state was little disposed toward secession; on the contrary, with Morton at its head, it proved to be one of the staunchest supporters among the states of the north. At the beginning of his lapse from loyalty, Bright was among the most prominent of the northern democrats. He had nothing to gain politically, but everything to lose, by adopting a course antagonistic to the north, but he went on from bad to worse as stubbornly as any copperhead of his period.

There was operating in certain of the northern states, before and during the civil war, an organization with secessionist sympathies and purposes known as the "Knights of the Golden Circle." In this organization Bright became active, after his expulsion. He soon found it convenient to remove to Kentucky, in which state he was elected to the legislature. Later he took up his residence in Maryland, where he sank into obscurity. As in the case of Vallandigham, while he had made himself utterly obnoxious to the north, he failed to win the confidence, or the friendship, of the south.

The case of John Cabell Breckinridge is sometimes mentioned as a parallel to that of Bright. Breckinridge, a member of a distinguished Kentucky family, was elected vice president with Buchanan in 1856, and received seventy-two electoral votes for the presidency in 1860, as the candidate of the pro-slavery section of the southern democracy. He held a seat in the senate when the civil war broke out, but he had the good taste to abandon it when he found how his sympathies were running, and, after entering the southern army as a brigadier-general and becoming a major-general, was made secretary of war in the Jefferson Davis confederate cabinet. His expulsion from the United States senate was recorded on December 4, 1861. The United States never surrendered jurisdiction over those who went from its service to the confederacy, but it was disposed to treat them with more consideration and respect than it accorded those who, while sympathizing with the south, remained in the north to annoy and hamper it at every opportunity.

TAKING NOTICE.

(Kansas City Times.)
We wonder what effect these heavy war taxes are going to have on the industry of politics in America. Taxes haven't bothered us much in this country heretofore. We never have felt them sufficiently to make us realize the relation that public revenue bears to public office or the relation that either bears to us as taxpayers and voters.

We shouldn't be surprised if we took a closer look at these matters now. The government is coming down on us pretty nearly every day now with something new in the way of taxes. We are beginning to feel the weight of them quite plainly and we're going to feel them more before we feel them less. Americans who never before knew the dizzy sensation of paying an income tax are going to feel it now and are going to get so accustomed to it that they will feel no more honored by the circumstance than they do now when the grocery bill comes in. Taxes of all kinds are going to be common and very, very heavy.

When we get to paying these real taxes we wonder if we aren't going to be a little more exacting in laying down qualifications for the men we elect to office. We haven't cared particularly what they did with our money. It wasn't very much, anyway. But these war budgets they are turning out in Washington—maybe they'll go to twenty-one billions the first year—are of a size to demand the attention even of a busy man. They may yet reach a size that will practically compel us, distasteful as it may be to our superior personal feelings, to snatch a minute or two to glance at our candidates for office to see if they really are the sort of men we would pick out to split your last dollar with.

IS GERMANY BREAKING?

(New York Post.)
From the strictly military point of view, the mutiny in the German fleet is not of the highest importance. Admiral Capelle probably tells the truth when he says that the outbreak was but temporary and that discipline has been restored. But from the psychological and moral standpoint, from its bearing on the national spirit of Germany, the mutiny is of immense significance. We may be sure that news of it left millions of Germans agast.

Reports of similar occurrences in the army have not been verified by official admissions, as has the mutiny at Wilhelmshaven. But one deputy openly alleged in the reichstag that a spirit of great discontent was manifest among the soldiers. They were not refusing to obey orders, but they were more and more unwilling to fight for a program of conquest and annexations. Clearly a mighty ferment is at work in Germany. It does not seem tend immediate surrender or suing for peace. But it does show that the German "will for victory" does not exist today in its old proud form. And the whole military and political situation in Germany at present, as we have to build it up with the fragmentary information reaching us, distinctly raises the question whether there is not something like a break coming.

FAILURE OF THE SUBMARINES

(The New Republic.)
By far the most encouraging piece of news which has come from Europe in many months is that of the steadily decreasing success of the German submarine attack on commerce. For the first time since last winter the losses of merchant shipping are being reduced to manageable limits. Improved methods of conveying and arming merchant vessels have been successful in rendering the all-important maritime communication of the allies comparatively safe. Inasmuch as the operation of these methods will be still further improved during the winter, and the spring it seems as certain as anything can be in war that the submarine offensive is by way of being defeated. Within a few months the gross tonnage controlled by the allied governments will begin to increase and the handicap of deficient transport which recently has been impairing the success of their military operations will be less costly. Germany's only chance of victory will have vanished. Even though she were capable next summer of placing a largely increased number of submarines in the water, their construction would constitute a waste of valuable resources. They will not be able to get at the faster, more heavily armed and more carefully convoyed fleets of the allies.

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

WHY HONOR MARTIN LUTHER? WORLD PAUSES IN MIDST OF STRIKE TO PRAISE HIS NAME

(The Congregationalist.)

Why should a world absorbed in the greatest physical conflict of the centuries pause to commemorate Luther? Why should twenty million Protestant church members of America put aside pressing duties in order to attend meetings in Luther's honor, to read books and articles relating to him, and to support various educational and philanthropic undertakings that accord with the purpose of this anniversary season?

Because when the young German monk on the thirty-first day of October, 1517, posted on the door of the church of All Saints in Wittenberg his ninety-five theses denouncing the wrong practices of the church to which he had dedicated his life, he was initiating a movement which turned the course of history. We do not forget the "reformers before the Reformation"—Peter Waldo and the other "Poor Men of Lyons" who as early as 1117 demanded their laymen's rights in teaching the gospel and kindled among the people of France a desire to read the Bible; John Wycliffe, the learned scholar and trained theologian, who a century and a half before Luther disowned and combated assertions and assumptions of papal decrees; and mystics like Bernard, Master Eckhart and John Tauler, who put the emphasis on the inner life, instead of on ceremonies and display. All had their part in bringing about that great change in the Christian thinking of the sixteenth century which we call the Reformation. But Luther more than any other crystallized latent but widespread impulses of revolt. He blazed the path along which many were ready to follow with their eager feet. The situation called for an overt, dramatic act, like the posting of the theses, a bold, unflinching piece of witness-bearing like the defense at Worms, to capture the imagination of the people and to suggest definite lines of remonstrance and agitation.

Because the forces which Luther helped to set in motion have been operating with mighty propulsive power for four centuries. They have effected results the world around. They have become embodied in schools, colleges, and universities, and in a vast network of agencies and institutions through which Protestantism does its beneficent work in all lands. The impulses which Luther helped to realize and energize have proved everywhere the germs of civil and religious liberty which the great democracies of the world have developed. Nor is their force yet spent. Protestantism was never so united, so impatient with non-essentials, so eager to make the religion of the spirit a mightier power among men.

Because our war-stricken, weary world needs just what Protestantism in its best estate has to give—not an excessive individuality, not outre and cryptic cults, but the things that lie at the heart of Protestantism—the possibility of immediate access of the soul to God through Christ, the right of private judgment, the spirit of absolute equality before God that does away with contempt of other races and all sense of superiority arising from material possessions, which when honestly and thoroughly practiced banishes from the earth autocracy of every kind, whether it be military, industrial or ecclesiastical.

Because Protestantism itself needs a periodic infusion of new loyalty and enthusiasm. It needs to be warned against the defects of its own virtues, to maintain a proper appreciation of the place and value of the sacraments and the other institutions of the church, not to disdain them as empty symbols but to make them channels through which the spiritual life expresses itself and is conveyed to others.

Protestantism needs also from time to time to recover that profound sense of the grace of God that animated the reformers, to realize that the Christian religion is not first of all sacramental or theological or ecclesiastical, but evangelical, in the broadest and deepest use of that term. It is while men are yet a great way off that the Father sees them as they turn their faces homeward and runs and falls on their neck and gives the kiss of welcome.

Because in honoring Martin Luther we may be correcting and softening our judgment of a sister nation, with whom we are now at war. The fact that Luther was a German ought not to be overlooked by us at a time when the course of the rulers of that nation has put it for a time under the ban of the civilized world. The qualities that made Martin Luther good and great, that have perpetuated his influence for four hundred years, have not disappeared altogether from modern Germany. There must be still there a great number of men and women who have not forfeited their right to be considered the spiritual descendants of the great reformer. Instead of abandoning or limiting our celebration of the Luther anniversary because we are at war with Germany we should make the occasion an opportunity of laying through prayer and the exaltation of the great spiritual truths we still hold in common the foundations of a reconciliation which, please God, shall be permanent. Because this is the one chance of this generation will have to honor the man to whom the free churches of the world owe so much. Four hundredth anniversaries are rare. Let this significant one not pass unobserved. Let many a church hear again the story of Luther's life. Let many a young Christian be moved by the example of Luther to do his own part in the seething life of our time. We are Protestants, and we are not ashamed of the fact. We are not anti-Catholic. But we are children of the Reformation and the light, the freedom and the spiritual power emanating from it we will conserve and pass on to future generations.—The Congregationalist.

When Meaning the Saloon the Word Bar Fits Right

(By Scribner.)

"BAR." That's the word. Set with brilliant electric lights, it can be seen for blocks. It lights the street. Thanks! Placed high on a business block, it is one of the most conspicuous signs of a bustling Western city. It marks the entrance to a spacious saloon. It is a benefit to the city in making daylight of the darkest night along that block, and it is also an attractive light to some. But beware, young man!

"BAR." The word has a double meaning. It is an attraction and it is also a warning. Its owners didn't intend the latter, it is true. A bar to what? A bar to your progress, young man. If you line up before the bar as they say, you will be hard for you to get over that bar which will block your progress all through life.

A bar to good health. Societies that are making a scientific study of tuberculosis, the disease that numbers more victims than any other in the United States, find that the most prevalent cause of the white plague is drink. A body weakened by alcohol is more susceptible to the germs of tuberculosis and has less resistant power. Scientific instruction in most of the public schools of our states has educated the rising generation away from the old notion of the medical value of alcohol and the up-to-date doctor, for

The NATION'S PRAYER

ATHER of all men, Ruler of the universe, in Whom dwells wisdom, power, love and authority, in this hour when the world is in chaos, and when Thy plans for the redemption of mankind are being worked out in mysterious ways, we beseech Thee to give Thy children everywhere a larger faith in Thyself, a better understanding of Thy purpose and greater courage to fulfill the tasks which Thou hast committed to them.

We pray, especially, for the men and women of these United States.

We pray for our president. Give him the wisdom which comes from above. Guide him in making the decisions which means so much to our country and the world.

We pray for the soldiers and sailors at the front of battle and for those who are preparing for service, who have unselfishly given themselves for home and country. May they find in this sacrifice the blessing promised to those who, losing their lives, will find them again—larger, fuller, richer—in this world, as well as in the world to come.

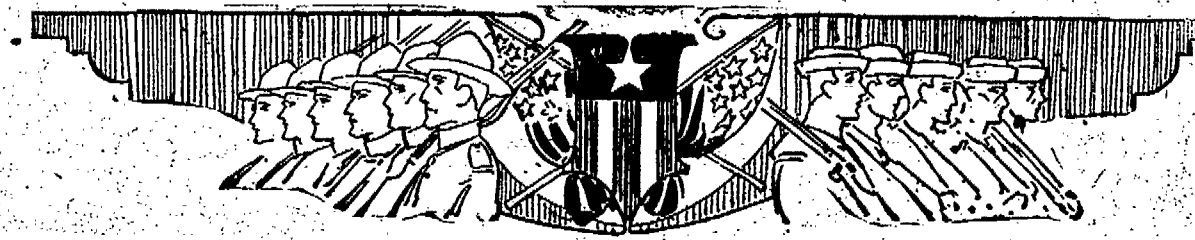

We pray for those who are serving their country at home—the mothers and daughters, those who are at work in the factories, the men and women on the farms, those who are giving heart and brain in the creation of plans and the building up of the forces which will help win the war.

May these all find in their daily tasks opportunities for service as American patriots and defenders of our country.

We pray for peace—but only the peace which shall come through the victory of right over wrong, of democracy over autocracy, of the spirit of world-brotherhood over the spirit of national selfishness.

To this end bless our country in its fight against the rule of the kaiser and those who stand in their arrogant dominance over the people—until the day shall dawn when all men shall be comrades in a world made safe for the building up of democracy and righteousness, over which Thou shalt be the Undisputed Ruler.

YOUR HEALTH AND HOW YOU CAN KEEP IT

Embargo on Tiny Germs Necessary to Stamp Out T. B.

It is only within a comparatively few years that the cause of tuberculosis was discovered to be a tiny parasite, a species of germ life that imbeds itself in the tissues of the body, especially in the soft structures of the lungs and there multiplies.

Like other parasitic growths it requires a suitable non-resistant soil for its livelihood and the most adaptable is in the poorly nourished, the underfed, the over-worked, and in those that by inheritance have that taint of tissues that fails to repel it.

Those who do not receive sufficient pure air, sufficient sunlight, or sufficient rest are in a condition to become infected. Certain of the trades, mainly dust-producing, are causes of the disease.

There are two problems to face in combating tuberculosis. The first is to keep the germ from the reach of others by the proper disposal of sputum which, in an active case, is laden with the parasite.

The use of sanitary sputum cups and paper napkins, that are burned afterwards, are recommended for the sick, and the proper care of dishes and hands are important.

There are a number of people with incipient tuberculosis who have not yet been troubled by symptoms to the extent that they find it necessary to seek medical advice. Some of these are self-cured in the course of time, but are, or were, a source of infection in proportion to the amount of sputum thrown off by the lungs.

The fingers are a great factor in the spread of the mouth secretions, and if they were always washed before being placed on foodstuffs or in the mouth, this method of spreading the germs would be done away with.

Cancer on Increase, Yet Preventive Ways Are Well Known.

The figures of the United States census mortality returns indicate that deaths from cancer are increasing in many districts in this country, numbering 80,000 and over in the United States and Canada in 1914.

Competent investigators estimated that in that year one woman in eight of those over 35 died of cancer and one man in fourteen died likewise.

At the present time there is no definite knowledge as to the cause of cancer, though various theories have been advanced, and many investigators are constantly engaged with the problem. Fortunately, there are measures of proven efficiency which may be used to fight against the increase of cancer.

First there is the fact that cancer is not contagious.

Secondly it now well established that the majority of cases of cancer can be prevented by suitable operative measures if the condition is recognized promptly at its onset.

The onset of cancer is usually 7; it is. There is no pain associated with its beginning. Pain is a late symptom, occurring when the growth has become so extensive as to render measures for relief impracticable.

At first it starts in one small part and from that point gradually and steadily spreads till later it reaches a point where its removal is impossible.

Persons over 35 should consult a competent physician whenever—

There is any persistent sore, ulceration and hardening of the skin.

Moles and warts show a tendency to ulcerate, to bleed or to increase in size.

Teeth of Little Tots Best Cleaned by Mother's Finger.

Until a child is old enough to use a toothbrush himself, the mother should wash his teeth every day.

As early as possible, however, the child should learn to care for his own teeth.

Children should be taught that it is of special importance to wash the teeth and mouth after eating nuts, or any sweet, sticky, or pasty food.

The teeth should be carefully cleaned at bedtime, since the fermentation of food particles left in the mouth, which leads to the decay of the teeth, proceeds more rapidly at night, when the mouth is still.

The child should be taught to brush the teeth from the gum downward or upward toward the cutting edge. When the teeth are brushed crosswise, the tendency is to brush whatever is on them into the cracks and crevices of the teeth or under the edges of the gums.

The inner surface of the teeth should be brushed up and down and the grinding surface should be scrubbed in all directions. After the scrubbing is finished the mouth should be thoroughly rinsed with warm water.

Some hard food like a stalk of celery or a part of a ripe juicy apple eaten at the end of a meal scours the surface of the teeth and leaves a fresh, clean taste in the mouth.

Children should be taken regularly to a good dentist once or twice a year after the first set of teeth is complete.

LIQUOR AND LABOR.

The best men among the labor leaders stand for the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

John Mitchell, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, says: "If a brewery is closed down, in its place springs up a factory. If a saloon is closed, in its place comes a store. Almost every disturbance in the ranks of organized labor can be traced back to some connection with the saloon."

John B. Lennon, treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, says: "The saloon does not produce a thing which is a benefit to the human race. It is a non-producer, and must be supported by those who work. I am speaking to the wage workers, but it may be applied to everybody."

B. M. Arthur, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, says: "If I could I would inaugurate a strike that would drive the liquor traffic from the face of the earth."

Lief Jones, labor leader and member of the British parliament, says: "I recently met the finished article of the liquor trade. He was lying in the gutter. He had no hat; his hat trade was suffering. His coat was full of holes; the tailor trade was suffering. He had no socks; the hosiery trade was suffering. He was dirty; the soap trade was suffering. Indeed,

LET THE WOMEN KEEP SILENT, IS A STATUTE FOR WHICH NOT MUCH AUTHORITY IS ADDUCED

(Belle Reid Yates in the Christian Standard.)

John 8:32: "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

If our forefathers could come to earth, they would be surprised at the telegraph, the telephone and the power of steam and electricity. But still greater would be their surprise at the position women have taken in the world.

The day has gone past when a woman who enters any pursuit of industry loses caste.

We find women lecturing in great halls, preaching in pulpits, acting as ministers, practicing as physicians and filling almost every position of trust.

It was not upon some platform of infidelity that men and women were made equal, but at the cross of Christ.

Mat. 12:49-50: "And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, and said, Behold, my mother, and my brethren. For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother."

The prophet Joel said: "Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy." A prophetess is a woman who interprets God's will to man.

The prophetess Anna, although nearly one hundred years old, was the first person to preach Christ in the temple.

Luke 2:25: "Having seen the Christ, she gave thanks to God, and spake of him to all that were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem. She departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers night and day."

Acts 21:8: "Philip the evangelist had four daughters, virgins, which did prophesy."

In Acts 9:36 women are called disciples: "Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas; this woman was full of good works and alms-deeds which she did."

Mary was the first evangelist to preach the risen Christ. "Then she runneth and cometh to Simon Peter and the other disciples," etc.

The woman of Samaria was a student of Christ's. After her conversion, she became a preacher. "She left her waterpot, and went her way into the city, and saith to the men, Come, see the Christ."

The woman of Canaan prayed aloud before the multitude; some of the men wanted to send her away, but

Christ said: "O woman, great is thy faith."

Aquila and Priscilla traveled with Paul, and were among the founders of the church at Ephesus.

Paul taught and practiced. Gal. 3:25-28: "But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster, for we are all the children of God in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized in Christ, have put on Christ."

"There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are one in Christ Jesus."

The time has come when we must look the truth straight in the face and measure God's children by the standard of fitness, and not by the moss-grown, moth-eaten traditions of creed and breed.

Many a noble woman's ambition for doing good has been crushed by men teaching that women had no right to take part in any public service.

Let us study together. 1 Cor. 14:34, and 1 Tim. 2.

Timothy's father was a Greek, his mother a Jew, yet Paul required that Timothy be circumcised, as he was not allowed to enter the temple without it, according to the law. (Not the law of Christ.)

Corinth, where Paul ministered, and Ephesus, where Timothy ministered were both Greek churches, and among the Greeks public women were disreputable.

The Greek law was very severe with women and lax with men.

These Grecian churches were under the law of Greece. As Christians, we must be obedient unto the laws of our land.

To illustrate: While I was living in Kansas I had a right as a woman to vote; but since coming to Oklahoma, I must keep silent and let my husband do the voting, as also saith the law.

Paul says: "You Grecian women must keep silent in the churches, as also saith the law."

There is no hint of such prohibition except in the Grecian churches.

In verse 36, Paul seems to rebuke the men by saying: "What! came the word of God out from you? or came it unto you only? . . . The things that I write unto you are the commandments of the Lord."

Oh, if women would rouse her latent powers! If she would wake from her slumber, put on her strength, her beautiful garments, how she would go forth conquering and to conquer!—Christian Standard.

REAL SCIENCE AND RELIGION.

Dr. A. H. Sayce, one of the most eminent of the archaeologists, when asked what is the tendency of archaeological discovery, does it tend to discredit the Bible, replied:

"Since the discovery of the Tel Amarna tablets, until now great things have been brought out by archaeology and every one of them has been in harmony with the Bible, while nearly every one of them has been dead against the assertions of the destructive critics." Continuing on this a contemporary says:

"The critics make a loud noise, and impress the world with their outcry, but the rank and file of the church, whom no man can easily number, make no noise, but they think, and they believe, and they wait for the final vindication of that Word which abideth forever."

A man lived and died in poverty some years ago with a mine of wealth under his feet. He never dug, and so was in ignorance of his wealth. It is so with many another. There are treasures of wisdom in the Word of God if we are willing to dig them out.

THANKSGIVING.

(By EDGAR A. GUEST.)

For courage that we sorely need,
For strength to do the splendid deed,
For youth, who make the sacrifice
And, smiling, pay the bitter price
That freedom asks of sturdy men,
Oh God, accept our thanks again.

To Thee once more today we kneel;
Sad music of the crash of steel
Accompanies our prayers, and yet
Thy mercies everywhere are met,
And we are grateful for the youth
That have gone forth to guard the truth.

Oh God, who gave us sight to see
The way to serve, we pray to Thee:
We thank Thee for all mothers fair
Who give their sons into Thy care
And bravely hide their grief and pain
That liberty and truth shall reign.

We thank Thee for each noble heart
That scorns to play the coward part;
We thank Thee for the humblest lad
That in these bitter times is glad
To toil until war's flags are furled
To make a kindlier, better world.

For yield of tree and fruit and vine
Once more our gratitude is Thine;
But in these days of dangers, we
Now offer prayers of thanks to Thee
For all the brave and loyal breasts
Wherein the love of honor rests.

Oh God, we thank Thee for our youth
That still hold dear the ways of truth;
We thank Thee for their courage, and Devotion to our native land;
We're thankful that our Flag still gleams
The emblem of man's highest dreams.

Last Week's Question and the Answer

Last week's query: "What was the height of Goliath?" was illustrated by a picture of that giant himself. The answer is found in the First Book of Samuel, Chapter 17, Verse 4:

"And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath, of Gath, whose height was six cubits and a span."
"Six cubits and a span" is equivalent to eleven feet, eight inches.

Chamberlin—Wilt.

No bride could ask to look more attractive and really beautiful than did Miss Nellie Wilt on Saturday evening when her marriage to Mr. Burr Clark Chamberlin took place at 6:30 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ward L. Wilt, in Forest Park boulevard. Rev. H. B. Master, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated at the nuptial services which were witnessed by relatives and a very few friends. Miss Italia Evans was honor bridesmaid and Miss Sara Murdoch, of Pittsburg, was bridesmaid. Mr. Chamberlin was attended by Mr. Robert P. Loomis, of New York city, which is the home of Mr. Chamberlin. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white satin brocaded in silver, made with train and with long sleeves and neck open at the throat. The veil was banded with silver ribbon and a cluster of real orange blossoms was caught in the folds. The bride wore a diamond bracelet, the groom's wedding gift, and the bride's bouquet was a shower of lilies of the valley and white orchids mingled with maidenhair fern. The details of the bride's costume were lovely in taste and exceedingly beautiful. Immediately after the bride and groom had received the congratulations of her family and friends the bridal party were driven to the Country club where the wedding dinner was served immediately on their arrival. At 9 o'clock guests began to arrive for the large reception which was attended by many friends. Dancing was enjoyed and a supper of salad, coffee and sandwiches was served. Fisher's orchestra of Kalamazoo, furnished music for both the house wedding and the reception at the club. Miss Italia Evans made a distinctive and charming appearance as honor maid as her handsome gown of Nile green panne velvet was especially becoming. Miss Murdoch wore an apple green gown of the charmingly trimmed with silver lace. The two maids wore muffs of white satin that had maidenhair fern and white orchids massed on one side and a shower of chiffon ribbon hanging from the center. Bar pins of platinum set with pearls were the bride's gifts to her bridesmaids. Eugene Hattersley and Mr. Murdoch, Pittsburg, acted as ushers and ribbon bearers at the house. The decorations at both the Wilt home and the clubhouse were elaborate and artistic, the ideas of the bride being artistically carried out under the direction of Miss Marguerite Flick. Quantities of white and yellow chrysanthemums were used besides candelabras of white candles. Four standard vases in the living room and four in the solarium were filled with chrysanthemums, white in the living room only as the bride preferred white and green to predominate in coloring, though there was a touch of the yellow as a relief in the solarium where the marriage service was read. Mr. Wilt gave his daughter in marriage. At the dinner the bride's table was laid for twenty-six and was in a small, lilies of the valley and swansonia that were grouped in a miniature fountain in the center of the table. There were two wedding cakes, one for the bride and the other for the groom. In the reception room of the clubhouse the bride and groom and Mr. and Mrs. Wilt received their guests after the dinner there were vases of both white and yellow mums while quantities of the smilax was a graceful addition to the walls, electrolites and tables. A guest at the Wilt home, Mrs. J. R. Heinrich of Chicago, assisted in receiving the company. The bride had her traveling costume at the club house and made the change from her bridal robes there. The traveling gown was a rich brown duvety with fur trimmings and a small hat trimmed with similar fur, both of which were exceedingly becoming and which led many of her friends to exclaim that she looked even prettier in the traveling costume. Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin have gone to southern and eastern points before they go to New York, where they will be at home after November 15, at the hotel Woodward, corner of Broadway and Fifty-fifth street. Mr. Chamberlin is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Chamberlin, of Dalton, Mass., who were not able to attend the wedding owing to sickness in the family. Mr. Chamberlin is a merchant who deals in chemicals and he has made a most favorable impression on all of the bride's friends whom he has met. Mr. Chamberlin is a Yale graduate and a man of means and ability. The bride has always been one of the much admired young girls of the city and in addition to any lovable characteristics she has the favorable qualification of being an admirable business manager. Guests from away were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dilline and Mr. Burl Wilt, of Columbus, Ohio; Miss Donna Harter, of Indianapolis; Messrs. F. Morse Smith, C. B. Rafferty, George Carpenter and Harry Pettenger, all of New York city, and Messrs. Harry Hofstot, Leo Becker and Harry Murdoch, all of Pittsburg.

Houlihan—Palmer.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Alice Palmer and Mr. Joseph Houlihan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Houlihan, took place at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church Thursday morning. Rev. J. F. Delaney officiated at the ceremony and mass and as it was the thirty-sixth anniversary of the bride's parents' wedding the services bore a double significance. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Genevieve Palmer, and Miss Loretta Parlost and by little Genevieve Spilog, of Detroit, as flower girl. The groom was attended by Mr. A. J. Palmer, a cousin of the bride, and the ushers were Messrs. Andy and George Palmer and Lawrence Parrot. The church was decorated with palms and following the mass the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride, in West Pontiac street, where fifty guests were entertained.

The bride presented a beautiful appearance in a handsome gown of white crepe satin made with real chrysanthemum lace and trimmed with pearl ornaments. The bodice was fashioned of lace and with high belt and the tulle veil was banded across the bride's forehead with pearls to match. The bride carried a bouquet of roses and swansonia. The maid of honor wore a Nile green chrysanthemum gown made up with silver trimmings, a wreath of pink roses and carried pink roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of two-toned coral satin with silver trimmings, a transparent hat to match her gown and held Ophelia roses. Little

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM RAUCH.

A family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Rauch, 240 East Pontiac street, today, marks an important event, not only as a delightful time but as an anniversary to be remembered by all present and to be recalled again and again as the years roll by for its significance. Just fifty years ago, on October 27, 1867, the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Rauch took place. Today, surrounded by children and grandchildren, they enjoy their many friends and other numerous blessings of their lives with due appreciation. The young bride and groom went to housekeeping in a cozy home in the village of Etna Green, O., as Mr. Rauch was engaged at that time in the harness and leather business. After six years of residence in Etna Green Mr. and Mrs. Rauch moved to Columbus, O., and from there came to Fort Wayne thirty-one years ago and have lived in this city ever since. The daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Rauch and are living in this city. The daughters are Mrs. C. A. Cartwright, 803 Washington boulevard east; Mrs. C. H. Shearer, 1212 East Lewis street; Mrs. C. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lydia Heine, and the groom by Mr. Martin Koehn. The wedding music was played by Mr. Edward Weber. The bride entered the living room with her father who gave her in marriage and she made a lovely appearance in an extremely pretty gown of white georgette crepe combined with real lace about the bodice and with pearl and bead trimmings. The bridal veil was held by a cap of lace to match that on the gown and was very becoming. The bride held a bouquet of bride roses and swansonia. The bridesmaid wore a pretty dress of pink crepe with pearl trimmings and her flowers were pink chrysanthemums. An elegant wedding dinner was served to fifty guests and a few more friends called during the evening. Mrs. Spiegel catered for the dinner. ONE DEAD IN AUTO SMASH

PARTY RETURNING FROM DELPHOS, O.

Joseph Gehres, Hardware Dealer, is Believed to Be Hurt Internally.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Van Wert, O., Oct. 29.—Hileman H. McGill, 33 years old, well known blacksmith, and several others are suffering from painful injuries as the result of the Ford car in which they were riding turning several somersaults two miles east of here Sunday evening. McGill died this morning at the Van Wert County hospital.

Others in the car were Joseph Gehres, hardware dealer at Wren; Robert Sherrick, employee of the Cincinnati & Northern Railroad company, and Remmel Walters, half-brother of the prosecuting attorney. Besides McGill, Gehres was the most seriously hurt, it being feared that he is injured internally. The others escaped with a few bruises, which, however, are not of a serious nature.

Returning From Delphos. The party was returning from Delphos, O. The car was the property of Gehres, who was driving. Two miles east of Van Wert in attempting to pass a buggy at a terrific rate of speed, Gehres put on the emergency brake with the result that the machine turned several somersaults, landing several yards away at the side of the road. One wheel was found over two hundred feet distant, across the Ohio Electric track.

Back and Neck Broken. McGill had his back and neck broken. He never regained consciousness. He leaves a wife. Several bottles of "boozie" were found in a field nearby, which may explain the cause of the accident. The automobile was badly damaged.

The four hundred earnest, patriotic Fort Wayne people who are now rehearsing for the great musical American spectacle, "The Army and Navy," which will be staged by the University club at the Majestic on the 8th, 9th and 10th of November, are certainly "doing their bit" to create a large fund to be used to bring comfort to the soldiers in the field. Many who have enlisted in the cast of this production are asking for extra rehearsals in order to make the undertaking such a success that the receipts for the benefit of the soldiers' fund may be swelled to large proportions. UPS AND DOWNS MARK CONTROLLER'S REPORT

Up and down run the figures in the financial report for the first three-quarters of the present year, and which was presented to the city council by Controller Baade Tuesday night, when the results are compared with the showing of 1916.

Up until the first of October the liquor license fees had fallen $6,210.32 below the tax paid in during the first nine months of 1916. For that length of time of last year there were $40,700 in the city treasury by liquor dealers. This year there have been $34,359.68 given over to the city in the liquor taxes. The decrease in the liquor license fees, due to the sliding scale of renewing licenses, is shown in the returns of July, August and September, which are $3,825 for July, $2,825 for August and $1,925 for September.

On the other hand there is a slight increase in the fees from building permits, when the records of the two years are compared. Building fees for 1917 have amounted to $1,250.75, while last year there were $1,216 gleaned from construction permits.

There is $430 gained from the jitney drivers' tax this year, which was totally missing from the report of 1916. Pawnbrokers, who paid $203 license fee for the first three-quarters of 1917, have given $100 more than last year.

The interest on city funds is nearly $2,000 above the amount gathered from that source in 1916. This is due to the success of the city light plant and the city coliseum bonds. The interest on city funds for the present year is $7,030.19, compared with $5,206.66 gleaned in the first three-quarters of 1916.

Meat dealers have paid in taxes in the sum of $2,020 this year, against $1,950 for the seven months of last year. Peddlers' fees amounted to $500 more last year and milk license fees were $35 more in 1916.

Receipts and general fund balance for the first three-quarters of last year was $351,450.90. Disbursements were $344,165.45, leaving a balance of $7,285.45.

The general fund balance this year, at the opening of October, was $372,549.17. Disbursements were $354,845.50, leaving a balance of $18,004.67.

It is stated that the sum is augmented this year by the receipt of poll tax at an earlier date than usual and by special taxes which have been paid in.

Clarence Adsit, aged 41 years, an employee of the Flat Rock Oil Well company, was found dead in the power house near Monroeville, Thursday morning. Vernon Zimmerman was the first to find the man. Adsit had thrown a blanket over his face and had drawn a gas hose underneath it. It is a miracle that the entire power station was not blown up for there was a permanent spark plug in operation within a short distance of the cot. The object of the suicide can not be determined as the dead man was in good health and in seemingly good spirit.

Adsit had been working for the oil company for one year. He had just finished moving his wife and two children from Geneva to Monroeville a few days before he committed the act. After an inspection by Coroner Al-

HUNDREDS ATTEND DOUBLE FUNERAL

Warren Unstrung by Double Tragedy of Mother and Babe.

Warren, Ind., Oct. 29.—Hundreds of Warren citizens crowded the Methodist Episcopal church here Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to attend the funeral of Mrs. Albert Border and her year-old daughter, who were killed Saturday morning when Mrs. Border gave her baby carbolic acid and then drank from the same bottle.

Mrs. Border had been ill for months, suffering from a nervous disorder, which is thought to have affected her sanity. She forced her baby to take the poison and then drained the remainder from a two ounce bottle, while the two were yet in bed, Saturday morning. The husband, a well-to-do farmer, had arisen early and was out on his farm when the wife administered the acid to her baby and herself.

The wife was still alive when Mr. Border returned from the farm at 11 o'clock. The husband called a physician. Mrs. Border died a few minutes after the doctor arrived.

Deep acid burns about the infant's mouth shows that the baby fought against taking the acid. It is believed that the mother watched her child die before drinking the poison herself.

All Warren is stirred in a fashion unknown in years by the homicide and suicide. Several hundred people visited the Albert Border home on Sunday afternoon to view the remains of the mother and child, who lay in one casket with the baby held in her mother's arms. Practically the entire town will attend the funeral services, Monday afternoon, the sermon for which is to be delivered by the Rev. G. B. Work, retired Methodist minister of Warren.

Mrs. Border, aged 30, was Miss Lillie Christy before her marriage. She was the daughter of J. E. Christy and a society leader of Warren. She is survived by the husband, her parents, a brother, Frank Christy, and two sisters, Mrs. William Rogers and Miss June Christy, all of Warren.

The husband, who has made every effort to improve his wife's failing health during the past six months, is overcome by the tragedy. On Saturday afternoon he tore his hair in agony as he paced the floor of the home. Burial of Mrs. Border and the baby, which had taken its first step in learning to walk on the day before the awful tragedy, will be in the Woodlawn cemetery at Warren.

Many from Geneva. A special interurban car brought sixty citizens from Geneva to attend the funeral of Clarence Adsit, 31, former Warren man, who was found dead, supposedly a suicide, at Monroeville, last Friday, and whose burial ceremony was conducted from the Church of Christ in Warren, Sunday afternoon.

Adsit, who was reared in Warren, and whose wife was a daughter of Isalah Barnes, of this place, had lived in Geneva several years before his death. He is survived by the wife and two small children. He had moved his household goods to Monroeville and was aiding in drilling a well when his body was found Friday, at the well, with a gas emitting pipe held close to his mouth.

Preparing for Big Day. Every Warren church is sending out hundreds of post cards in an effort to make the Go-to-Sunday-School day, next Sunday, the greatest occasion of its kind in the history of Warren. Members from every Sunday school class in the city have been appointed to make personal solicitations during the week.

Warren enjoys the unique record of having an average Sunday school attendance exceeding the population of the town.

OVER $545,000 BONDS TO THREE COMPANIES

General Electric, Pennsylvania Company and S. F. Bowser Buy Heavily.

Three of the big labor employing concerns of the city—the General Electric works, the Pennsylvania company and S. F. Bowser & Company—have practically closed one of the greatest campaigns for funds for any cause ever conducted in the city—the sale of liberty bonds. And each covered itself with glory, exceeding the most sanguine hopes of the men back of the movement. Other concerns did equally as well in proportion to the number of people on the payrolls, but none has tabulated the results and got them in shape for announcement to the public at the hour this item is written. The three concerns mentioned raised a fund of over $545,150, as follows: Pennsylvania Western division, $225,000; General Electric, $195,000, and S. F. Bowser & Company, $125,000. These figures were given out at noon and each company reported that straggling subscriptions were still coming in and the total amounts liable to increase. The General Electric works' statement does not include the $15,000 or more sales made at the Edison Lamp works, which probably should be included, because it is a General Electric interest. If this sum is added to the subscriptions at the big plant on Broadway, it will carry the total beyond the $220,000 point and very close to the Pennsylvania Western division. The Bowser statement credits the employees with $50,000 and the company with $75,150 and states that subscriptions from the employees are still coming in and will be taken care of. The subscriptions at the General Electric works average 70 per cent of the employees, 3,050 persons having bought bonds. Over $35,700 of the sales were either payable in cash or on the government installment plan and the balance will be paid weekly by the company taking out of each person's earnings the one-fiftieth part of the value of the bond. The Pennsylvania shopmen made a particularly creditable showing, 1,744 people taking bonds to the extent of $98,000, an average of 83 per cent. Considerable portion of these subscriptions was paid in cash, but the greater portion will be paid in ten monthly installments through the company.

GAS EXPLOSION.

Van Wert, Ohio, Oct. 29.—Frank Davis, residing near Haviland, had a narrow escape from death last evening when a short circuit on his Overland automobile caused it to catch fire and the gasoline tank to explode. Mr. Davis jumped from the car but was unable to escape from the exploding gasoline, suffering some burns on his face. They are not believed to be serious, however.

MANY WAYS

TO END WAR

ble wounds; suits of mail to make soldiers shoot bullets like raindrops; hand grenades with trailing strings, the pulling of which causes explosion after the grenade lands in the enemy trench; centrifugal guns which whirl bullets until they gain sufficient momentum and then feed them out in a steady stream; safety parachutes to allow aviators to drop from disabled machines; modernized catapults for hurling trench bombs, and smoke bombs to be thrown by charging infantrymen a moment before the bayonet clash.

Ten Thousand Inventions. Nearly ten thousand inventions have been offered the war department since war was declared. These include about fifty designs of centrifugal guns and hundreds each of hand grenades, a new explosive, machine guns and poison gases. Many which have strong elements of merit are rejected because they cannot be adapted in short time to the war exigencies, or because they need many refinements which war department experts have no time to give, particularly since testing and experimenting often require many months. Centrifugal gun inventions have been given careful attention, but the objection to most is that they shoot only round bullets which do not travel as straight or as far as the elongated shape and that the bullets' momentum is not sufficient to penetrate at a distance.

Centrifugal Guns. In most models of experimental centrifugal guns, bullets are fed steadily into the axle of a rapidly revolving wheel driven by gasoline motor, pass through a spiral opening within the wheel and emerge at the edge traveling at a high rate of speed. The bullets are guided outward and the fire directed through an opening corresponding to an ordinary gun muzzle. The operation is by a comparatively simple principle, but the necessity of a gasoline motor rendered most centrifugal guns of somewhat doubtful value for trench work.

ITALY MUST

success is due partly to treachery and that the Germans are using the same tools in Italy as those with which the Russian armies were betrayed, the Post declares:

"Let our statesmen awaken and counter these activities. This may be of even more service than any military aid we can render."

The Post, nevertheless, assumes that such military aid as can be given without weakening the pressure on the western front also will be furnished and urges the Italians to hold on until success arrives.

While some commentators today take a somewhat gloomy view of the situation, others believe that the Italians will recover and that the Germans will not gain any permanent advantage.

Merely Gambler's Move. The Daily Express says: "Germany has made a gambler's move and won the first coup. That's all. We may wait and see what will happen without misgivings."

The Daily Telegraph, while fearing that the German claims to have shaken the whole Italian front is justified, is persuaded that the perilous situation will inspire the defenders to a harder determination. It adds: "Because the enemy has succeeded in effecting a surprise, there is no reason to suppose that he will be as successful in the plains or before strong positions like the Tagliamento. Gen. Cadorna will know how to counter the present violent attacks and snatch victory out of the jaws of danger. There is no reason for despair."

TO VACCINATE

and signed by Dr. L. P. Drayer, head of the city health board, follows:

"In view of the widespread circulation in the present epidemic of smallpox, it is the opinion of this board that you should have an inspection made of all persons in your employing made with a view towards securing vaccinations in each and every individual who cannot show evidence of previous successful vaccination. We prefer to have you do this without an order from the health department. We feel that present conditions demand precaution against the further spread of smallpox."

Managers of the downtown stores visited the health board office, in the city hall, in person, Tuesday, for detailed information on the vaccination notice. The store men announce that they are putting the notices on the bulletin boards of their establishments and that immediate obedience to the order is expected.

Health officers give out that if a person has been successfully vaccinated a few years back and can show a certificate or a plain scar that re-inoculation will not be demanded. There are thousands in the Fort Wayne plants who have never been treated, however, health officials say, and the number to be vaccinated will run to 10,000.

Five thousand more points of vaccine have been ordered for the big inoculation job just ahead. A part of the vaccination work may be carried on during the evenings in order to accommodate shop men. There are hundreds of cases in which the family physician will be called upon to register the treatment.

The Only Method. "Vaccination is the only method of checking the disease," said Dr. L. P. Drayer, Tuesday. "We have concluded that a more dangerous epidemic may sweep the city and tie up industry unless we take this marked precaution. If having individuals protect themselves and their friends by being inoculated."

There are no critical cases reported from the many homes where the black and yellow cards are by the side of the door. The illness is just sufficient to make quarantine necessary. A new bundle of the smallpox cards have been delivered to the health office and are ready for use.

New cases reported are John Prangr, 1022 Walter street; Elmer Doty, 110 Degroff street, and William Almer, 302 East Lewis street.

WOMAN BURNS

TO DEATH

from a hot brick that had been placed at her feet by Mrs. J. A. Johnston, wife of Sheriff Johnston.

Mrs. Brown's body was burned to a crisp. Her remains were later taken from the burning bed by firemen who had been summoned by Mrs. Johnston.

Mrs. Brown had complained of being cold. Mrs. Johnston had heated a brick, wrapped it and then placed it at her feet. She had not been out of Mrs. Brown's cell long when she returned and found the bed in a mass of flames. Mrs. Brown had arisen from her own bed and had gone to another with her clothing on fire.

The bed clothing in the second bedroom caught fire. The flames were making such headway that Mrs. Johnston, who was alone, was helpless to render any assistance. She immediately turned in an alarm and by the time the firemen arrived Mrs. Brown's body was horribly burned and the bed in which she lay had been reduced to ashes.

Mrs. Brown had been confined at the county jail since June 25 awaiting admittance to Easthaven asylum at Richmond. Because of the crowded condition at that institution she could not be accepted. Two other insane patients are at the jail, Mrs. Martha Wise and Mrs. Mary Holly, and the care of them has been looked after entirely by Mrs. Johnston.

Mrs. Brown was the widow of the late Jacob M. Brown, who died suddenly of apoplexy last February. Soon afterward Mrs. Brown went insane from worry and overwork. The Browns lived on a farm four miles east of here.

The deceased is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Bernice Price, of Plymouth, and two sisters, Mrs. George Harnish and Mrs. George Pence.

eral headquarters has now entered that place. More menacing to Cadorna's purposes than this movement, however, seems the thrust on his left flank against the upper reaches of the Tagliamento.

The hope of the German command apparently is to reach this northern section of the intended line and turn it before the more southerly Italian forces can fall back to the river and establish themselves there. Berlin indicates a steady advance by the Austro-German columns toward this objective.

Despite the crushing blow suffered by the Italian forces on the northern Isonzo and the consequent retirement all along the river, Gen. Cadorna has the Tagliamento line from which to beat back the invaders from the Venetian plains. Berlin does not report any additional number of prisoners, and this, coupled with Cadorna's official statement that his troops are checking the Austro-German, may mean that the force of the first blow has been spent.

Teuton activity is reported in the Plauza pass north of Tomazzo, where the Tagliamento turns westward. A strong advance here might make the Tagliamento line untenable as also would any Austro-German effort in force southward from the Carnio and Dolomite Alps. The Italian high command must consider the possibility of a blow from the Trentino. From Swiss sources it is reported that the Austro-German frontier has been closed and that Swiss reinforcements are being hurried to the Italian front.

This may mean either support for the invaders west of the Isonzo or material for a new drive from the mountains southward behind the Tagliamento. Meanwhile there are no reports of activity in the Trentino, and Great Britain and France have taken steps to reinforce the Italian line. What form this help is taking has not yet been disclosed.

Raid and small operations are occupying the troops on the front in France. The artillery are very active along the Aisne front and northeast of Ypres in Flanders.

The battle in Flanders was resumed by the infantry this morning when the British moved forward to the attack north of the Ypres-Roulers railroad. Field Marshal Haig announced the renewal of the offensive in his usual laconic style, adding merely that the troops were reported to be making good progress.

The line of attack takes in the Flanders region, where the recent town itself are nearby British objectives. The thrust here is so carrying the entente forces on a direct line toward the railway junction point at Roulers, approximately five miles distant. On the Aisne front in northern France where the French in their recent advance southwest of Laon have jeopardized the safety of a considerable section of the German lines, the Germans delivered an attack last night in an effort to push back the French in the region of Cerny. The French easily repulsed this assault.

The artillery battle is continuing in the sector in which the French made their advance where the hostile forces are lined up on opposite sides of the Oise-Aisne canal. In the Verdun region General Petain's troops last night regained more of the small strip of territory lost in a recent German assault in the Caubieres road east of the Meuse.

The first casualty among the American forces on the fighting front in France was reported today in the form of a shell splinter struck the officer in the leg, inflicting a slight wound.

against the upper course of the Tagliamento.

The retirement of the defeated Italian army is being stemmed at the few crossings of the river, which is greatly swollen.

ONE VIEW OF BATTLE.

London, Oct. 30.—The Milan correspondent of the Times in a dispatch filed on Sunday refers to the breaking of the Italian line at certain points, where the Germans carried on no heavy preliminary bombardment, and says that on the Carso, to the contrary, not one of the innumerable attacks has given an inch of ground to the enemy. "The troops on the Carso," he writes, "have already passed through hell and beyond."

No details have yet arrived of the results of the fighting for Monte Neio, on the northern end of the Isonzo front. He says the fighting there from the first hour of attack has been a glorious epic.

TRYING TO FORCE PEACE.

Amsterdam, Oct. 30.—The Austro-German offensive against Italy, according to the Vorwarts, of Berlin, was not undertaken in an aggressive spirit with the object of conquest, but solely to bring peace nearer.

ly it had become clear that he would be forced to retire under assault of practically all parties in the reichstag. His administration has given satisfaction nowhere. PATRIOTIC PUBLIC TO BE PROTECTED

Allen County Council of Defense Must Sanction All Movements.

At this time when the nation is engaged in war and the patriotic people who stay at home must be called on to support a number of various patriotic movements, care must be taken that they are not abused, that the public's good will is not overtaxed.

With this in view the Allen County Council of Defense adopted a series of resolutions at their meeting Monday night.

All efforts made with the purpose of appealing to the public for aid in the movement under the guise that it is for the aid of the government or to sustain the comfort of the soldiers and sailors must be sanctioned by this board, and if the movement does not have its approval the public is urged not to support it.

At the meeting the council approved the work that is being done by the Boys' Working Reserve, under the direction of A. L. McDonald, in the city, and D. O. McComb, in the country districts. This organization is the largest unit of its kind in the state. The council also appointed a committee to compile a list of the names of all Allen county soldiers and put the record in the county clerk's office.

Resolutions Adopted. On the motion of Judge John W. Eggegan, after a general discussion, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Our country is engaged at war, and the people of Allen county individually and through their clubs and organizations are desirous and anxious of performing some patriotic service, and Whereas, The congress of the United States by enactment has authorized the creation of a National Council of Defense and that body has directed the appointments of state and county Councils of Defense, and

Whereas, The particular purpose of the Allen County Council of Defense is to co-ordinate and direct all patriotic efforts designed to aid the government in the prosecution of the war, and to sustain and give comfort to the men of the army and navy, and

Whereas, It has become apparent that in order to prevent abuses, impositions, unwise, misdirected, and duplicate effort the said Allen County Council of Defense, known as the Fort Wayne Council of Patriotic Service, finds it necessary to exercise a rigid supervision over all efforts and enterprises having for their object the raising of funds for the benefit of any patriotic purpose and for the protection of the general public; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That all efforts appealing to public support of any kind or description by any individual, organization or club purporting to be for patriotic purposes shall first secure the written consent of the Allen County Council of Defense and under such regulations as the said council shall prescribe; and be it further

Resolved, That the council requests that the public refuse to give support to any such enterprise until sanctioned by the said council.

The next meeting of the council will be held November 7.

(Special to The Sentinel.) Garrett, Ind., Oct. 30.—Fifty-two men from the McCray plant, at Kendallville, have accepted positions in the Garrett Baltimore and Ohio railroad shops. These men participated in the strike staged last week at the McCray plant and not being granted their demands they decided to secure positions elsewhere. They will not move their families here at present, but will make trips daily on the interurban. It is reported that many more will come today. The Baltimore and Ohio are greatly in need of men and many more can be used.

Garret Minor Notes.

The young people of the Baptist church are giving a play at the church this evening. An interesting program will be given there every evening this week.

The social and entertainment given at the high school building Saturday evening by the Garrett Camp Fire Girls for the benefit of the high school athletic association, proved a success, not only financially, but socially as well. There were about two hundred present and the program, which had been prepared on short notice, was excellent. The girls cleared $35 from the affair and then the Pocahontas Girls gave them a check for $5 and the Hiawatha camp another $5 check, making $45 for the association, which was greatly appreciated by them.

LESS MEAT IS SERVED

Fort Wayne Folk Are Lining Up for Great Food Drive.

BAKERS PREPARING FOR WHEATLESS DAY

Serve Hominy for Halloween Party Feeds, Urges Hilgeman.

Food patriots of Fort Wayne have joined the meatless day line up. It is estimated that several hundred pounds less meat were sold from Fort Wayne meat markets for Tuesday's consumption. Fort Wayne citizens ate at least three cows and a couple of pigs less on the first national meatless day, it is estimated.

"Telephone calls to more than a dozen meat markets, located in every part of the city, revealed that housewives are responding to the conservation call."

"Yes, we can notice a difference," was the response from nearly every meat shop.

There was only one case in which a Lafayette street dealer told that he had sold as much animal food as usual on Tuesday.

"The people who are leaving their usual meat orders with us are folks who admit that they were not at church on Sunday," said a well known butcher. "I have asked everybody who bought meat if they knew of the conservation order."

"People who are buying meat today, are making excuses that they will use the meat tomorrow and not today," the dealer said. "Most of the women who have bought this morning the taking route, which is in fact the most probable order for cooking to day and serving on Wednesday. Many women do that."

Packers and more prominent meat dealers all state that they are behind the meatless day program. There is a scarcity of meat anyway and the cutting down of the demand will only lessen the embarrassment of meat dealers later on, it is explained.

Friday will be the real meatless day of the week butchers state. There are the many people who are used to the meatless program of Friday who will already be in line, dealers say. Food Administrator Hoover has asked for two meatless days in the opening week of the "save food and win the war" campaign. One meatless day a week is expected to be the permanent program for the nation and Friday will no doubt be the day chosen for that honor.

Y. W. C. A. Loyal.
The Y. W. C. A. cafeteria stands squarely back of the food conservation program. Tuesday was meatless at the Y. W. C. A. eating room and a substitute for wheat bread will be used on Wednesday.

Restaurant men of the city are not keeping meatless day. The managers of more prominent eating houses met on Sunday afternoon to discuss the conservation program. They decided to serve meatless meals to persons who requested them and to have a stock of wheatless wafers and bread on hand, but no stand will be taken against any form of appetite as yet.

"When the public is aroused to the meatless and wheatless program we will be ready to serve their desires," said one restaurant proprietor on Tuesday.

Bakers Getting Ready.
There will be less wheat pushed into the baking ovens of Fort Wayne on Tuesday night, because of the wheatless day appeal for Wednesday. The number of loaves of wheat bread will be reduced by several hundred, it is announced by bakers.

Rye bread, corn bread, oat meal bread and corn wafers will be substituted for wheat bread whenever possible. Customers of the leading bakers of the city will be asked to try the substituted products. Part of the bakers are urging less use of wheat bread in their advertising appeals.

"Many of our regular customers are telephoning that they will not need as much wheat bread on Wednesday," said one baker.

Grocers state that many housewives are inquiring about the substitutions for the wheat bread and have announced that they will not serve the wheat-formed loaf.

Bakers also say that they are daily cutting down the number of cakes and other pastry formations in their baking. Customers are being told of the scarcity of sugar and are asked to stay by only the substantial bread foods until the war is won.

There is every indication that wheatless day will be much more successful than the first meatless day effort.

Halloween Must Help.
"Serve hominy for the Halloween party banquet," urges Frank Hilgeman, head of the Allen county food relief committee, in asking that all forms of wheat and sugar stuffs be saved for the soldiers.

"Other suggestions for the Halloween feed are parched corn, popcorn, without butter, and pumpkin pie, with as little sugar as possible. Eggs must be used in pumpkin pie but they cannot be sent to soldiers anyway," says Hilgeman.

He urges that children be kept from throwing corn, beans and heads of cabbage on Halloween night.

"Teach the children to help win the war," says Hilgeman. "Appeal to their patriotism and they will not want to waste the foodstuffs."

Waiting for Low Tide.
When the present food state of the St. Mary's river, has subsided the catching of fish for public use is expected to start, said Frank Hilgeman, Tuesday morning.

The fish commission has given consent for taking the fish and Prosecutor Frank Emrick will be urged to lead a band of volunteers in lifting the food from the river. Nets will be purchased by the food relief organization. The fish will be sold on the public market. The fish will be sold on the public market.

Club Women to Help.
Officers of the Women's Club league of the city have notified Food Administrator C. B. Tolan that the club of the city will give of their energies in distributing the food pledge cards this week. The women will secure the cards at the desk in the public library and are expected to start their work on Wednesday morning.

Frank Hilgeman, C. B. Tolan and Mike Costello were engaged on Monday afternoon and Tuesday in distributing the pledge cards in every public and parochial school of the city. In many cases the men talked before the children, explaining the need of help in saving food.

The pupils are to have the cards signed and returned to their teachers.

Back of Hoover.
A special committee for promoting the food conservation movement has been named at the St. Mary's Catholic church. George Haffner is made head of the food-saving organization with Mrs. John Harkender assistant and Alexander Kartholl, secretary.

This committee will appoint deputies to aid in taking a food consumption census in the church. Reports will be made to Washington of the results of the saving effort of the week.

Kept the Day.
A few downtown restaurants decided to act individually in favor of keeping the meatless day. Tuesday. Accordingly it was learned at the noon hour that meat was not on the menu for lunch and was not to be had. Several of the restaurant proprietors announced that they will make one day a week meatless from now on.

"It is a fine spirit," said Frank Hilgeman, when he learned of the stand of the eating houses. "When a man will run the risk of incurring displeasure of his patrons by keeping a wartime request he should be given constant support of the patriotic."

"Before we perced to bizness," Cy says Ame Hill-lyer, "let me take a chaw offen your plug of tobacco—I left mine to home in my other pants pocket."

Cy told Ame that he diddent kalkilate that it was his dooty as chairman of the Bord of Trade to keep the other members in chewin tobacco and besides he was sick & tired of Ame beggin tobacco off him on the pretext that he had went & left his plug in his other pants pocket to home which was a old story that he had heard Ame tell meny times before.

Then Ame jumped up and shuk his fist under Cys nose so clost that it made Cy look crosseyed and desired to know if Cy meant to call him a liar. "Set down, you blamed fool," says Cy; "your outen order!" "By grachious, I aint outen order," hollers Ame; "I never felt better my life and if you'll step outside for a few minits I'll take great pleashure in givin you the darndest thrashin you ever had!"

Cy replied to Ame that as much as hed like to accomydate him he couldnt let pleashure interfere with bizness and would perced with the mtg of the Bord. Then Ame told Cy he was not only a cowyard but also so stingy that he ackshually begrudged himself whot he et to keep sole & body together. At this juncture Joe spoke up and said he diddent think Ame ort of said that being as it wassent rite for one member of the B. of T. to twit a feller member on facks.

By this time Cy had begin to git mad hisself and Hen Weathersby fearin that the Bord of Trade Mtg would lead to personal vilents which would like as not muss up his store spoke up and declared the mtg adjourned. He told the members of the Bord to their fasses that if they desired to fite theyd haft to go outside the store to do so being if they fit in his store hed lick all of em. Knowin that Hen meant exactly whot he said the members of the Bord came down and begin to discuss other current topics of the day.

Its a purty howdy-doo when the Bingville Bord of Trade cant hold a mtg in peeces and love and amity instid of almost coming to blows in sitch a disgraceful manner as per above.

This is a good meny more punkins than I need, being as I aint only got one cow and she couldnt ete all them punkins before freezin wether comes if she et fit to bust. Another reason why I desire to dispose of some of these punkins is becuz tother night in the dark I tride to go thru the barn without no lantern and fell over one of them ole punkins and like to of broke my fool neck. If you think I'm a going to give these punkins away free gratitis for nothink after going to all the trouble of raising same youre mistaken. I'll let em rot where they be before I'll do that. Ask for em is two cts. apiece as they come. Where can you git punkins cheeper than? First come gets the big ones. Some says that these cow punkins is good to make pies outen. As far as I'm concernd I'd rather have my pies made outen pie punkins than cow punkins. Come and examine my stock of punkins at onct. No trouble to show goods providin you be interested. Don't take up my vallyble time unless you mean bizness.

Yours for punkins,

FIGHT FOR WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE TO CONTINUE

Senator Simmons Says There is Nothing More to Be Done at Present.

News of the decision of the supreme court declaring the woman suffrage law unconstitutional, was received here after the adjournment of the convention of the Indiana Federation of Clubs. The women had scattered, many of them having left for their homes.

Senator Abraham Simmons, of Bluffton, one of the attorneys who defended the law before the supreme court, was here Friday and when he was informed of the action of the court, he said:

"This means the end of the case. A petition for rehearing could be filed, but it would be unavailing, because the case was thoroughly thrashed out. There is no federal question involved in the case, therefore it can not be carried to the federal courts."

Mrs. Felix T. McWhitter, chairman of the legislative council of Indiana women, said when she was informed of the decision: "It will not stop the struggle for suffrage for women. The fight will go right on until we do get a law that will stay on the statute books."

Mrs. John Edwards Moore, of Kokomo, the newly elected president of the Indiana Federation of Clubs, said: "Women are never discouraged. We shall go right on with our fight for suffrage and this court decision will not stop us."

$20,000 FIRE WRECKS CITY TRUCKING BARN

All Animals Driven to Safety But Building Falls in Blaze.

The City Trucking company's barn, located on North Clinton street, was totally destroyed at a loss of $20,000 when fire of unknown origin swept the big frame structure Friday evening, between 7 o'clock and 9 o'clock.

The blaze had gained good headway when discovered by pedestrians shortly after 7 o'clock. The call of "fire" brought several men of the neighborhood who aided in removing all animals from the blazing building. Twenty-seven horses and mules were taken from their stalls and turned loose in the street.

Three fire departments were summoned by two alarms, which were sent out from near the burning barn. Firemen worked effectively and soon had the blaze under control, but not in time to save the building and its contents from almost total loss.

Twenty-three trucks were consumed and other heavy wagons belonging to the City Trucking company were destroyed. A. J. Archer and John W. Archer, of the trucking company, estimate their loss at $10,000. E. H. McDonald, owner of the barn building, places his loss, partly covered by insurance, at a like amount.

There was nobody in the barn when the fire started, it is believed. Earl Henningson, the night keeper, was at his evening meal and all teamsters had left the building. From the widespread area of the fire when the blaze was discovered there was no way of telling how or where the conflagration originated.

Hundreds of citizens were attracted to the neighborhood of the burning barn by the almost total loss. The force burning blaze lit up the sky in a fashion that made the fire visible from nearly every part of the city. Many of the men, who were attracted to the fire, aided later in regaining the horses and mules, which had been turned at large, after being driven from the blazing structure. A part of the animals had strayed as far as Lawton park. All the horses and mules have now been recovered and are housed in small barns over the city.

Though of the old wagons, which stood in the areaway near the barn building, have been saved from the fire to allow the City Trucking company to resume operations Saturday. More wagons will be secured and the company will continue its former activities of heavy trucking and delivery work.

OFFICERS ELECTED AT RED CROSS MEETING

B. Paul Mossman Again Heads All Activities of the Local Chapter.

At the annual meeting of the Red Cross held Friday night in the assembly room of the Commercial club the entire list of officers, which have served the organization so faithfully during the past year, were chosen for another term. In recognition of the excellent work and diligent efforts of B. Paul Mossman, as chairman, he was put at the helm of the chapter work for another year.

The meeting was attended by a crowd that filled the room to overflowing. At the start of the meeting the entire audience showed their loyalty and patriotism by rising on the platform. Plans were made for future work and such great enthusiasm was shown at all times that the meeting was stamped as the best that the Red Cross has ever held in this city.

The feature event of the evening came with the selection of the directors and officers for the coming year. The report of the nominating committee, composed of James M. Barrett, Mrs. Max D. Fisher and Harry D. Hogan, was read by the chairman, Mr. Barrett. When he announced that in view of the splendid record they had made all of the officers be re-elected for a second term, he was greeted with a chorus of affirmation. The secretary was directed to cast the unanimous vote of the organization, while each name was cheered by the audience, who were pleased by this action. There were only two changes made in the list of officers. Dr. Jesse C. Calvin, who has worked diligently for the good of the chapter, during the past year, as secretary, asked to be excused. She was given a vote of thanks by the chapter and Chairman Mossman, in a few remarks, paid tribute to her worth to the chapter. Mrs. Walter Massey was elected secretary and also was chosen as a director to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Miss Virginia Carey to New York.

Officers Re-elected.

The officers elected in full were as follows: President, B. Paul Mossman; vice chairman, Mrs. A. J. Detzer; secretary, Mrs. Walter Massey; treasurer, Frank Cutshall. Members of the board of directors to serve three years: Rev. George Doege, Mrs. Joel Velty, Mrs. J. N. Study, Dr. Eric A. Crull, Charles Niezer, Mrs. William Noll, Dr. Herman Duemling, Dr. Miles F. Porter, Jr., Mrs. Walter Massey, Dr. Morris Rosenthal, Mrs. William Rohan and William Peliter.

Mrs. Robert Harding told of the many deeds of kindness and mercy that the Red Cross had performed since the time of its formation during the crusades. The minutes of the last meeting were read and the report of the membership committee showed that there were 9,000 members in Fort Wayne and Allen county. Frank Cutshall, the treasurer, read his financial report. State Warehouse Inspector E. C. Miller, of Fort Wayne, gave an excellent report of the work in the Red Cross warehouse. Mr. Miller said that whenever there was a call for something that was needed by the Red Cross that the local warehouse was one of the first to respond. Mr. Mossman told of the patriotism of Fort Wayne and Allen county physicians, who have helped in the work at various times. Reports were read by Mrs. A. L. Johns, Mrs. Georgianna Bond, Charles R. Lane and Henry Beadell. Miss Levan Perry, the executive secretary of the chapter, was cheered for her diligent and hard work during the past year. Dr. Eric A. Crull gave an earnest appeal for the support of the chapter workers in the Christmas seal sales to carry on the work of the anti-tuberculosis league. The meeting closed with the singing of "America."

GARRETT NEGROES LEAVE IN A HURRY

Following the Murder of Dr. Frank L. Rodebaugh Wednesday.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Garrett, Ind., Oct. 25.—Following the horrible murder yesterday in which Health Officer Dr. Frank L. Rodebaugh met death at the hands of a negro named Dickinson, the colored population of this city thinned out greatly. Twenty-eight in one gang left last evening and many more will follow today. Never in the history of Garrett have the people been so aroused as they are at the present time. Saloonkeepers and proprietors of poolrooms were notified yesterday not to allow colored people in their places of business last night.

The first report after yesterday's murder was that the negro shot himself, but after the coroner, assisted by Dr. Cleveland, made a thorough examination, he found several bullet wounds on the negro's body indicating that the officials who shot at him must have hit their mark. The negro evidently used the revolver of Dr. Rodebaugh after he had overpowered his victim as there was but one load remaining in the chamber.

The body of the negro is at the Hinklin morgue and will no doubt be buried in the potters' field.

The body of Dr. Rodebaugh was removed to the Hinklin undertaking parlors, where it was prepared for burial. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 4

DEFEAT THROUGH DRUNKENNESS.

(World Temperance Sunday.)

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 20:1-21. GOLDEN TEXT—Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off.—1 Kings 20:11.

1. Samaria Besieged (vv. 1-12).

1. By whom (v. 1.)

Benhadad, the Syrian king, accompanied by 32 kings, came against Samaria. These 32 kings were not allies, but rulers over the neighboring cities—vassal princes.

2. Benhadad's message to Ahab (vv. 2-6).

He offered peace on the most abject and insulting terms. His demands meant more than the exaction of tribute. He over-reached himself in this; thus defeating his purpose. He not only demanded tribute money, but the surrender of that which was most vital to Ahab's manhood and self-respect—his wives and children. He thus made a thrust at his tenderest spot. Many a man has been thus aroused to do his duty, who otherwise would have submitted to shameful indignities.

3. Ahab's reply (vv. 4, 7-9).

His reply was tame and humiliatingly submissive. Perhaps, he thought it only meant the giving of tribute, which he was willing to do in face of Benhadad's overwhelming army. Conciliatory measures were regarded as most prudent. But the peremptory demands of the enemy repeated, awoke Ahab to his senses, and caused him to call together the elders of the land, who counseled against submission. Thus stiffened for the opposition, Ahab refused to make full compliance with his demands.

4. Benhadad's bluster and boasting (v. 10).

The design of this was to strike terror into the hearts of the king and people. He vows that he will make Samaria a heap of dust, and that this dust will not be sufficient to fill the hands of his army, so overwhelming is the number of his host.

5. Ahab's answer by a proverb (v. 11).

"Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off." This is a proverb full of points for all boasters. God's purpose may overrule all man's proud presumptions. "Man proposes, but God disposes." "Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall."

6. Readiness for the attack (v. 12).

In the full confidence of victory, the Syrian king was giving a banquet to his princes. In the midst of this feasting, the command was given to invade Samaria. Incited by strong drink, he gave no attention to the striking proverb of Ahab. Many have gone to ruin because through the stupor of drunkenness, they have failed to heed proper warnings.

7. A Prophet Sent to Ahab (vv. 13-14).

Who the prophet was, we are not told, but why he was sent, is made clear. He brought from God a promise of victory which was to cause Ahab to know Jehovah. It was a marvelous display of God's goodness and grace. Israel deserved the most severe chastisement, but God promised victory for his own sake, in order to make his glory known. The agency by which the victory was to be achieved, was the young man, an agency purposely feeble, that the victory might be seen to be of God.

8. Ahab's Victory Over the Syrians (v. 15-21).

The army of Ahab was but a handful compared with that of the Syrian king (v. 15; cf. v. 10). Benhadad, with confidence in his superior numbers, ordered the young men of Israel to be taken whether they came for peace or war. He, with his princes, continued their drunken debauch. The young men struck right and left, creating great consternation. When the seven thousand reserves joined the young men, a general panic was produced among the Syrians. From the human side, the victory is accounted for by the drunkenness of the Syrians, but from the divine side, we see that God wrought for his own glory. Ahab pursued the Syrians with a great slaughter, but Benhadad escaped. Many have been the defeats which have come through drunkenness; defeats in morals, defeats in religion, defeats in business, defeats in physical endurance. The man who indulges even moderately, has reduced his opportunities of success very greatly. Most of the accidents by automobiles, railroads, etc., are traceable to the use of intoxicating liquors.

9. Short-Sightedness.

Few people, rich or poor, make the most of what they possess. In their anxiety to increase the amount of means for future enjoyment, they are too apt to lose sight of their capability for the present.—Leigh Hunt.

VETERAN ENGINEER HOLDS WORLD'S RECORD

John Francis Mitchell Has Traveled Total of $3,000,- 000 Miles.

The Sentinel herewith presents a man who certainly holds the world's record for rail travel. John Francis Mitchell, a Baltimore, Ohio engineer, began his rail travel at the age of twelve years in the capacity of a "news butcher" on the Sandusky, Mansfield &

JOHN FRANCIS MITCHELL.

Newark railroad, now the Lake Erie division of the B. & O. For six years he doubled this division every day except Sunday, giving him his first start of 300,000 miles on rail.

Becomes Fireman.
At the age of eighteen young Mitchell, owing to his sterling qualities and extreme modesty and politeness had become a great favorite with the trainmen, was given a position as fireman with the B. & O., which had acquired the old B. & N. railroad, calling it the Lake Erie division. Mitchell only fired a short time on freight until he was given a place as a passenger fireman. Soon after the B. & O. drove the line into Chicago, in 1873, Mr. Mitchell was promoted to engineer, and transferred to the Chicago division, where he has remained ever since.

Forty Years on Passenger.
In 1877, the year of the first great railroad strike, Mitchell was given a passenger engine, which place he holds today, pulling fast express trains Nos. 13 and 14 between Garrett and Chicago Junction. Coupled with his long years of service at the throttle this veteran engineer has to his credit a long list of very exceptionally fast runs, and all the officers of the road, from the president down, are pleased when they are informed that Mitchell is to pull their special.

Accidents Also.
Mr. Mitchell has by no means been free from accidents (the accounts of which he is loath to speak of), having had three firemen killed while on duty with him. Mr. Mitchell told The Sentinel man that the strict accountability that is placed on firemen both by the various states and railroad companies, and the excellent braking power now in use, has reduced accidents in a very large measure.

Free From Censure.
While he has a long list of accidents to his credit, he is justly proud of the fact that he has not been counted as the guilty party, but owing to his eagerness to bring his trains on time and the lack of that protection which he should have had can be accounted for, all or nearly so, the accidents which he is compelled to father.

Right here let it be said that John Mitchell always made his fast runs and pulled off his wrecks out on the road, and not on the streets, cigar stores, or boarding houses. In Garrett, his home town, he is seldom seen away from home except going out or coming in on his runs. He was among the railroad men at Garrett to purchase an automobile, and takes great pleasure in running the same. His home was for years adjacent to the city where he owned a small farm, but the rise in value of land has induced him to dispose of nearly all his land. Mr. Mitchell has always been very temperate in his habits and very rarely misses making his regular runs, and in years gone by made many extras which has helped to put him past the three million mark. During the world's fair held at Chicago in 1893 Mr. Mitchell doubled the division between Garrett and Chicago a great portion of the time on account of the heavy travel and a lack of engineers.

Has Five Years Ahead.
Owing to the age of his road Mr. Mitchell has five years yet to serve, and if no accident befalls him in that time will be permitted to add about 300,000 to his credit. This sketch would not be complete were we to omit the fact that he is a man for whom he fired a long time on passenger and who helped to school him is still living at Garrett, Reuben Lantz, now past the seventy mark and on the retired list, but who looks on "Johnnie" as of his production of which he is justly proud.

LINVILL MAKE BIG HIT IN THE EAST

Walter Hayes Linvill, sergeant with Battery B of the Rainbow division, Fort Wayne, stationed at Mineola, L. I., has struck it fine in the east. Upon the instance of a relative he delivered such a thrilling patriotic address before the Ohio club in New York city that he was made a life member, with no dues. Sergeant Linvill has gained several pounds weight and is progressing nicely. He is anxious to see "Gay Paree," and has a nice roll of money saved up for that event, besides having saved a considerable amount for the future, and purchasing a $10,000 life policy through the government.

CHALMER KLEINKNIGHT NOW AT FT. THOMAS

Bluffton Boy, Who Enlisted Here, Writes Interesting Letter.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kleinknight, of Bluffton, is in receipt of the following letter from their son, Chalmer, who enlisted last week at the Fort Wayne recruiting station; and is now at Fort Thomas, Ky.:

"Dear Mother and all:
As I finally reached my destination I will write you a few lines. I got in Indianapolis about 7:30 Saturday evening. There was a man at the station to meet us. He took us down to the office and examined us and all passed. There were four of us. Then he took us down to the restaurant and got our supper. We had bread and butter, coffee, fried potatoes, fish, baked beans and I could have had more if I wanted it. We had to report up again at the office at ten that evening. He then took us down to the depot and got us tickets to Cincinnati. The train was due at 10:30 but it was several hours late so they sent us to Richmond. We got there at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. We had to stay there until about four and then we got on a train and got at Cincinnati at seven this morning. We then took a street car across the Ohio river, over into Kentucky and got here about eight o'clock. They took our measure for our uniforms and this is as far as I have gotten. They have not examined us yet. This is a fine place but it is so hilly. There are such high hills everywhere and the sun seems to come up in the south to me. This morning I am sitting in the Y. M. C. A. building. There is a preacher talking and they are playing the piano and singing, "Since Jesus Came Into My Heart," just like they sang at the tabernacle at Osnab. They are now singing "The Church in the Wilderness." They have good singing. It makes me think of Emmaus. I couldn't eat all of my lunch so I gave it to my fellow men. I am feeling fine and am anxious to go to work and do what I can. I have seen some fine sights but I did not of the traveling after night. Well I must close. Love to all, from your son, Chalmer."

REFUSES CHANCE TO RETURN STOLEN MONEY

William Swartz Decides That He Prefers Serving to Working.

A sentence of $10 and costs and ninety days on the Indiana state farm was given to William Swartz by Judge Kerr Wednesday morning in police court. Swartz had been in the employ of the Domestic Coal company as driver. He kept a collection of $14, telling the company that he had lost the money. Sergeant Pappert was called and found that the man has a previous record. He was given another chance, however, the coal company agreeing to keep him at work until the deficit was made up. Swartz stuck a day and then quit.

Pat Welsh Back Again.
Pat Welsh, the 74-year-old resident of Bluffton, who makes Fort Wayne a regular site for his sojourns, was in again Wednesday morning. The man's advanced age stood him in good cause and he will be sent back to Bluffton as soon as the sheriff from that place arrives.

William Webb and Ed Ray were fined $1 and costs on drunk charges, as was Jacob Smith. Andrew Ireland was sent back to work, while John Luther, who asserts that he isn't drunk unless he "can't go," was given $1 and costs. Charles Grieves, the insane man, was ordered held until October 27. The cases of J. Nolan and Maud Lorraine were continued indefinitely.

More Rotted Peaches.
N. Ansars, the Calhoun street fruit store man who was given $25 and costs for selling decayed fruit to Mrs. George Dager on Monday, was given the same fine for selling peaches from the same lot to Mrs. Cartwright, 1319 Rockhill street. The case, like the former one, was appealed.

Wants to Find Brother.
Father Fisher, of South Bend, has filed inquiries at police headquarters concerning the whereabouts of Payl Gyselbrecht, last heard of two years ago. A sister living in South Bend would like to find him. Little description, save that he is 70 years old, can be given as the sister hasn't seen him for forty years.

He was a consistent and active member of the Zion Lutheran church, of Bull Rapids, where the funeral will be held at a time to be announced later. BIG CROWDS SEE ART FLY IN MANCHURIA

Fort Wayne Boy and Mother Are Great Favorites in Japan.

The Sentinel is in receipt of two copies of the Manchuria Daily News, published at Dairen, one containing splendid pictures of Art Smith, Fort Wayne birdboy, and his mother, Mrs. Smith, who is touring Japan with him. The other copy shows Art and his mother standing by their airplane ready to fly at Kakakashi.

The following is taken from the Manchuria Daily News and will be of interest to Smith's many Fort Wayne friends:

"The three special trains composed of box-cars and gondolas (open cars) accommodating in all 3,350 people, which were run from Dairen to Kakakashi (the scene of Mr. Smith's flying exhibitions) were all packed to suffocation. It may be reminded that none of the cars had seating accommodation, and men, women, and children, packed like sardines, had to be on their legs all the way to the destination; unless they squatted on the floor like aborigines, which posture would have been choking and untenable. Return tickets were specially issued for these passengers. One cost 40 sen.

"Even on the ordinary passenger trains, of which there were three available to intending visitors to the flying ground in time for the exhibition, no free pass was honored yesterday. Every one in the S. M. R. Co. service, from the members of the directorate downwards, had to pay the ordinary fare, excepting of course Mr. Smith, Mrs. Smith, Sr., Mr. Kushibiki (Manager), etc.

"The last passenger train available which was scheduled to leave Dairen at 1:50 p. m., but really started at 2:10 p. m., was composed of altogether twenty cars. The press of crowd at the ticket window was awful, and a few policemen had to be about to enforce order. The eager crowds made a dash for the cars the moment the police permitted them. Soon every car was filled up, and every bit of standing space even on the platforms was taken up. A good number more were picked up at Choushulzu Junction, where many from up north, such as Chinchow, Wafanglien, etc., must have joined the excursion party.

"Among the visitors poured forth from the last train at the destination were observed Mrs. Smith, Sr., with Mr. Kushibiki, Mr. A. A. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Larkins, Mr. Winning, and several foreign guests at the Yamato hotel.

"There were already a dense throng of visitors forming a thick wall along a long line of ropes marking off one side of the flying ground. Thousands of them came from Port Arthur. Seven men who had followed Mr. Smith's party all the way from Tokyo to Formosa, Chosen, etc., were selling pictorial post cards, giving pictures of the American aviator, his mother, and his fancy flights, etc., toy aeroplanes, etc. They all appeared to be driving thriving business.

"They hired extra men to peddle their wares and one of them asked Mr. Kushibiki himself to buy some."

"The sheds on the beach were used as improvised visitors' stands, and Mr. Smith and his assistants were seen hard at work, looking after the details after re-erecting the biplane. There was nothing particular to distinguish it from others of its kind to a layman's eye, but we understand that it is one of the Curdin system with many improvements devised and introduced by its owner, which impart thereto special advantages and make it superior to others of the same system beyond comparison.

"There were Mr. Kabayama (director of the S. M. R. Co., under whose auspices the exhibition was pulled off), a group of military officers, a large number of ladies, etc., watching the re-erecting operation.

"The machine was pushed forward on its wheels far out west to nearer the shore.

"Mr. Smith was heard remarking that the broad expanse of the sandy beach gently sloping down to the shore made a most excellent flying ground, indeed none better he had yet met with in his professional tour in Japan and her colonies.

"The weather was clear and bright. A fresh sea breeze was blowing shoreward. The sun was shining unclouded a good deal to the west, as it was about 3:30 p. m. that the throbs of the propeller were heard and the aviator gracefully skimmed the ground for some distance and then started on an ascent. He made a circuitous cruise and went through a series of revolutions. This operation was carried out with apparent ease and elegance and was made conspicuous by the red top of the biplane shining in the sun as the machine revolved round and round as it flew on. Now and then trails of white and brown smoke were seen floating in the biplane's wake. They were fireworks and would have delighted the spectators much better if it were night.

"Presently the aviator took a perpendicular ascent rising 3,700 ft. in 6 minutes which the machine was dropping like an iron ball, could hardly believe that it was but part of the show. They were struck for the moment with consternation that something must have really gone wrong with the machine. Anon, the biplane stopped sharp in descent and flew ahead to the relief of some of the lookers. Involuntarily hand were clapped and caps and hats were waved with enthusiasm by the admiring and charmed throng. Some skimming flight close to the ground followed and the machine regained the ground about 15 minutes after the first start.

"The multitude were transported with delight. In fact, only a percentage of them had had the fortune of seeing anything like it before.

"In the second flight, Mr. Kushibiki was invited to fly as a companion. The manager took his seat behind the aviator and had his arms around the other's waist. The manager informed his friends later that, as the machine flew up higher, he felt seized with a very queer sensation akin to terror. His clutch around the aviator's waist naturally tightened, and the latter jocularly told the other to be brave and to stretch out his hands. Very soon the unnoisy sensation wore off, but the manager could not loosen his grip altogether. It was his first experience to be up in the air. His principal had promised to take him up with him when the aviator came across an opportunity which made him feel perfectly safe to take a lesson with him. Such opportunity was presented yesterday. The second flight began at 4:07 p. m. and lasted eight minutes. The wind had been gathering force, and the manager observed that he could hardly face the wind without some protection.

"The aviator flew in his ordinary dress, his breast all aglow with about twenty medals presented by as many cities in Japan. They formed part of his beautiful collection composed of about fifty. They were of varying shapes, colours, and designs, but appeared all costly and beautiful. Most of them were close to the high artistic merit. In the third and fourth flights, also, a companion was taken up, and accordingly no more fanciful feats were performed.

"In the meantime, the crowds on the beach thinned, and every special and ordinary train for both Dairen and Port Arthur were filled by home-going visitors.

"The biplane was brought back to the point where it had been re-erected, the point where it had been re-erected, and Mr. Smith and his assistants proceeded straightway to take it to pieces.

"The aviator and party left Kakakashi by the passenger train which arrived at Dairen at 7 p. m. They intended to leave for Peking by last evening's train, but, an aeroplane being regarded as an implement of war by the Peking Government, its import into Chinese territory must be subject to the permission of the War Office, and on enquiry it was found necessary to apply for permission through the proper channel, and an application was telegraphed in Mr. Smith's name, with the endorsement of Mr. A. A. Williamson (local American Consul).

"Mr. Smith and party will leave Dairen this evening, perhaps with the exception of Mr. Kushibiki who may follow them a day later.

"The crowd on the beach is estimated to have exceeded 10,000. Many Chinese from the neighboring villages were among the wondering spectators."

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Albion, Ind., Oct. 27.—A number of diphtheria cases are reported in Jefferson township, east of Albion, the entire family of Samuel Kline being afflicted, and one case in the Troup family on the Melvin farm, there also being a number of exposures among the children of Rehoboth school. County Health Officers Drs. J. W. Morr and B. E. Miller, of Albion, examined the throats of the pupils and a few were dismissed to await results, but the school will be continued, not, however, without closely watching the throats of the youngsters and dismissing the suspicious ones if the disease further appears. Every precaution will be taken to prevent the spread of the dread disease.

TRIBUTE IS PAID LATE J. M. M'KAY

Resolutions Are Passed at Annual Meeting of the Y. M. C. A.

Resolutions in memory of the late James M. McKay, a life-long friend and member of the board of trustees and central board of the Young Men's Christian association were passed at the annual meeting of the association Monday evening. The resolutions are signed by S. F. Bowser, W. N. Ballou, J. E. N. Dillon, P. H. Doty, E. E. Griest, O. N. Heaton, B. H. Hudson, S. W. Lenfesty, R. H. Mauk, B. Paul Mossman, A. H. Perfect, M. S. Willson and Theodore Wentz, members of the board of trustees and central board.

The great ruler of the universe, in His infinite wisdom, has quietly and so unexpectedly called away to that land from whose hallowed no traveler ever returns, our beloved friend and brother, James Marshall McKay; and as we bid farewell to him whom we so much loved, we offer words of regret and comfort to those whose loss is even greater than our own.

Mr. McKay was an earnest, faithful, devout Christian, loved and respected by all who knew him. He was a man of sterling worth, living very close to the all-wise Counselor, and his advice was timely and always held in high regard.

He was elected a member of the Central Board of the Fort Wayne Young Men's Christian association, August 5, 1889, and was deeply interested in all its activities, having served four years, 1899, 1901, 1905 and 1907, as president of the association.

He was not only interested in the welfare of the young men of our city, but of our country as well, and gave liberally of his means to support the causes that were dear to him.

It is with deep sorrow and a feeling of immeasurable loss that his associates in the Young Men's Christian association work in Fort Wayne bow to the inevitable decree. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Fort Wayne Young Men's Christian association deeply deplores the death of our beloved friend, James Marshall McKay. We commend to all the world the example of his manly Christian character. Be it further Resolved, That we extend our tender sympathy and condolence to the sorrowing family, trusting that the Great God of the universe will comfort and sustain them."

Maxwell Makes Report.
O. E. Maxwell, chairman of the railroad department, was heartily applauded for the report he gave of an unusually successful year's work. Through the efforts of this committee of management, composed of representatives from each of the transportation lines entering Fort Wayne, the accounting system has been greatly improved, the membership and records put in first class condition, the building repaired and improved in many ways.

Very successful membership campaigns last fall brought in 117 new members. The membership running as high as 246 in the month of February. The baths were used nearly 3,000 times.

The reading and social rooms have been an attractive and enjoyable place to an increasing number of men. A very successful series of five educational lectures were given. Several noon day shop meetings were attended by over 6,000 men, while many have been carrying on bible class study, visiting their fellow members and doing personal work.

This committee made an important decision during the year, after thorough investigation of all interests involved, reporting to the Central Board that as soon as the new Central building is completed, and necessary revision made in the constitution, the railroad work will be directed from the new building but will retain its departmental organization and promote progressive work for all transportation lines entering Fort Wayne.

J. E. N. Dillon, treasurer of the railroad department, reported receipts amounting to $4,585.55 and disbursements amounting to $4,339.02. The balance on hand was $246.53. He also reported that the current expenses of the department were in excellent condition and that the income from the capital of property owned by the association for this department was taking care of all real estate indebtedness.

A special committee of the reorganization of the association composed of S. B. Bechtel, E. E. Griest, B. P. Mossman, A. H. Perfect, and E. W. Peirce presented the following resolution:

In view of the anticipated change in organization in the future, it is moved that the present members of the Central Board be re-elected to serve until the proposed new constitution be adopted; and that all officers and committees be re-elected or re-appointed for the same period and the work in all lines of activities be continued as at present and pushed as vigorously and effectively as possible.

This resolution was unanimously adopted, continuing in office present members and officers of the Central Board. E. B. Griest, president; E. Paul Mossman, vice president; R. H. Mauk, recording secretary; Theo. Wentz, treasurer; S. F. Bowser, W. N. Ballou, J. E. N. Dillon, S. W. Lenfesty, W. E. Mossman, A. H. Perfect and M. S. Willson. Also the following trustees: S. F. Bowser, chairman; B. P. Mossman, vice chairman; E. E. Griest, P. H. Doty, B. H. Hudson and Judge O. N. Heaton.

President Griest then announced reappointment of S. B. Bechtel as chairman of city committee department of management and O. E. Maxwell chairman of railroad committee department of management. E. W. Peirce was re-elected general secretary for the next twelve months.

ALL CANDIDATES MEET ON COMMON PLATFORM

Three Aspirants for Mayor Talk Before Community Center.

All Fort Wayne candidates for mayor and several other aspirants for city office met upon the platform of the Wayne Knit Community Center, at the Wayne Knit club house, Friday evening.

The candidates had a part in the community center program by invitation from Prof. Ross Lockridge, director of the activities of the center and head of the welfare department of the Wayne Knitting mills. "A friendly five minute talk" was the exacting request of each speaker.

Each of the majority candidates, who spoke for the first time during the campaign from the same platform, dwelt upon the difficulty of being "friendly" in heated moments of the city contest. All of the three candidates for mayor had other speaking engagements during the evening and only lingered for a few minutes at the Wayne Knit Community Center.

Members of the new forum interspersed their literary program by community singing of the songs of long ago. They were led by Prof. J. H. Harshman, professor of music in Tri-State college, Angola.

It was the old time songs which furnished the text for the brief speech by Sherman C. Niezer, republican mayor candidate and first to arrive at the community meeting.

"You have made me recall the days of the old singing school," said Cuthill in closing. "I can hear the sweet old melodies yet and the squeaky school organ. Your songs have brought back long forgotten joys."

Mr. Niezer Talks.
Maurice C. Niezer, democratic candidate for mayor, recalled the advancements made by the Wayne Knitting mills. He complimented the spirit of the community center and the plan of inviting open discussion on all subjects. He predicted the success of the organization, because of the principles it represents. On the subject of his candidacy, Niezer said:

"I am only asking to become your business manager. My only ambition will be to perform the city duties as I see them after I become your mayor."

Philip H. Doty, socialist majority candidate, over-stepped the mark of his time allotment by talking for nearly thirty minutes. He decried the principal of a state utilities commission. He explained that the socialists propose to establish a municipal gas plant, backing plant, ice plant, coal yard and other utilities.

Among the other candidates to speak was John Hoffman, democratic candidate for city court judge. He explained the intricate workings of the police court.

"There were 2,742 cases in city court last year and less than one-third of them were for intoxication," Hoffman stated. "There are 1,142 different statutes governing city court cases."

Harry M. McMillen, republican candidate for councilman from the Fifth ward, also spoke. He told about playing as a barefoot boy about the grounds where the Wayne Knitting Mills now stand.

Alfred Wright, socialist candidate for councilman from the Fifth ward, also spoke of the growth of the west side since the Knitting Mills were established.

Big Attendance.
Nearly every chair in the Wayne Knit clubhouse was filled by the 250 people who attended the community program. There was much interest in the singing of old-time songs. The clubhouse rang with the words of "Old Black Joe," "Swanee River" and "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean."

Special musical numbers were given by the Wayne Knit Mandolin club and a vocal duet by Miss Irene O'Connor and Charles Cartwright was much enjoyed.

Six of the Gym Knit girls enacted the laugh-provoking pantomime, "The Popular Girl."

Much interest is being aroused in the community center organization among the Wayne Knitting Mills employees. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, November 7, when a debate on some live subject is promised.

Prof. Ross Lockridge, by virtue of his position as head of the welfare department of the knitting mills, was made director of the community center Friday night. The advisory board will be made up of Carrie Schroeder, A. P. Reuther and Rev. C. O. Shiley.

The constitution and by-laws adopted for the community center Friday night follow:

Preamble.
Whereas, There is need of better community spirit such as should be cultivated and improved through community meetings, under friendly auspices;

And, whereas, the Wayne Knitting mills offers through its welfare department the use of the Wayne Knit club house to employees and resident members of the community for neighborhood gatherings of a civic and social character;

Therefore, we, the employees of the Wayne Knitting mills, together with th resident citizens of the west end, constitute ourselves a community center to hold meetings in the club house for the purpose of developing intelligent public spirit through the open presentation and free discussion of subjects pertaining to our common welfare and of cultivating community feeling and social culture through community music and such other recreational and social activities as give promise of common benefit.

For the better government of this movement, we adopt the following constitution:

LIGHTS AND PHONES DAMAGED BY STORM

Two Inch Rain Fall Carries Water Into Number of Cellars.

Telephones and electric light lines suffered most in the series of thunder storms which shook Fort Wayne Sunday night. Linemen were busy in the rain Monday, repairing nearly 200 damaged telephones, which had been rendered useless by lightning shocks. Nearly every part of the city suffered as to damaged lights. It will be several days before all the service light wires have been repaired.

twelve hours of rainfall since autumn opened. On the 17th and 18th of October there was 2.56-100 inches of rainfall in forty-eight hours, which mark may be beaten in the next few hours.

City workmen were engaged on Monday in cleaning out catch basins which are choked by fallen leaves. In a few cases where the corner basins were filled by leaves, on Sunday night, the water backed up across walks and cellars were flooded.

The continued wet weather of the past few days has caused all construction work to stand still. There is no action on street paving, track elevation work or the completing of the reservoir roof.

Driven from Their Home. Jack Henderson and sister, living along the Hartzell creek east of Fort Wayne, on the Lincoln highway, were driven from their home early Monday morning because of the high waters. The creek has overflowed its banks and is within eighteen inches of the high-water mark of the 1913 flood.

Much damage was wrought by Sunday night's storm, especially to corn. Hundreds of stalks of corn were seen floating down the various streams in the county.

The river stage Monday morning at 7 o'clock was 19.3. Serious flood conditions in Fort Wayne, however, are not anticipated, it being predicted by the weather bureau that the present rain will turn to snow by evening.

Many Cellars Flooded. Many cellars are flooded in various parts of the city. When Fred Hohani, residing on Cornell Circle at the foot of Harrison boulevard, went to his basement Monday morning he found the water up to the second fruit shelf, to a depth of five feet.

WILL JOHNSON GOES TO LEXINGTON SALE

Chosen by National Association of Shorthorn Breeders as Representative.

County Auditor Will Johnson, who has been a leader in all Shorthorn cattle activities about Fort Wayne for some time, has been honored by the American Shorthorn Breeders' association by his appointment as a representative to the Shorthorn sale to be held next Wednesday at Lexington, Kentucky. Mr. Johnson will also be present at a banquet, held Tuesday night, which will be attended by many of the leading cattle men of the country. This sale is held in order to push the operations of thoroughbred live stock breeders as far south as possible.

To Plan for Poultry Show. Members of the Fort Wayne Poultry association will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening to discuss plans for the annual poultry show. As in the past the committee in charge is having trouble in finding a suitable building in which to hold the exhibit. Fred Lang is president and C. J. Howenstein, secretary-treasurer of the association.

AWAITS MORE WORD FROM INDIANAPOLIS

Henry Beadell Has Made No Plans for Action as Fuel Aid.

Henry Beadell, retired business man, has accepted the position as fuel administrator for Allen county conditionally.

providing it does not monopolize all of my time to the exclusion of the part which I expect to take in other patriotic activities," Mr. Beadell stated Monday morning.

There is no compensation connected with the job, not even for the actual expenses which is no small matter. However, this would not deter Mr. Beadell providing the position, as he has stated, does not take all of his time. He will be able to make definite announcement as soon as he receives word from Indianapolis setting out the exact nature of his duties in bettering the fuel situation in Allen county.

Press announcement from Indianapolis stated that Mr. Beadell will be expected to ascertain the exact status of the fuel situation here and to make regular reports to the state capital. He will be expected to appoint a committee to help him in the work, in the event he takes up the effort.

Appointment of Mr. Beadell was made by Evans Woollen, of Indianapolis, state fuel administrator, upon recommendation of W. H. Scheiman, chairman of the Allen County Council of Defense, and E. C. Miller, president of the Commercial club.

No better choice could have been made. Mr. Beadell has always been found a leader in every patriotic and civic movement. He has been a potent factor in the success of the Red Cross and liberty loan drives.

Fresh Mutiny in German Army

Slacker Fathers May Send Sons Into Army

EXEMPTIONS ARE TO BE REVOKED BY THE BOARDS OF APPEAL

Exempts Whose Fathers Have Flouted Liberty Loan, Red Cross and Other War Aids Will Go.

FORT WAYNE CENTER OF MUCH OF THAT

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—District appeal boards of Indiana were authorized by Jesse Eschbach, state conscription agent, today to revoke exemptions granted for industrial reasons to men called under the selective draft law where the fathers of the men exempted have not supported to a reasonable degree the campaigns of the American Red Cross Liberty bond sales, the Y. M. C. A. or allied war programs.

Mr. Eschbach said his attention had been called first to the failure of the fathers of a number of men who had been exempted because of farm work or other industrial pursuits, to support the various war programs by the district appeal board sitting in Fort Wayne, and that he had found similar conditions in other parts of the state upon personal investigation. For this reason he said he had authorized the district appeal boards in Indiana to revoke the exemptions they had granted the sons of men who were unwilling to "do their bit."

Summary of the Day's War News

Gen. Cadorna's rear guards are doing notable work in their efforts to slow up the advance of the Austro-German invaders of northeastern Italy, according to the indications in today's official report from Rome. The retreat toward the line of the Tagliamento river is continuing under this protecting shield. Along the streams that thickly thread the Friuli plain and on the eminences further north the troops are making numerous stands and compelling the Austro-Germans to halt and fight, while the Italian cavalry continues to harass the advancing columns.

Berlin's announcement says the campaign is developed in accordance with the Austro-German leaders' intentions.

German and Austrian troops are driving through the plains of Venetia toward the Tagliamento river, while another army is endeavoring to break through the Italian defense in the Carnic Alps in an attempt to outflank the Tagliamento line.

Udine, abandoned some days ago by General Cadorna, has been occupied by the invaders, whose advance guards are being harassed by Italian cavalry between Udine and the Tagliamento.

G. Cadorna apparently has succeeded in saving the bulk of the forces which occupied positions south of Tolmino, as during the last two days Berlin has made no claim of additional captures of large numbers of prisoners and guns. Udine is less than fifteen miles from the Tagliamento, and if the Italian commander is to make a stand there heavy fighting along that line should take place within a day or two at the latest.

The German's threatening movement in the Carnic region has not developed

ONE MILLION TONS OF NEW SHIPPING BY FIRST OF MARCH

Washington, Oct. 31.—American ship yards will complete one million tons of ships by March 1, Chairman Hurley, of the shipping board today told a conference of Atlantic coast builders and government officials, called to discuss speeding up the ship building program.

"In the whole of 1915," said Mr. Hurley, "we turned out little over 750,000 tons. We will achieve in the next four months far more than we achieved in twelve months. The new goal of our expectations is ten times the production of 1916. But we can't achieve this by ordinary methods by normal or by average initiative. This is an extraordinary period of the country's history. We are confronted with an abnormal task and must apply abnormal methods. Every ounce of our energy and initiative must be directed toward the achievement in the greatest task ever imposed upon a nation in war."

The chief subjects taken up at the meeting were increasing the labor supply and better co-operation between the government and ship builders.

FOOD PLEDGE GAINS FAVOR

Drive for Conservation is Making Big Headway in the Land.

BELIEVED GOAL WILL BE REACHED

In Some Sections the Total is Far Beyond the Allotment.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The third day of the "food pledge week" campaign opened with 3,722,518 families enlisted in the cause of food conservation, according to tabulations compiled at the campaign headquarters here. This is an increase of 117,855 over the official figures given out last night by the United States food administration.

The figures are based on meager returns from about thirty states and represent only one or two districts in each state. They are significant, however, in that in almost every case the number of enrollments is beyond the expectations of the campaign managers for the particular districts for the short period of canvassing. One district in Colorado reported 17,232 pledges signed in one day, which is in excess of its original quota for the whole week.

Of the states that have sent in returns, Virginia leads the field with over 107,000 pledge cards. Maine is now second with about 90,000, and Indiana third with 85,000.

It is announced that the work throughout the country is being delayed because of the rain, snow and wind storms.

CHRYSANTHEMUM HAS BEEN NAMED 'GEN. PERSHING'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—The "General Pershing" chrysanthemum, one of the newest creations of government floricultural experts, will be placed on exhibition at the department of agriculture's annual "mum" show which opens tomorrow and will continue for a week.

The floral tribute to the commander of the American expeditionary forces in France is described as a plant of rich gentia and is a product of the department's green houses. The exhibit will include many other new varieties of chrysanthemums of rare beauty and brilliancy as well as past favorites.

Haig's New Smash Stinging Defeat for Bavarian Crown Prince.

BRITISH ADVANCE GAINS NEW GROUND

Canadians Play Brilliant Part in the Great Victory.

British Front in Belgium, Tuesday, Oct. 30.—(By the Associated Press).—The forces of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria today suffered another stinging defeat when the British reached across a sea of mud and wrenched away still more of the few remaining defenses of the enemy's Paschendale system. It has been another proud day for Canada. Her troops this afternoon were sitting almost at the gates of Paschendale and from their positions astride the Broodseinde-Paschendale highway along the ridge they could see only 400 yards away the great church which stands in the center of the village.

Hammered Both Sides.

While the Canadians were battling their way forward here in the face of fierce resistance from the Bavarians, comrades on their left were hammering their way along the Meetechele or Bellevue spur to points which seem to have carried them well beyond the hamlet of Meetechele and the numerous machine gun defenses with which the elevation was covered. There was a sanguinary firing in both sections. The

NO OFFICIAL WORD IS OUT

Appointment of Count von Hertling as Chancellor is Believed Certain.

HAS STIPULATED THE CONDITIONS

Berlin Officialdom is to Keep Hands Off and Michaelis to Retire.

London, Oct. 31.—No official announcement of the appointment of Count von Hertling as German chancellor has been made, according to special dispatches from Amsterdam, but it is believed to be certain. The Lokal Anzeiger, of Berlin, and the Neueste Nachrichten, of Munich, say the count has accepted, while the Deutsche Tages Zeitung says he will accept and that Dr. Michaelis will become premier of Prussia.

On the other hand, a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Amsterdam ascribes to Catholic centrist circles in the Bavarian chamber of deputies the statement that von Hertling's acceptance is conditional upon Dr. Michaelis not having any high official position and upon von Hertling being wholly independent of Berlin official circles.

The Rheinische Westfälische Zeitung, of Essen, is indignant over the possibility of von Hertling's appointment.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The Italian ambassador, Count Di Cellere, in a message today to America's Italian population, declares that the people of Italy and their army are firm in their determination to carry on the fight against the Austro-German invaders to a victorious end. The message, which was prompted by requests from Italian citizens in the United States for information regarding the Italian situation, has been sent to all Italian consuls for distribution, as well as to all Italian language newspapers in this country.

It is as follows:

"From every corner of America messages have reached me in which the Italian citizens confirming their attachment to their country, invoke information on the situation in Italy."

BALL MAGNATE OFFERS SERVICE TO GOVERNMENT

Chicago, Oct. 31.—President James C. Dunn, of the Cleveland American league club, has offered his services and has placed at the disposal of the government the large construction company of which he is the head. He said that his company has just completed forty-seven miles of railroad in Indiana and that it is prepared for immediate service in connection with the war.

"I put our company at the disposal of the government without any string to the offer," said Mr. Dunn. "It is fully equipped and organized to undertake any kind of construction work for the government. We shall not object if we are sent to join Capt. T. L. Huston, of the New York, Americans, who is with an engineering regiment in France."

Mr. Dunn said he was in favor of a shorter playing schedule for the major leagues next season.

MUTINEERS ARE FINALLY MASTERED

Amsterdam, Oct. 31.—According to the newspaper Les Nouvelles a serious mutiny has occurred among German soldiers at the Beverloo camp in Belgium. The men, it is said, refused to go to the front and damaged their own rifles in some cases, while others fired on their officers, several of whom were wounded.

The mutineers were finally mastered and removed on cattle trucks.

The frontier guard at Brouhout, according to the same authority, deserted on October 15.

GERMANY CLAIMS GAINS

Berlin, Oct. 31.—British attacks repeated many times were repulsed on the muddy battlefield in Flanders yesterday. In some instances ground lost is said to have been regained in counter attacks. The result of the day's fighting is characterized as a new success for the Germans. The British reported to have suffered heavily without gaining advantages.

SOLDIER QUITE LOVELORN ENDS HIS CRUEL LIFE

New York, Oct. 31.—Corporal Berney E. Loveman, 25 years old, 167th United States infantry, of Birmingham, Ala., committed suicide early today by jumping from an eighth floor window of an uptown hotel where he had been stopping for several days. A letter asked that J. H. Loveman, of Birmingham, be notified of his death. A marriage license, obtained yesterday showed that Loveman planned to marry Miss Regine Gianokop, of this city. Two wedding rings bearing the initials of Loveman and the young woman were found with the license. Police inquiry developed that Loveman's act was due to opposition to the wedding on the part of the girl's father who told the corporal that a marriage would be unwise while he, in service, faced the possibility of going abroad and returning a cripple.

ARE TESTING CHANGE IN MACHINE VOTING

The two voting machines, which stand in the lobby of the court house are much in use these days as the voting method is to be different from former years.

The machines now in use demand the voting of a straight party ticket as the first move of the voter. After the citizen has expressed his party preference by pulling down the small, individual levers and raising the levers above the names of the men of another party faith whom he chooses to favor.

The process is directly opposite that of former years, but is most simple to operate.

Sarah Bernhardt.

Sarah Bernhardt, who comes to the Majestic theater on Nov. 7, Wednesday evening, is more than a woman of talent. She is more than a genius; she is a world-famed personality. In foreign lands she has won plaudits for the masterpieces of French literature, and has won affection for the gentle French speech.

She begins her tenth triumphal tour to America—a veritable ambassador of French letters. She has the prestige of exotism, which has brought to all nations—to all peoples—the greatest French names, ancient and modern. Her life has indeed been the incarnation of French art in all its forms. Has any other French woman, or French man, done as much, in this way, for France as Sarah Bernhardt? It is well indeed that France holds her as the great French patriot, whose fame is immortal as artist and woman.

Mme. Bernhardt will be supported here by her company from her own theater in Paris, including Jean Angelo, her leading man. At each performance the following artists will also appear: Jean Cooper, contralto; Annie Louise David, harpist; Jean Duval & Co. in "Gems of Art;" Albert Donnelly, shadows; Florence Harde-man, violinist; Rome Fenton, tenor.

Mme. Bernhardt will be seen here in scenes from among her greatest triumphs, "Merchant of Venice," as Cleopatra. Mail orders are now being received and filled in order of receipt.

AT THE PALACE

HUMAN FLY THURSDAY.

Harry Gardner to Open Three-Day Engagement at Palace.

Harry Gardner is going to tell Fort Wayne just how he does it and some stories about interesting folks and crowds he has met in his years as the original Human Fly. He is going to do all this at the New Palace opening tomorrow and appearing at each matinee and evening performance. Mr. Gardner possesses that rarest of gifts, the ability to tell a story and tell it well. In addition to his amusing comments on the experiences of a lifetime devoted to spectacular athletic feats, he will project a reel of films depicting some of his most sensational climbs.

The bill on which Mr. Gardner will appear is a whizz. Harry Langdon and company in the automobile comedy, "Johnny's New Car;" Pat Barrett, the musical comedy favorite, in

SAW TROOPS IN FRONT LINE TRENCHES

Dr. Rice, Who Speaks Friday, Has Interesting Story.

A representative company of Fort Wayne men will listen on Friday evening to a thrilling address by Dr. Merton S. Rice, the widely-known Detroit minister, who will tell of conditions "over there." Dr. Rice was sent to Europe as representative of the International Y. M. C. A., and from his position as an investigator, acting under the authority of this organization of world-wide interest, he was able to go into the front-line trenches and everywhere that his duties and inclinations directed. Dr. Rice will be one of the speakers at the informal banquet at the Anthony on Friday evening of this week. A second speaker in the person of David W. Teachout, of Cleveland, will prove of special interest as an example of real service in times of war. It appears that Mr. Teachout and his father, who are engaged in business in Cleveland under the name of the Teachout Lumber company, are devoted to the giving of themselves and their means to the furthering of democracy's war. Fort Wayne people have learned that in addition to contributing liberally of their means on all occasions, the father and son have combined to give of their own personal service as far as their ability enables them to do. In conversation one day, the son said to the father that he desired to devote his time to some worthy branch of the service.

"For instance?" inquired the father. "The Y. M. C. A. furnishes the field in which I believe I can do the most good," replied the son. "But this will throw the burden of the business upon your shoulders, and I feel it is more than you ought to assume."

The father replied that if the son were willing to place himself at the service of the Y. M. C. A. he would be glad to assume the burdens of the business and so the arrangement was made. The younger Teachout has been serving as the general secretary of the work at Camp Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis. The Teachouts have given several thousand dollars to the Y. M. C. A. work in connection with the war service.

The invitations to Friday evening's events have been issued by a committee composed of E. F. Yarnelle, S. M. Foster, S. F. Bowser, Henry C. Paul, J. M. Burgett, Dr. M. F. Porter, E. G. Hoffman, F. S. Hunting, Herman Freiburger, Arthur F. Hall, Otto Schroll, A. S. Bond, B. Paul Mossman, E. J. Little, Owen N. Heaton, E. E. Griest, F. J. Thieme, Fort Wayne; R. A. DUDDO MEN BUY LOTS IN COUNTRY CLUB GARDENS.

Country Club Gardens seem to occupy the center of interest among the men who are connected with the Duddo Manufacturing company. Frank Greer, 312 West Williams street, is one of several Duddo men who have just bought in the Gardens with the intention of building in the spring. The sale was made by Frank W. Smitley for the City & Suburban Building company. Country Club Gardens are rapidly growing into a community of people with a common interest. The prices are reasonable and the terms are easy, and no doubt the few lots now remaining will soon be taken.

SAVES 3,000 LOAVES OF WHEAT BREAD

Restaurants Join in Effort to Keep Great Food Trust.

Enough wheat to make 3,000 loaves of bread was saved by Fort Wayne, Wednesday, in the city's first effort to observe the wheatless day order of Food Administrator Hoover.

Reports from bakers of the city, not including several small concerns, shows that 3,000 less loaves of wheat bread were put on the market on Wednesday. Graham and rye breads made up the principal substitutions.

Many restaurants joined in the wheatless day effort and ordered no wheat bread from their bakers. Corn bread, rye and graham breads and corn wafers were the bread diets for those who ate in many restaurants and cafeterias Wednesday noon.

There was not a bakery but what reported that the wheatless day call had made a difference in their baking program. Those who deal only through grocers to the housewives state that they cut their wheat bread allotment in two on Tuesday night as they had

Liberty Bands Take Stage as Modern Vigilantes to Strike Terror.

MAKING EXAMPLE OF A PACIFIST LEADER

Recalls Old Days of the Southern Ku Klux and Molly Maguires.

Special Dispatch From Our Washington Bureau.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Now the Liberty Bands have taken their place on the American war stage. Out of the west has come the memory of the old Vigilantes, and from the south the spirit of the Ku-Klux-Klan, to join in Kentucky in inspiring the first of a new organization of night riders to apply the American system of emergency justice to emergencies of the war.

The first Liberty Band outbreak was the capture and chastisement of Herbert S. Bigelow, well known Ohio

pacifist, by a Kentucky motor crew following night rider methods on a six-cylinder basis. No one here is willing to stake his reputation as a prophet on the assertion that it will be the last Liberty Band outbreak.

On this new organization—the Liberty Bands—which seems to have constituted itself an extra-legal constabulary for the purpose of keeping pacifism within bonds, official Washington has no opinion.

But without approving the Liberty Band, official Washington is forced to recognize their existence, and to face the possibility that their methods will spread.

These citizens' posses, it is pointed out, have sprung up during every national crisis, and governmental process has never sufficed satisfactorily to control them.

The first American vigilance committees, parents of the long line of similar organizations, were creatures of the revolutionary period. They were formed in many communities to enforce non-importation agreements and to ferret out Tories.

Most notable were the Vigilantes, in California in 1848 and 1849, when legal government did not keep pace with the influx of thousands of gold-seekers. Vigilantes were common in many frontier communities until officials of the law were stable enough to keep order.

In the southern states prior to the civil war, vigilance committees sometimes enforced the will of the community against abolitionists, or others suspected of disloyalty to the south, and to prevent the circulation of abolition literature.

After the civil war the Ku-Klux-Klan terrorized almost the entire south from 1866 to 1872, visiting its wrath on aspiring negroes and "carpet-bag" politicians from the north. It was the south's weapon to nullify the enfranchisement of the negro, and keep the political control in the hands of the whites. Its warnings, couched in awe-some phrases and marked by strange hieroglyphics, struck terror to negro politicians and to northern organizers.

Among the sectional organizations of vigilantes one of the most unique was that of the Molly Maguires, which fomented strife in Pennsylvania in the seventies and eighties of the last century. The Molly Maguires were composed of miners and others whom they admitted as sympathizers. Originally confining their activities to hazing and cowing strike-breakers and others who disrupted the mining conditions the employees were working for, the society finally degenerated into a band for paying off private grudges with thugery and murder, and was broken up by the United States government.

The Kentucky Night Riders, who even within the past decade have galloped over the hills and valleys through which Bigelow was spirited by his motor caravan escort, were the latest outbreak of vigilante justice prior to the Liberty Bands. They were bands of tobacco growers, dissatisfied with the purchasers' pooling arrangements, which, they felt, deprived them of a fair return for their crops. They patrolled the countryside, burning crops, destroying barns and warehouses, frightening and punishing those who did not join in their program.

Medicines That Aid Nature Most Effectual.

As a general rule the medicines that aid Nature are most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids Nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. When you have need of such a medicine give it a trial. You will never regret it.—Advertisement.

In response to generous contribution of hard work and service, every member of the cast of four hundred people looks upon the people of Fort Wayne as willing co-operators in making the receipts as large as possible. All of the net proceeds will go to making the soldiers more comfortable while fighting the war for democracy.

BRITISH AIRMEN IN

BIG BOMBING RAID

Explosives Dropped on German Positions, Says Report.

London, Oct. 30.—The British war office tonight issued the following statement on aviation activities:

"Yesterday there were a few fine intervals during which our airplanes fired several rounds from their machine guns at the enemy troops in the trenches and on the roads. More than 100 bombs were dropped on hostile billets at Roulers and elsewhere during today and again at night. In air fighting, four hostile machines were driven down and one was driven down out of commission. Two of our machines are missing.

"Last night our machines again attacked the railway station and lines around Saarbrücken (Rhenish Prussia) northeast of Metz (Germany). The bombs were seen to burst with good effect. All our machines returned, though the weather conditions were exceptionally bad. This morning at 11 o'clock twelve of our machines went further afield and attacked the munition works and gas works at Pir-masens, twenty miles beyond Saarbrücken.

"Bombs were seen to burst on factories and the gas works with excellent results. Many photographs were taken and the weather was good. All our machines returned safely."

AROUND THE TOWN WITH HOSEY—A 4.

As we view the matter, it is of no great import or consequence who advised Candidate Cutshall four years ago to apply to Mayor-Elect Hosey for reappointment to the office of comptroller. We again repeat that Mr. Cutshall had entire right to do that.

The point at this time is that what Mr. Cutshall then thought and said of Mayor Hosey was contrary to everything he thinks and says now of Mayor Hosey. He then regarded Mayor Hosey as the foremost exemplar of municipal government and city progress and public spirit in Fort Wayne. He then wanted to attach himself to Mayor Hosey's administration, convinced that it was going to prove the "best this city ever had known." Mr. Cutshall had thought so well of Mayor Hosey's previous administration and set so much store by the promise of Mayor Hosey's oncoming administration that he had supported Mr. Hosey in the last municipal elections.

Now Mr. Cutshall and all his train are engaged in a vast campaign of bitter and incontinent detraction of Mayor Hosey. The evil things they all utter about Mayor Hosey are put forth as the reasons why Maurice C. Niezer should not be elected mayor of this city. They charge that Mr. Niezer is merely a blind for "Hoseyism"—whatever that is. They accuse Mr. Niezer with seeking the mayoralty solely that Mayor Hosey may continue his domination of affairs in the city hall. Of course, this is the merest balderdash. Mr. Cutshall and his supporters know that it is. They know that as mayor Mr. Niezer will run his own administration. They know that it is Mayor Hosey's uppermost desire to lay down the cares of office and seek the repose that the state of his health enjoins. But suppose that what they say of Mayor Hosey's pretensions to continued exercise of control and a purpose to dominate Mr. Niezer's administration were true. What honest exception can Mr. Cutshall take to that? Mayor Hosey has had a stronger endorsement from no man than he has had from Mr. Cutshall himself. He cannot get away from the statements of his letter, try he never so hard. What he has written he has written and there it stands.

If Mr. Cutshall, in writing to Mayor Hosey four years ago, was honest, then his present criticism, abuse and detraction of Mayor Hosey are not honest. If he were wilfully dishonest four years ago, is he to be now believed? If he committed himself then to hypocrisy and untruth, he was prostituting himself basely to obtain office. If he were honest then, he is employing dishonesty today and basely prostituting himself to obtain office.

Mr. Niezer is not "hooked up" with Mayor Hosey nor with any person or persons save the whole body of the people of Fort Wayne, whom he has promised to serve and will serve faithfully in the mayor's office. But if he were "hooked up" with Mayor Hosey, would it be any worse than that Mr. Cutshall should have been? Mr. Cutshall plainly and frankly wanted to be so "hooked up." He employed his best overtures and his strongest influences that it might be brought about. If there is any reproach in a design to be "hooked up" with Mayor Hosey it all belongs to Mr. Cutshall. He is the only candidate who has sought such a connection. And he either was not honest in seeking it or he is now not honest in denouncing it.

LET US HAVE IT EXPLAINED.

Candidate Cutshall and his managers have discovered that the municipal lighting enterprise is an issue in this campaign. They did not apprehend that three weeks ago, when Mr. Cutshall delivered his keynote and promulgated the platform of his candidacy. On that occasion he dismissed the issue in a score of words. Yesterday he made this statement in one of his speeches:

I shall exert every endeavor to make Fort Wayne's lighting plant a model of efficiency for the entire country to copy.
To that end it is necessary that the city lighting plant occupy the local field alone and unhampered by private competition. It is inevitably the function of the municipality owned light plant that it shall serve every light and power customer in Fort Wayne, and I shall direct its energies with that desirable end solely in view in the event of my election.
There is no sense in the city's spending thousands and thousands of dollars in building and equipping a lighting plant and then spending thousands more in advertising the fact that we citizens ought to buy from ourselves. This waste can be eliminated entirely by making the city plant the only one serving customers in Fort Wayne, and if I am the next mayor of Fort Wayne I shall make every endeavor to accomplish that.

That sounds well. But Mr. Cutshall did not "see it first." It is a belated and unconvincing position he takes. What he says has all along been the policy of the Fort Wayne democracy in respect of the municipal lighting enterprise. Mayor Hosey has declared repeatedly that such is and must be the policy of the city if it means to continue in the light and power business and give the people the full benefit of the municipal industry.

The disconcerting phase of Mr. Cutshall's utterance, taken in connection with his previous timidity and vagueness in discussing the lighting enterprise of the city, is his sweeping and aggressive declaration for establishment of city monopoly. It has been more than a rumor about the city for a long time that in the event of Mr. Cutshall's election there would be disclosed a plan for unloading upon the city the light and power department of the traction company's business.

Is that what Mr. Cutshall means by and includes in his promise that if elected he will "make every endeavor to accomplish" a city monopoly of the business in this city? Mr. Cutshall should illuminate his purpose and make clear his notion of the accomplishment of a monopoly.

If the city can get the legislature to remove the shackles of the state public service law and the strangle-hold the state utilities board have upon the Fort Wayne municipal lighting plant there will not be any great delay in achieving the entire field and accomplishing a monopolization of the light and power business in Fort Wayne. That would today have been well-nigh if not entirely accomplished if it were not that Mr. Cutshall's staunchest supporter and endorser took it upon himself to destroy the bill that had been introduced in the last legislature to give the people of this city relief from the rates prevailing and to enable the city lighting department to go ahead and occupy the field.

We do not believe the people of Fort Wayne want to make a very heavy investment in junk or pay a fancy price for business that it can speedily get without cost if it be given free field.

What has Mr. Cutshall further to say about his plans for a municipal light and power monopoly?

FOOD CONSERVATION WEEK.

If there were no war to put us under many new stresses and our food supplies for ourselves alone were as abundant as we ever knew them to be, the crusade this week for the conservation of food would be a fine thing for all of us.

Americans are the best fed people in the world. They are in singular degree an over-fed and wasteful people. We eat too much and we waste too much. Nowhere on the earth do the great mass of the people so give themselves over to habits of incontinent stuffing; nowhere do they so prodigally cast away what they do not consume.

This habit of eating too much is something of a national vice, just as this practice of waste is a national sin. Keen European observers have noted these shortcomings of Americans many times and have written much upon them.

Now we are in a great war. We must win it and we can win it only by helping those with whom we fight the good cause. They are suffering for want of food. We have an abundance for ourselves, but not such an abundance as can be divided with our friends in the war except that we conserve our stores. We ought to save what we can get along without and at once get the benefits of more temperate feeding and give them the benefit of what we shall not ourselves consume.

To help win the war is the great purpose of the food pledge campaign this week. Every household in the United States ought to be enlisted heartily in this good cause. It will to begin with help our government and our allies. It will make for a better general health of our people. It will eliminate waste and extravagance that cost us much. It will put the savings in our pockets. There is every reason for and not a single reason against the food pledge. Sign it.

It is pointed out and consolingly recalled that little more than three years ago the Germans were within cannon range of Paris. They were checked, stopped, turned back and given an overlasting whaling at the Marne. Perhaps General Cadorna will be able to repeat the glory of the Joffre victory. Here's hoping.

Last Day of Grace Before War Taxes Take Effect

Washington, Oct. 31.—This is the last day of grace from many new war taxes.

With the exception of increased letter rates and tobacco taxes which go into effect Friday, the special stamp taxes on documents, legal instruments and parcel post packages which go into operation December 1, all special taxes begin to apply at midnight tonight.

They include:

One cent on each dime paid for amusement admissions.

Three per cent on payments for freight transportation.

Eight per cent on passenger fares.

Ten per cent on payments for Pullman and similar accommodations.

Five per cent on oil pipe line transportation.

One cent for each 20 cents or fraction paid for express packages.

Five cents on each telegraph, telephone or radio message costing fifteen cents or more.

Various taxes on cigars, cigarettes, tobacco and products.

Ten per cent on club dues.

Eight cents on each $100 of new life insurance and one cent on each dollar of premiums paid on fire, marine, casualty and other insurance policies.

Although the tobacco taxes do not become operative until Friday many dealers have already advanced retail prices in anticipation of the tax levies.

Other taxes of the new law, including those on hard and soft drinks, incomes and war-excess profits, have been in effect since the law was approved October 3, but in indirect form.

On December 1, the new stamp taxes, including those on parcel post packages, will be payable, putting the entire law into complete operation, except for increased rates on second class mail, postponed until July 1 next.

Increases in first class mail rates probably will be most generally felt by the people. The law provides that the postage on letters, except "drop"

or local letters, shall be 3 cents; and that on post-cards, including private mailing cards, shall be one cent more than heretofore. This increase includes so-called picture postcards. The advances were made effective thirty days after passage of the law, and are construed by the post office department to begin with letters and post-cards postmarked Nov. 2.

The increases also have been extended by departmental order to first class mail to many foreign countries, which, under postal conventions, have enjoyed the domestic rates. The new 3-cent letter rate, therefore, will apply to letters to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, Panama, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, the Bahamas, Barbados, British Guiana, British Honduras, San Domingo, Dutch West Indies, Leeward Islands, Newfoundland and New Zealand. The post-card increase will extend to Canada, Cuba, Mexico and Panama, the only countries which have enjoyed the domestic post-card rate.

For consumers' convenience, books of postage stamps containing 3-cent stamps are in readiness for sale and the department has had printed thousands of 2-cent post-cards. First class mail postmarked tomorrow or any time prior to 12:01 a. m. Nov. 2, regardless of time taken for delivery, will be transmitted at the old rates but that postmarked thereafter must pay the increased toll.

Amusement admission taxes become effective tomorrow at places charging more than 5 cents. They are 1 cent for each ten cents or fraction paid for such admission, payable by the person admitted but collected by the government from the amusement proprietor, required to make sworn returns to the treasury.

A flat tax of 1 cent for each child under 12 admitted when children are charged also is provided. Passes also are taxed, except those to bona fide employees, municipal officers and children under 12 at the regular rate, which also is extended to cabarets or other entertainment in which the admission is included in the price paid for refreshment, merchandise or service. Persons leasing theater boxes must pay ten per cent on their rental.

The new rates on cigars range from 25 cents to 87 per thousand and on cigarettes from 80 cents to $1.25 per thousand. Five cents a pound is the new tax on tobacco, snuff and other manufactured tobacco, while cigarette papers are taxed from the 1/2 cent to 1 cent per hundred. As the taxes are now reaching the ultimate consumer, the raises mean about 1 cent more on five cent tobacco packages, from 2 to 5 cents on cigarette packages and from 1 to 10 cents on cigars.

The taxes on freight and passenger transportation are also extended to motor vehicle competitors of steam and electric railways and water lines. The passenger transportation tax is not applicable to fares costing 35 cents or less or commutation or season tickets for trips less than thirty miles.

The ten per cent tax on Pullman accommodations is applicable to payments for seats, berths, and staterooms in parlor and sleeping cars or on vessels.

The 5-cent tax on telegraph, telephone or radio messages costing 15 cents or more applies only to those originating in the United States.

Clubs whose dues are less than $12 a year and fees to lodges are exempt from the 10 per cent tax on club dues.

The new insurance taxes are imposed on new policies issued, with insurance policies exempted. Industrial or weekly-payment policies are taxed forty per cent on the first premium on policies for $500 or less.

HENRY BERTSCH IS BURIED AT GRABILL

Deceased Was One of Best Known Farmers in That Section of County.

(Special to The Sentinel). Grabill, Ind., Oct. 31.—This community was considerably shocked on Sunday upon learning of the death of Henry Bertsch, living just west of town. He had been ill for but a short time with an attack of pneumonia. Mr. Bertsch has been a prominent farmer of this community for the past twenty-five years, being proprietor and owner of two large farms along the Leo-Grabill road. He was the father of ten children, all of whom survive him, besides the grief stricken widow. He was always known as a very thrifty and industrious neighbor. The funeral services will be held Tuesday at the Christian Apostolic church of which he had been a faithful member for many years.

Grabill Brief Items.

The epidemic of hog cholera which manifested itself in this community a few weeks ago, is quite well under control as no new cases have been discovered lately, although quite a number of pigs are dying yet, some of which were treated by the veterinary.

Mrs. Laura Howey, of Fort Wayne, is visiting with friends here for a week. Grandma Norris is quite seriously ill at this time, and on account of her advanced age her recovery is doubtful.

The regular services at the Missionary church were dispensed with Sunday evening on account of the special services at the Mennonite church.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yaggy and family, of Woodburn, Ind., visited with Joseph A. Klopferstein and family Sunday.

Paul Clauser and family, of Allentown, Pa., are moving to this place for their future home. Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Clauser, parents of the former, have been living here for about two months.

Mrs. John Conrad, living one mile west of here, is on the sick list.

The funeral services of Mrs. Queen Amstutz, west of here, who died Sunday morning, will be held Tuesday afternoon.

The series of lectures on Bible doctrine which are being conducted by Rev. J. A. Huffman, B. A., at the Mennonite church all this week, are proving to be extremely interesting as well as helpful. On Sunday he delivered three, morning, afternoon and evening, and each time the house

W. G. McMaken Writes Interesting Letter from Lethbridge, Alta, Can.

"When Uncle Sam has gotten into the war as deeply as the people here; when the casualty lists begin to come back as they do here, the states will realize that they are really at war," writes W. G. McMaken, former resident of this city, in a letter to a friend. Mr. McMaken left some months ago for Lethbridge, Alta, Canada, where he has a splendid position with the International Harvester company of Canada. The letter follows:

"We are getting quite well acquainted here in Lethbridge, and like the little city quite well. The population is about 12,000. Out of this town about 1,200 men have gone to the front. The war has hit this country hard and there is a great scarcity of help of all kinds. A modified form of conscription goes into effect today, which will further encroach upon the available man power of the country. When Uncle Sam has gotten into the war as deeply as the people here, when the casualty lists begin to come back as they do here, then the states will realize that they are really at war. One of our men lost one boy by death and another was captured in a battle recently. The postmaster here was killed recently in action. Many deaths and wounded men are reported every few days, but the people have grown used to it and no outward demonstration is apparent. But beneath the surface there is a grim determination to win the war and those at home are working all the time to raise money and supplies for the soldiers at the front and their families at home. Canada has taken a large part in the struggle and given men and money lavishly. Just think, out of a population of about 5,000,000 Canada has sent over 450,000 men to war. Almost 10 per cent of the entire population.

Productive Country.

This is a wonderfully productive territory. Last year a wet season, wheat went as high as seventy bushels per acre. This year, a very dry season, it goes in places as high as fifty-five bushels per acre. A farmer buys land for $25 to $30 per acre, gets a thirty-bushel crop at present prices, pays for the land out of the crop and has enough left to buy the unimproved quarter adjoining or across the road. I had business the other day with a farm company owning 30,000 acres of land. Their crop this year will be 250,000 bushels of wheat besides oats, flax and 300 acres of corn, which was planted as an experiment and turned out fairly well.

This company owns their own elevators, store, etc. Last year held world's record for wheat, averaging 54 bushels per acre on entire farm. This year their average will be better than 30, and it has been very dry. The founder of this company is an American who about ten years ago worked as a section hand here on the C. P. R. Climate Is Fine.

The climate is fine. Warm, sunny weather all summer. Cool nights. The weather right now is better than you are having in Fort Wayne, according to reports. Only a little frost so far this fall. We have large coal mines here, so we have a plentiful supply of cheap fuel. Fuel is about the only thing that is cheap, though. War prices prevail on everything else. The territory I travel extends clear across the Rockies into British Columbia, within a couple hundred miles of Vancouver. The Rockies are certainly a great sight. We can see them from our back door any time we care to look. We live about eighty miles from them and about seventy miles from the Montana line. There are lots of United States people here. About half, I should judge. All of western Canada is "dry" and drunkenness therefore is almost unknown.

Why Colds Are Dangerous.

It is not only the serious diseases that so often start with a cold that make a cold the most dangerous of the minor ailments, but the fact that when a child has a cold he is much more likely to contract germ diseases such as scarlet fever and diphtheria. For this reason every cold should be gotten rid of as quickly as possible. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained a wide reputation for its quick cures of bad colds. You will look a long time before you find a better preparation for that disease.—Advertisement.

MORE INTEREST IN THE FUEL ADMINISTRATOR

County Councils Slow in Naming the Local Food Administrators.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—County Councils are nominating local food administrators with care and deliberation, judging from the reports being made to the Indiana State Council of Defense and to Harry E. Barnard, Indiana food administrator. Dr. Barnard stated today, however, that the nominations should engage the immediate attention of all councils, inasmuch as the federal law becomes effective November 1.

More attention evidently has been made to the selection of a fuel administrator by the county councils. Evans Woolen, the Indiana representative of Harry E. Garfield, federal fuel director, is receiving replies from practically every section of the state, indicating a greater popular interest in this feature of the law than in reference to food.

Dr. Barnard is anxious that the machinery of his state-wide organization be set up without unnecessary delay, to the end that the practical conservation proposed to be effected theroby may start without further delay.

today authorized the following in reference to these new appointments:

"The importance of selecting the very best men in each community for the important post of food administrator and fuel administrator cannot be overestimated. Both are of greatest consequence. They should be big men, experienced and with a grasp of the situation that will take hold at once and aid in the working out of these matters, seriously important to the civilian population and positively vital to the success of our army and our allies in this war against Germany. The food and fuel administrators should be nominated without delay. Too much delay has been experienced; too much delay has been so costly that it will not do to procrastinate. We ask the county councils for action and for a carefully considered nomination."

Young Couple Announce Their Marriage

MR. ELLSWORTH M. GRANT.

MRS. ELLSWORTH M. GRANT.

Two well-known young people who have the respect and affection of their many friends are making the announcement of their marriage today, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth M. Grant. Mrs. Grant was Miss Gladys Whiteratt and she is a daughter of Mr. J. A. Whiteratt, a contractor who lives in South Calhoun street. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Grant took place in Jackson, Mich., on October 2, at the First Presbyterian church, pastor, Rev. A. B. Lippe officiating. The attendants at the marriage were Mrs. Ida Overmyer, foster mother to the groom, and a number of her relatives and friends in Jackson. In fact Jackson was selected for the wedding because it was Mrs. Overmyer's childhood home and the associations were such as to contribute to the pleasure and happiness of all concerned. The bride, who is a sincere and in every way charming young woman, wore a blue tailored suit with furs of silver fox, and a velvet hat to match the suit. It was the wish of the bride and groom to keep their marriage a secret for a short time and none other than the nearest relatives knew of it. Mr. and Mrs. Grant are making their home for the winter with Mrs. Overmyer. Mr. Grant has been employed at the Fort Wayne Printing company for four years. Mr. Grant is a Mason and one of the original members of the Friars, but is now on the associate membership list.

Mrs. W. S. Bash left today for New York city to visit her brother, Darwin S. Root, and wife.

Mrs. J. A. Calhoun and daughter, Miss Julia, left today for Tiffin, O., for four days' visit.

Mrs. John Morris, of Pittsburg, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. W. A. Geiger, of the Portland apartments.

Miss Katherine Wagenhals and Miss Edith Hughes have returned from an automobile trip to Aurora, Louisville and Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Welch have returned from their wedding trip. Mrs. Welch was Miss Helen Howard before her marriage.

Mrs. Earl Harshbarger, of West Berry street, has gone to Crawfordsville for a two weeks' visit at her former home.

Mrs. H. R. Taft, of New York city, has arrived to spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Taft, of Rudisill boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Vall, of Webster street, have guests from Lynn, who are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Grannis, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snyder and Dr. C. E. McCready.

Paul Parks, of Chicago, a former Fort Wayne young man who is in the service of his country, was in the city on Tuesday meeting old friends for a short time.

The members of the West End Embroidery club enjoyed a Hallowe'en party on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Irvin Vaughn, of Putnam street.

Misses Laura Merz, Mildred Tierney, Mattie, Lillie, Katherine and Nora Ahern enjoyed giving a surprise party on Miss Vivian Dutcher, of Baker street, on Monday.

Miss Virginia Westerman, of 825 Madison street, has returned from an extensive trip to both North and South Carolina, Philadelphia and Washington.

There was a merry time at the home of Miss Charlotte Sites last evening when Miss Sites, assisted by Miss Olive Gauntt and Miss Louise Pickard, gave a Hallowe'en party for a number of young men and women. A merry time was enjoyed with the various games and sports suitable for Hallowe'en and it was topped off by a lunch.

A Hallowe'en party tonight will be given by Miss Wilda Cline, of South Hanna street, for a number of her schoolmates. An old witch will meet the girls as they arrive and there will be many black cats, owls, ghosts and Jack-o'-lanterns to remind them of the night and its spookiness. There will be other good things, but the guests are to find them out after they get to Wilda's home.

A delightful Hallowe'en surprise was given at the home of Mrs. Clarence Pion in Spr Run avenue last Thursday evening in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Pappert's birthday anniversary. The evening was spent in cards, games and music. At a late hour an excellent luncheon was served, the following participating: Mrs. W. F. Pappert, Mrs. F. Pappert, Mrs. C. A. Pion, Mrs. E. Pion, Mrs. C. R. Erwin, Mrs. L. Pion, Mrs. E. Craw, Mrs. R. Smith, Mrs. L. Jockel, Mrs. L. Delagrange, Mrs. E. Tierney, Mrs. J. Schreiner, Mrs. E. Doerfel, Mrs. L. Boxberger, Mrs. B. Aubler, Mrs. G. Gamble, Mrs. R. Moody, Mrs. Lauer, Misses Carrie and Lillian Huntine, Anna Doerner, Alma Miller, Inez Jockel and Adeline Freeman.

Misses Lavern Donnell and Irene Bruns gave a masquerade party at the home of the latter, 315 West Williams street, on Monday evening. Those present were Misses Pauline Trowbridge, Grace Kinney, Mildred Bevelheimer, Iva Moorehouse, Virginia Jordan, Rea Harshman, Nondas Linkart, Esther Colling and Irene Donnell. Games and contests were enjoyed and prizes were won by Esther Colling, Irene Donnell, Mildred Bevelheimer and Virginia Jordan. The house was beautifully decorated in black and orange festoons, pumpkins and cornstalks. A dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Donnell and Mrs. Bruns, after which music and dancing furnished the amusements for the rest of the evening.

Vocational School Notice.

There will be no evening classes at the vocational school the rest of this week, after tonight, owing to the convention of parent-teacher clubs in session at Indianapolis.

A Country Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Behrman celebrated their silver wedding anniversary last Saturday at their home southeast of the city by entertaining friends in the evening. A bountiful dinner was the particular form of the hospitality extended by the hosts.

Crapser—Reidinger.

The marriage of Miss Rose Reidinger, of 202 Washington boulevard west, and Mr. Howard Crapser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crapser, of Boone street, took place in Centerville, Mich., on October 29. The bride and groom are now taking a wedding trip. Mr. Crapser is a Nickel Plate brakeman.

Style Show at Orpheum.

More than one woman, either young or older, saw through green spectacles every now and then at the style show at the Orpheum theater last evening that was put on by the Steele-Myers store with their employees as the models. Such good-looking clothes as were shown of all kinds, wraps, gowns, furs, negligees, afternoon and evening creations that were no dreams but the realization of dreams in the way of taste, style and even good sense. No wonder that one felt a twinge of envy. There will be no reason for the woman who is able to buy clothes for not looking as well as good clothes can make her whether she is merely going to church or a sewing society, or to call on her friends or out of town on a visit.

Mr. Gaston Bailhe, Fort Wayne's most prominent violinist, has opened a studio in the Strand theater building. Mr. Bailhe is a graduate of the class of Remy, in the Paris Conservatory, where he studied for five years. The schooling he received from Remy was the same as that given to such noted artists as Kreisler, Carl Flesch, who were classmates of the latter and graduates of the same institution. After a year of work with the famous Colonne orchestra in Paris, he was engaged by Emil Paur as first violinist of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra, remaining with this organization for four years. During his stay in Pittsburgh Mr. Bailhe appeared as soloist with the orchestra and in private recitals. He was instructor at the Beaver college, developing some very talented pupils. As a soloist he shows all the finer attributes of long European training, possessing a beautiful tone, true intonation and great mechanical facility. His long orchestra experience and knowledge imparted by great masters, complete his development as a fine instructor.

Store Vegetables for Winter Table; Uncle Sam's Advice

BY RIDDY BYE.

Although flats multiply rapidly in every large city, the small house persists as the true type of the American home. Whoever is blessed with a cellar should try to fit some corner of it for the patriotic service of storing the fall root crop.

The foresighted housewife will probably put in as many bushels of potatoes as she thinks will keep without sprouting, besides beets, turnips, carrots, parsnips, salsify and onions.

The house cellar, however, is likely to be too dry or too warm. It is therefore advisable to board off a corner of the cellar with a double partition, the walls of which are filled with some non-conductor of heat. This storage vault should be well ventilated, either by flues or by vents at the floor and ceiling.

The United States department of agriculture provides these suggestions for storing root vegetables:

"Potatoes are kept without difficulty in a cool, dry and dark place. Sprouts should not be allowed to grow in the spring.

"Let potatoes may be kept until January if cleaned, dried and packed in chaff so that they will not touch each other.

"Carrots, turnips, parsnips and beets remain plump and fresh if placed in earth or sand filled boxes on the cellar floor. Remove the tops before burying these vegetables."

Cabbage, although a green vegetable, is the most conspicuous rival of root vegetables. Cabbages should be placed in barrels with the roots uppermost.

Pumpkins and squash are also a part of the fall treasure which must be given a place in the cellar. To keep well, they should be thoroughly ripe, should be placed on shelves well separated from each other, and should be wiped with a cloth occasionally.

HOE CAKES.

One pint cornmeal, two tablespoons shortening, one pint milk, one-half teaspoon salt, three teaspoons baking powder.

Scald milk in double boiler; mix cornmeal with a little cold water; add to milk and cook twenty minutes stirring frequently. Add salt and shortening and cool. Add baking powder; form into round, flat cakes and cook in a hot oven until delicately browned.

Mrs. Selma Ringold, of Toledo, O., is the attraction in the way of dramatic readings.

DEMAND PROTECTION AGAINST NEIGHBORS That's Why Realty Developers Establish Building Restrictions.

Is there anyone in Fort Wayne who looks upon a "building restriction" in a new subdivision as a hardship? Yes—but he's the man who would think it eminently proper to build a livery stable or a shoe shop on the lot which adjoins yours. He is the man who wouldn't hesitate to nail together a few old boards and build a shack across the street from you. He is the kind of a man who will buy an old box-car and move it into his lot and live in it and defy you or any other neighbor to compel him to move it away.

"Building restrictions" are tough on people of this type, but they are a godsend to those who have well-learned pride in their home surroundings and who do not propose to let shiftless, careless, unprincipled or malicious persons impair the high character of their environment and thus destroy the real value of their property. Fort Wayne is today suffering from the effects of the platting of unrestricted districts which cannot now be replatted and the development of which is rendered impossible by the presence of haphazard, unsightly buildings and a neighborhood of "don't-care" people. In marked contrast to all this is Wildwood Park, where the building restrictions are the protection of the property of every resident. The kind of people who wish to live in Wildwood Park are the kind who demand and are entitled to this protection.

CHEF MARRIES CASH GIRL AT METROPOLITAN Three Couples Elope to Hillsdale, Mich., and Are Married.

Taking their friends by surprise Savas Kamazis, the popular chef at the Metropolitan restaurant, and Miss Marie Claude, former cash girl at the same place, quietly slipped away Tuesday for some point in Michigan, presumably Hillsdale, where they were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Announcements of their marriage were received by many of their friends Wednesday. Miss Claude is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Claude, residing at 1017 1/2 Broadway. After the first of the month they will be at home to their many friends at 950 Leith street.

Arle B. Cox, son of Cassius Cox, 214 Baker street, and Miss Lucila L. Linnemeyer, 2326 John street, daughter of Charles H. Linnemeyer, eloped to Hillsdale, Mich., the latter part of last week and were married. They returned to this city on Monday. Miss Linnemeyer has been employed in the offices of S. F. Bowser & Co. Mr. Cox is employed as a clerk.

Alphonse I. Pape and Miss Francis E. Kummer, both of Fort Wayne, were married at Hillsdale, by Justice of the Peace C. M. Weaver. Pape is a foreman and lives at 218 West Williams street.

FAMILIES ARE BROKEN UP BECAUSE OF NERVES

Doctors claim a man or woman with a strong nervous system has complete control of happiness. It is only those who are played out by overwork, worry, excesses, and thoughtless dissipation that are quarrelsome and disappointed in life. Do not condemn them, their nerves are starved, they are depleted of life and energy and no thought is given to supply them with food nerve energy to make them calm, strong and controllable.

The foolish waste of nerve force turns a cheerful happy person to the ground that accounts for so many separations.

Nature requires aid and Phosphated Iron is necessary in such conditions of nervousness, because it contains the vital elements of Iron and Phosphorus and powerful vegetable extracts, the very "food help" the nervous system must have if we are to correct degenerate muscles, that sleeplessness and tired all in feeling, lack of energy, ambition and cheerfulness.

Phosphated Iron gets at the root of these troubles because it feeds the blood and nerve centers, it does this naturally and persistently, and cannot fail to strengthen your vitality, energy and renew the efficiency of body and mind.

Special Notice—To insure doctors and their patients getting the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put in capsules only. Do not allow dealers to give you tablets or pills. For sale in Fort Wayne by Meyer Bros. four stores; also D. & N. Pharmacy—Advertisement.

AMERICANS BATHED IN MUD OF THE TRENCHES

Associated Press Correspondent With Sammies on Firing Line.

With the American Army in France, Monday, Oct. 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—The first Americans to establish contact with the Germans today are bathing in the mud of eastern France. They constantly are under fire and constantly have their guns on the enemy.

American shells have been hurled into German territory and they have exploded near the enemy line. On a hill to the right of the explosions, cataraacts of mud are to be seen. To one side an American officer is looking out on the scene through his field glasses. He is trying to see what damage has been done by the artillery to the enemy and his barbed wire entanglements.

Closer to the enemy in the first line trenches is the infantry with the shells of both American and German guns whizzing over their heads. The men are rubber booted and ponchoed. Their moccasins with snow, pellets their helmets. No clothing however, is able to withstand the wind-driven drops of rain and snow, but gunners and infantrymen, although wet, are satisfied, feeling that the honor of having been the first Americans in action is more than sufficient recompense for their discomfort.

The correspondent reached the American position after a long motor ride through shell battered towns. Leaving the motor in one of the towns, he walked the rest of the way. Motor cars attract the eye of the Germans and they are likely to drop a half dozen shells in the direction that any machine may be seen.

The first American battery was almost walked upon before it was discovered. It was so well hidden under the trees and with foliage about it on a low hung wire netting. Under the net, water dripped steadily. Some of the gunners were digging another pit in the mud along side their hidden gun.

Message to Germans. Through the foliage in every direction the ground was undulating. At that moment there was a flash of flame through the mist. It was the crack of a "75" gun and following it closely came the noise of the shell rushing through the air, becoming fainter and fainter as the projectile went on its way to the German position over the crest of a high ridge.

The mud digging artillerymen continued their work without even looking up. A lieutenant from Georgia emerged. He was the officer who directed the first shot. He led the way down the slippery, muddy hill to a dugout covered over with sand bags and logs. There was met a lieutenant from Indiana, of the same battery, who directed the first eighteen shots of the war against Germany from an observation post.

On the other side of the hill was found the first German trench. The muddy gunners were hard at work cleaning their gun.

"This was the first gun fired in the war," said the jaunty lieutenant. "The sergeant inside the pit that fired it."

From South Bend.

Looking into the pit the lieutenant said: "Sergeant, where are you from?" A husky voice replied: "I'm from South Bend."

"Are you Irish?" asked the lieutenant. "No, sir," the sergeant laughingly replied.

At this time orders came for this gun and others of the battery placed in nearby hills in sight and sound of each other to commence firing. The gun on the farther hill went off with a roar and a faint stream of smoke was blown back toward the pit. Inside the pit in which the correspondent stood a voice shouted out the range figures and the lieutenant reported them. A voice inside the pit a moment later yelled that the gunner was ready to fire. The lieutenant gave the command to the gunner. "Watch your bubble!"

The Gun Barks.

The gun barked quickly, the noise being followed by a metallic clank and the shell case was ejected and the gun made ready for the next load.

The lieutenant told the correspondent the story of the first shot of the war, punctuating the narrative throughout with the orders "ready to fire" and "fire," which each time was followed by the report of the gun and the whizz of the shell.

"We came up the night before," said the lieutenant, "and got into position in a driving rain. No horses had arrived. I was anxious to get off the first gun and so were my men. I asked them if they were willing to haul the gun by hand to this place so that we could get the first crack at the Germans. They agreed unanimously so we set out across the fields until we got over there at the base of that hill you can just see in the haze."

"We had a hard time getting the gun, which we have not named yet, over those shell craters. But we labored for many hours and finally reached the spot. Then I got permission to fire."

No Great Result.

"Strictly speaking, the first shot, which was in the nature of a tryout for the gun, simply went into Germany. The sergeant put a high explosive shell there at 6:15 o'clock in the morning."

Another officer here took up the narrative.

"It was in an observation point," he said. "There was a fog as the first shot went singing over. Suddenly the fog lifted and I saw a group of Germans. I directed my gun at them. The shrapnel burst overhead and they took a dive into the ground like so many rabbits."

The lieutenant grinned broadly, shook the water off his shrapnel helmet, and, using both clenched fists to punctuate his remarks, said expressively:

"It was great." He paused for a moment, pointed to the field filled with fresh craters, and continued: "We had a hot time here last night. Fritz tried to get that gun on the hill there and put all those shells behind it. So we all let the Germans have shot for shot. That's the game out here; give them as much as they can send."

Out to the Front Line.

After speaking with the South Bend, Ind., gunner, who fired the first shell for the American artillery into the German lines, the Associated Press correspondent continued toward the first line infantry trenches, occupied by the Americans.

From the artillery lines to the infantry trenches was a considerable distance over muddy hills. The correspondent found the infantry inside the trenches. There also were many wires which ran into switchboards and American and French operators were sitting side by side directing operations.

A guide is necessary to reach the front line, especially when some of the trenches resemble irrigation ditches. The trenches the Americans are occupying begin from a screened position. On the way there shovels and tools were piled high below a hill on which there was a great bell for giving the alarm in case of a gas attack.

Cooks Were Busy.

There under cover were the company cooks busy warming up food that had been brought up in wagons. The ground was covered with a lattice work of small twigs, so it was fairly dry.

Following the guide, the way winds in and out from left to right for many yards between interwoven branches that have been placed on the sides of the trenches. Every now and then a section opens up to a machine gun emplacement.

The American privates in the front splashed through without hesitating, some times getting a footing on step.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast, fast helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious—merry, bright, alert—a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nervous wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, "neumatism," colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—Advertisement.

REFORMED CHURCHES CELEBRATE JOINTLY

Rev. F. W. Kratz Delivers Special Sermon on the Reformation.

Reformation jubilee of unusual interest was celebrated in St. John's Reformed church, Washington boulevard and Webster street. The three Fort Wayne congregations representing the Reformed church in the United States, Salem, Grace and St. John's, united in the service. In spite of the inclement weather, a well-filled auditorium greeted the Rev. F. W. Kratz, pastor of Salem Reformed church, the speaker of the evening.

The services were in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the inauguration of the reformation. The Reformed church dates from the very beginning of this period. In the course of his remarks, the Rev. Dr. Kratz said: "The history of the Reformation is the history of Protestantism, the regeneration of mankind. While Protestantism is the effect of the Reformation, the latter is the result of divine education. The Reformation gave to the world the restoration of Christian principles, the liberty of religion. While Christianity, with its dazzling cross of Calvary, overthrew Judaism, the Reformation with its open Bible overthrew superstition and the power of hierarchy. The language of the reformers is the language of conscience and the expression of the people by men like Zwingli, John Calvin and Martin Luther." Dr. Kratz continued showing the evils of the church at that time and why the degenerated church needed a divine regeneration which culminated in the reformation of head and members.

"Ulrich Zwingli began preaching the gospel of free salvation through Jesus Christ one year earlier than Luther, and his reformation in Switzerland was far more thorough than any of those of his contemporaries. He abolished altars, crucifix, candles, pictures and all the statues in the churches, and gave to the people a simple form of service, making the sermon the principal part of divine worship. God kindled a fire that not even the peasant war in Switzerland or the wrath of the opposing party could extinguish. During that war Zwingli was wounded and later, while lying under an oak tree waiting for relief, was assassinated because he refused to recant. At this crucial time God woke up a man by the name of John Calvin. Originally a lawyer, yet deeply interested in God's kingdom, he was converted like Luther, studied theology and took up the work that Zwingli had left unfinished. Luther had preached the gospel, but had failed to organize the church, as he left that to the state. John Calvin, however, became the organizer and educated the church to self-government. He gave us the Presbyterian form of polity, a consistory, composed of elders and deacons. Calvin's influence became international. Delegates from England, Scotland, Hungary, the Netherlands, Palestine, Russia, Prussia, Holland, which countries accepted the Calvinistic doctrine and polity and gave us the free church. Calvin's doctrines emphasize free prayer, only two sacraments, baptism and holy communion, and life of Christ in the heart of members. Today the Reformed or Calvinistic doctrine has been accepted by the Reformed churches, the Presbyterian, the Congregational, the Methodist, the Baptist with the exception of baptism, and also the Episcopal churches."

RED CROSS WAREHOUSE RECEIVES SHIPMENTS

Large shipments of gauze and knitted garments were received Wednesday at the Red Cross warehouse from Peru, Cary, Logansport and Huntington. These garments will be forwarded from the local warehouse to an eastern port for distribution at the proper places.

Postmaster E. C. Miller, who was recently chosen as Inspector of the Northern Indiana warehouses has returned from a conference of Red Cross directors which was held at Indianapolis. The meeting was held for the purpose of getting together and pushing all movements to a successful ending. The word that an extreme need for better and more surgical dressings is felt at the base hospitals has aroused a bigger interest than ever in this work.

The warehouse also showed the interest they take in other patriotic and civic movements by the excellent showing they made in bond sales for the second Liberty loan. Through an error the sum reported was far below

SWITCHMEN READY TO DEMAND BIG ADVANCE

Fifty Per Cent Increase and Overtime is Base of Overture.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—The committee representing the Switchmen's Union of North America, who last night decided to ask for a 50 per cent increase in wages and time and a half for overtime for members of the union employed on railroads throughout the United States, today began preparations to present their demands to managers of the railroads. Notice of the decision of the committee was sent to all railroad managers and a meeting for the purpose of receiving propositions was asked for December 3. The switchmen allege that their wage scale is approximately the same as seven years ago except for the reduction in the hours brought about by the passage of the Adamson law. The present wage scale for switchmen in the Chicago district is from $2.50 to $4 a day. The Switchmen's Union of North America, which claims a membership of 20,000, is distinct from the switchmen who are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Several days ago members of the latter organization voted to ask for a minimum scale ranging from $5 a day for helpers to $5.50 for night foremen.

Help to Save Nation's Food Supply

In this time of high cost of living, everybody should use all possible means to prevent waste and to help save food. No one means can be more effective than a vigorous campaign to exterminate rats which destroy over two hundred million dollars worth of foodstuffs annually. Keep garbage in rat-proof cans, stop up their holes, and above all exterminate them with Stearns' Paste, which can be bought for a few cents at any store. A two ounce box will usually rid a house or barn of every rat. It destroys mice, cockroaches and waterbugs as well.—Advertisement.

HEROISM OF THE ITALIANS

Holding Their Positions in Spite of Strength of the Foe.

Berlin Says Campaign in Italy Goes According to the Plans.

Paris, Oct. 31.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Rome, says: "The most devoted courage and heroism is shown by detachments garrisoned in isolated positions. One of these belonging to troops operating between Pizzo (Flietz) and Tolmino, was besieged and completely cut off. It sent out a carrier pigeon with the laconic message: 'We will never surrender.' The detachment is provided with provisions for twelve days, so there is every likelihood of its fulfilling its promise. The position held is one of prime importance and it is probable it will play an important part in a counter offensive."

ROTARY CLUB FURTHERS CAMP RECREATION FUND

Will Raise $6,000 to Give American Soldiers Good Environment.

An interesting and busy session was held by the Fort Wayne Rotary club at the Commercial club Wednesday afternoon. True to promise, Wm. F. X. secretary to 3g Poon Chew, appeared on the scene. In real life Chew assumes the title of "Larry" Jundell, but this was unknown to the Rotarians. Mr. Chew gave an interesting address in English and Chinese which was translated by J. J. Griswold into an interesting talk on the food value of rice.

The Fort Wayne Rotary club has undertaken the work of raising Fort Wayne's quota of $6,000 in response to the appeal of the International Rotaries, to be used in creating and maintaining a moral and social condition in the immediate neighborhood of training camps. The following resolution was adopted after the organization had heard the report of Byron H. Sumners, the local delegate to the convention of Ohio and Indiana Rotarians held at Indianapolis.

"Resolved, That the officers of this club be the officers of this campaign, and that they be authorized to organize the same and assign to each member of the Fort Wayne Rotary club a quota of $80 to be secured in pledges during the week of Nov. 4."

In addition to raising the quota in Fort Wayne the club has been instructed to organize for similar work in Auburn, Columbia City, Garrett and Kendallville for a total of about $2,000. The International Rotary pledges $4,000,000 to this great work.

The appeal for help is based upon the fact that there are at the present time more European soldiers disabled by venereal diseases than through injuries of battle. The International Rotaries has undertaken to guarantee that no American soldier shall lose his life except in defense of his country.

DENIES HE SOUGHT

TO NULLIFY DRAFT

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 31.—Frank S. Lamonte, socialist candidate for mayor of Evansville, against whom disbarment proceedings have been brought by the Vanderburgh County Bar association, took the stand in his own defense at Booneville, Warrick county, today. Lamonte admitted that he had made the assertion in several speeches that it was unconstitutional to send men out of the country for military service, but denied that he had advised the violation of the draft law. He testified that he had said the draft law could be tested. Attorneys for the prosecution said that Lamonte is responsible for the failure of several Vanderburgh county men to appear for draft examination. The case is not expected to go to the jury before tomorrow.

HE SMUGGLED RUBBER.

New York, Oct. 31.—A verdict of guilty of violating American laws by attempting to smuggle dental rubber to Norway on a Norwegian ship was brought in today by the federal jury which tried Jos. Newman, a New York importer and exporter; William Hann, one of his employees, and Sven Du Ryeza, a Swede. Oscar Newman was acquitted. Judge Irvin deferred sentence to enable the men to prepare appeal papers. They are out on bail.

FORD LOSES FIRST ROUND OF BIG SUIT

Minority Stockholders in Auto Company Win Demand for Dividends.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 31.—Minority stockholders of the Ford Motor company today won the first round of their fight for increased dividends and a more important voice in the transaction of the company's business. Circuit Judge George S. Hosmer, of Detroit, handed down a decision for the plaintiff in a suit brought by John R. Dodge and Horace E. Dodge, of Detroit, against the Ford Motor company and Henry Ford to compel Ford to disburse about $30,000,000 of accumulated dividends to the company's stockholders.

The Dodge brothers, who are also automobile manufacturers, are also minority stockholders of the Ford Motor company. Henry Ford holds a controlling interest in the Ford organization. Ford announced some months ago that he hoped to use this money to greatly increase his company's business. One of the features of his plan of expansion was the construction of great blast furnaces on River Rouge near Detroit. When the Dodge brothers started their suit they attempted to obtain an injunction permanently restraining Ford from starting construction work on these plans.

The supreme court, however, allowed Ford to begin building, provided he furnished a bond to protect the company's stockholders from loss in case Dodge brothers won their suit. The bond was furnished and the work was started.

Ford, in a formal statement made public some time ago, and in his testimony of the trial of the suit, declared he would appeal the case to the United States supreme court if the lower courts' decisions were against him. It was charged by the Dodge brothers at the trial of their case that Ford was supreme in directing the business of the Ford Motor company and that the minority stockholders had no voice in direction of the company.

One of the officers of the company testified that it was not uncommon for the company to spend from one to five million dollars for materials, without asking the stockholders' approval. He gave as a reason that the company's business had become so large that such transactions were considered to be ordinary routine.

"YELLOW KID" WEIL IS HELD IN BIG SWINDLE

His Photograph is Identified by Charles H. Worden as the Man.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Charles H. Worden, president of the First and Hamilton National bank of Fort Wayne, Ind., Monday identified the rogues' gallery photograph of Joseph Weil, "The Yellow Kid," as that of the "mining promoter" who swindled him out of $15,000 in a fake stock sale two weeks ago. He also identified a photograph of Frank Tarburys, called "the Englishman," as Weil's associate.

The identification was made after Mr. Worden had consulted with Chief Mooney of the detective bureau and an operator of the Burns agency. Tarburys is said to have been the originator of the "Spanish Prisoner" fake, by which huge sums have been taken by confidence men. Weil is said to have amassed a fortune of $200,000.

The Chicago police also have been asked to find the confidence man who a few days ago "took" a bank official living near Bloomington, Ill., for $30,000, and J. B. Tierney met a "big business man" in Excelsior Springs, Mo., and in the course of a promise made they stumbled over a wallet containing steel and other stocks. They found the "millionaire owner" sick ahead. In gratitude for the restoration of the wallet the owner "let Tierney in" on a steel stock deal which cost the banker $15,000.

CROWDS HERE AGAIN FOR SUBURBAN DAY

Attention Divided Between the Stores and "The Human Fly."

At noon today the great crowds on the streets, hundreds of whom are from other cities, shows the growing popularity of Suburban Shopping day. The "human fly," scaling the walls of the court house, was an attraction which appealed to many who had not witnessed the earlier performances of this unique and daring climber.

The spirit of Suburban Shopping day is taking hold of thousands in the outside cities and towns, as well as in the farming districts, where the people are watching the newspapers for the announcement of "specials" in every line of merchandise needed for fall and winter use. Fort Wayne is becoming better known through the medium of this mid-week shopping day than ever before, and those who are now acquainted with the stores are telling their less fully-informed friends of the advantage of buying here, so the day grows through its own momentum.

Fort Wayne is becoming better known through the medium of this mid-week shopping day than ever before, and those who are now acquainted with the stores are telling their less fully-informed friends of the advantage of buying here, so the day grows through its own momentum.

NEARS THREE MILLION MARK

Building Operations in Fort Wayne Reaches Total of $2,950,456.

INCREASE SHOWN OVER LAST YEAR

Month of October Falls Short, However, by Almost $200,000.

Building in the city of Fort Wayne has reached the enormous figure of $2,950,456 for the first ten months of 1917, a war-time construction record unequalled by any city of this size in the United States. There is every indication that the figures will mount past the $3,000,000 mark before the year-end.

The liberty loan effort and promise of more needs for war finance had a telling effect on the building activities of October, however. The monthly record falls $196,145 short of the remarkable showing of October, 1916. During the past month there were 33 building permits issued and representing $106,355 in construction work. In October, 1916, there were 75 permits and $302,500 in building.

Permits to the extent of $2,950,456 have been issued this year as compared with $2,824,131 for 1916 and showing a gain of $126,325 over the year which was paramount in the city's building growth. During the present year the number of building permits have fallen 210 short of 1916 as 527 permits have been given out, as compared with 737 for last year.

The complete record for the two years follows:

BEATS RECORD.

Coal Fire Starts Earliest This Year.

Even a city official may become discouraged about the coal situation. One of the city hall men has been keeping a record for the past eleven years on the date when he started the coal fire in his furnace. This year he finds that he has started his furnace blaze ahead of all former records and he has not put away a full coal supply.

The official started his basement fire on Oct. 5 this year, which is two days ahead of the next earliest date. Whenever the blaze is kindled it means that until the robins sing there must be daily treatment of the big firebox and the blaze maintained throughout the winter from a smouldering glow to a roaring blast.

"Gloomy outlook," mused the city employee as he looked at the list of dates which he had taken from his diary.

Here are the fire-starting dates and it will be noticed that for three years the extended blaze was kindled on Oct. 23: 1906, fire started in furnace on Nov. 4; 1907, Oct. 27; 1908, Nov. 1; 1909, Oct. 14; 1910, Nov. 6; 1911, Oct. 23; 1912, Oct. 23; 1913, Oct. 23; 1914, Oct. 26; 1915, Oct. 7; 1916, Oct. 18, and 1917, Oct. 5.

APPOINT INSPECTORS.

Council Will Act at Special Wednesday Night Session.

The thirty-one election inspectors for the coming city contest will be appointed by the city council, meeting in special session Wednesday night. The inspectors will be democrats according to the state election law, which grants the inspectors to the party polling the largest vote at the last city election. The men have been chosen by the democratic central committee and the council action will be only a matter of ratification.

The inspectors will at once appoint two judges for each precinct, a democrat and republican. The three men will constitute the election board of each precinct.

Chief of Police Lenz will appoint two sheriffs, a republican and democrat, for each election precinct and the election commission will name two clerks, one from each of the two principal parties, for service in each city district.

Each party will also be entitled to a challenger and poll book holder, both of which may stay within the fifty-foot radius of the polling place.

PUSHING POOL BUILDING.

Concrete Work for "Swimming Hole" Well Under Way.

In the face of wintry gales the work on the Lorton park swimming pool is being carried on as rapidly as possible. The Indiana Engineering company, which is doing the concrete building, wants to make a thorough test of the big pool before the bright days of May bring their lure to the cooling depths.

City workmen are laying water mains to connect up with the artificial "swimming hole." The bathing place was made possible by popular subscription which was led by the Rotary club.

PUT UP BOND.

Satisfactory Adjustment of Lakeside Problem Assured.

Bond in the sum of $2,500 for the assurance that the Lakeside dike situation will be handled in a manner satisfactory to the board of works and city engineer was approved by city officials on Tuesday. The bond is signed by Rose and Petricord, interested parties in the construction of the new Lakeside dike.

The bond will be placed on file on Thursday and construction work in the Lakeside region will continue.

START VACCINATIONS.

Active Response to Request for Wholesale Immunization.

Several employees of downtown department stores were vaccinated at the health board office, in the city hall, Wednesday, as a response to the notice that all factory, shop and dry goods store clerks should be inoculated against smallpox.

Factory and store managers have been given to understand that they allow their employees to go unprotected against the disease at their own risk. If smallpox breaks out in the plants or establishments there will be a quarantine of the business which may mean the loss of several days' work. There is no apparent opposition to the vaccination request.

The black and yellow cards are now on nearly 100 homes in the city. Health officers point out that the percentage of smallpox victims is low when the population of the city is considered.

New cases of the disease reported on Wednesday are: Leo Nyboer, Samuel Gratz, 203 East Woodland, Richard Groff, 691 Huffman; and Mack Short, 306 East DeWald street.

Must Not Misrepresent.

Charles Josse, health inspector and deputy food administrator, has given out that at least a part of the peaches shipped to Fort Wayne from New York State are fit for consumption but are cold storage peaches and lack the flavor of full ripened fruit. He states that the peaches may be sold if they are represented as being cold storage fruit.

To Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Romano, 1205 Hayden street—a boy.

REVERSES IN WAR

UNIFY ITALIANS

People of That Country Now Are Forgetting Political Differences.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Gratifying evidences of the unifying effect upon the Italian people of the Austro-German offensive is shown by official cablegrams received here today. Socialists have shown a disposition for a truce in political struggles in order to strengthen the people in resistance to the invasion. The parliamentary socialist group has had several meetings to consider plans of co-operation with the government and only awaits the return to Rome of their leader, Turilli, to take action. Meanwhile they have let it be known that they are disposed to support the government to any extent short of actual participation and the abandonment of socialistic aims and ideals.

The Austro-German offensive is regarded as the last desperate attempt of the central powers by crushing Italy to force a peace before the fourth winter of war begins.

Military experts in Rome are pointing out that the enormous mass of the enemy may menace the Italian rear lines of all advanced positions. This numerical superiority of the enemy makes it necessary to mass the Italian forces by drawing back the arch front and shortening the lines which are now divided and notched along the Isonzo. While this will consolidate and strengthen the Italian lines, the enemy lines will diminish in strength as they advance as they will be obliged to use a large force to maintain their communications and will lose the impetus of the first days.

FOREIGN TRADE BOTH WAYS HAS FALLEN OFF

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—Exports and imports both fell off during September. The decrease of approximately $34,000,000 in exports whose total for September was $486,201,587 is attributed part to the activities of the war trade board in holding up licenses. While the exports have dropped in comparison with August they show a gain of $80,000,000 as compared with July. Imports in September dropped $34,212,481 from August's total of $270,593,378. Gold and silver are going out of the country far in excess of their import.

ILL WITH ERYSIPELAS.

George Clark, passenger brakeman on the Nickel Plate railroad, has been brought home suffering from a severe case of erysipelas. He is confined to his home on DeWald street.

LEAVE FOR FUNERAL.

Mr. and Mrs. George Guidor, of West Wayne street, left today for Lima, O., to attend the funeral of John Black, a prominent man of that city.

MORE GO TO HATTIESBURG

100 Members of 17th Battalion Will Be Transferred Nov. 3.

SERGEANT RUSSEL GIVEN PROMOTION

BY E. F. F. (Staff Correspondent.)

Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Oct. 31.—The fact that the Seventeenth battalion, of which the Fort Wayne boys are members, is in a training depot, has again been illustrated in the fact that 100 more of the members of this battalion will be transferred on or about November 3, 1917.

The consolidation of the Seventeenth and Nineteenth battalions brought with it the addition of 127 more men. However, in the next increment of men who will go to Hattiesburg, Miss., several Fort Wayne young men are included. The list has not been officially announced as yet. However, nearly all the men from the Allen county district will be transferred.

During the past week the Seventeenth battalion also lost three of its officers, who have been with the companies since organization. Those who were transferred to other battalions were Lieut. L. M. Arbogast, of the 65th company, and Lieutenant C. R. McNabb and Lieutenant H. E. Scott, both of the 67th company. The Fort Wayne men in these companies were sorry to hear of their transfer.

Sergeant Larry D. Russel, of the 65th company, who has been acting in the capacity of supply sergeant, has received a very substantial promotion and now has the rank of sergeant major of the Seventeenth battalion. His duties are to take care of the supplies for the entire Seventeenth battalion.

Visitors at Camp.

More Fort Wayne people visited the camp Sunday. Included in the list were the Misses Bogue and Vallette Rouelle, Mr. and Mrs. Gushing.

The Scrampling Sixty-sixth is elated over a fact, however, in the recent transfers that have been made. Through the shifts that were made Captain F. W. Egegan, who is acting battalion commander, was made, in addition to his other duties, commander of this company.

In the Trenches.

Fort Wayne boys are in the trenches. They arrived there several days before the boys did in France. And the boys like it very much, due to the fact that bullets are not flying loosely where they are engaged. The boys are learning the construction of a trench. Those this added instruction to receive are offered to the soldiers are Elvin C. Bair, Arthur W. Miller, George Flaig, Elmer J. Crosh, Henry Berghoff, Thomas Ewing, Leo J. Lauer, Albert Gessler.

They are becoming very proficient in this line of work and they say that if the opportunity should ever present itself that they will be in a position to construct the kind of trenches which will insure safety to their comrades in arms.

More Generosity Shown.

Through the generosity of the division commander the Fort Wayne young men here at this camp and all others are now permitted to remain out in the evenings until 10:30 o'clock. The boys are also allowed to be absent from camp and duties from Saturday noon until midnight. Also from Sunday morning until taps, which now sound at 10:30 o'clock.

The Fort Wayne young men who are still stationed at this training camp have become attached to their work and are all gaining in weight. Health again reigns supreme.

The young men in this battalion are extremely thankful for the benefit which was given at the Majestic theater for them. They desire in this manner to express their heartfelt thanks to Miss Irene Rohyans and Miss Grace Romary, and shall remember this benevolent deed as long as they live.

LIKES ARMY LIFE.

William E. Pendland, a press feeder employed at the Fort Wayne Printing company at the time of his enlistment a few weeks ago, has written from Fort Thomas, Ky., where he is now stationed. Young Pendland joined the army the next day after his twenty-first birthday and would have joined sooner had it not been for parental objections.

"This will be our home for about one more week then we go to Texas, I think," he writes. "This army life can be a whole lot worse than it is, believe me. We get good food and plenty of it."

Enlistments Total 108.

As stated by the recruiting report there were eighty-three enlistments at the Fort Wayne station during the month of October. By enlistments of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning this total has been raised to 108. Of this last number several were colored men who have taken advantage of the opportunity offered their race to join the army. The response to the appeal for colored people needed in the army has not been so read as army recruiting officers had been led to expect and they are anxious for Fort Wayne not to fall down on her record in any department.

A BRILLIANT SHOWING.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 31.—D. C. Wills, chairman of the central liberty loan committee, announced today that the Fourth federal reserve district second liberty loan subscriptions amount to $389,450,000, with returns not all in. The district's quota was $300,000,000 and the goal set by the committee was $400,000,000.

VEILED LADY IN THE MINOTTO CASE KNOWN

Mrs. Eldridge, of New York, Testifies Against the Doubtful Count.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 31.—The mysterious veiled woman witness in the case of Count James Minotto, defendant in deportation proceedings on suspicion of pro-German sympathies, was identified today as Mrs. Chauncey Eldridge, wife of a wireless expert residing at No. 10 Edington avenue, New York city.

The proceedings are for the immigration inspector. Mrs. Eldridge, her features hidden behind a heavy veil, made her first appearance as a witness yesterday. As the hearings are secret her incognito remained complete. Today, however, the name of "C. Eldridge" was observed on her suitcase as, accompanied by her mother, she hurried to catch a train.

When this was called to the attention of Dr. Percy L. Prentiss, in charge of the immigration bureau here, he admitted that she was Mrs. Chauncey Eldridge. He did not divulge the nature of her testimony. Others at the hearing today included Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Company, the packers, and father-in-law of Minotto, Commissioner Prentiss and Charles H. Paul, of the immigration bureau.

Minotto's association with Germans in this country and South America, which he claims were merely of a normal social or business nature, are said to have directed government attention to him, but the technical charge, despite the fact that he is a member of the family of a multi-millionaire, is that he was an alien likely to become a dependent.

FLOODS IN SOUTH AFRICA DESTROY

Thousand British Indian Natives Are Drowned in Natal.

London, Oct. 31.—Four months of abnormal rain in Natal, South Africa, culminated Saturday and Sunday in a storm in which more than eight inches of rain fell in twenty-four hours as a result of which widespread devastation is reported, says a Reuter dispatch from Durban, Natal, today.

The Umgeni river, deeply swollen by the storm, swept suddenly down upon Durban, submerging the thickly populated district on the Springfield flats. Many persons were swept away and drowned, Router's correspondent adds, the mortality being believed great among the Indian population, while much damage was done to railroads by many washouts.

According to a Central News dispatch from Johannesburg the number of British Indian natives drowned is believed to have reached 1,000.

GARRETT MAN IS NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

Lorain, Ohio, Oct. 31.—Having shown that he had no connection whatever with the murder of Mary Koehrer, 13 years old, O. C. Dieschey, of Garrett, Ind., arrested on suspicion, has been released by the police. Women who saw a man leaving the scene of the murder say that Dieschey was not the man.

SILLY TALES ARE BRUITED

Food Pledge Campaign is Halted by Propaganda in Indiana.

DEKALB FARMERS FEAR CHEAP HOGS

Albion Women Do Not Display Food Pledge Cards, Fearing German Troops.

Indianapolis, Oct. 31.—Emphasizing the importance of the work that county food directors will be called upon to do, Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Indiana food administrator, today appealed to the Indiana state council of defense to again urge county councils to make nominations for these important posts.

Dr. Barnard said the enforcement of the federal licensing law which will control retail prices for firms doing a gross business in excess of $100,000 per year tomorrow, November 1, makes more imperative the selection of a competent county director. He stated the food administration through publicity channels expects to effect what will amount to a "black listing" of all retail grocers that ask an unfair profit for their goods and are not within the scope of the federal license law. But thirty-nine counties in the state have asked appointment of directors.

In Albion Dr. Barnard said school children whose mothers had signed cards had returned to school with the information

Toledo Maroons Will Be the Attraction Next Sunday

Racine Team Cancels, But May Play Here on November 11.

In a telegram received Tuesday by Manager Fishing of the Friars, the fast Racine team which was to have been the attraction at League park next Sunday unexpectedly cancelled the game. The telegram stated that a letter would follow giving full explanation. It also stated that the Racine team could come here November 11. Although the Friars have a game for this date, it may be that arrangements can be made for bringing the Racine team here at that time.

The fans, however, are not disappointed for it is remembered that Manager Fishing is not "asleep at the switch." Determined to bring a team here equally as good as the Racine eleven he has not long in accomplishing his purpose with the result that the fast Toledo Maroons, an aggregation in the same class as the Dayton Maroons, will be here. The necessary contract was closed today. In order to bring the Maroons here it was necessary for the Friars to raise the guarantee, as the Maroons already had a game booked.

Efforts to bring the Toledo Maroons to this city have been made before without success and the Friar management is congratulating itself in being able to get them for next Sunday.

Boys' Day.

As has already been stated next Sunday is Boys' day. The following plan has been adopted to facilitate matters: Boys' tickets will be distributed among a half dozen merchants, who agree to advertise them and urge the youngsters to come to their stores for them. So it behooves the Friars in order to know where these free tickets may be secured. One entire side of the grand stand will be reserved for them and everything possible will be done to look after their comfort.

The Friar management has found it impossible to get a return engagement with the Camp Custer team, which opened the season here with a victory over the Friars. The Camp Custer team is signed up for the entire season and thus far has won every game it has played. The only chance of the Camp Custer team playing here again this season is by one of the opposing teams cancelling, which, however, is not probable.

Chicago and Michigan May Play Game for War Benefit

Arrangements Are Being Made for Contest on Thanksgiving Day.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—A football game between the universities of Chicago and Michigan on Thanksgiving day became a probability today when letters were placed in the mail by the Chicago board of athletic control, asking other members of the "Big Ten" whether a game of this character for war charity would meet their approval and stating that if no objection is received a formal suggestion from any college to play a game on that day would be considered.

Football on Thanksgiving day was abolished some years ago and the formal approval of every member of the western conference is necessary before such a game could be scheduled.

On account of the old time rivalry of the Chicago and Michigan teams, which have not met since 1905, Michigan alumni started the movement for a game in the hope of realizing a large sum of money for some war charity. It was pointed out that the receipts of the game in 1905, which Chicago won by a score of two to nothing, reached nearly $40,000 and efforts to obtain seats were similar to those of the recent world's series.

Prof. Albion W. Small, Chicago's faculty representative in the "Big Ten," said: "You may say that Chicago is in a receptive position, of course our ultimate decision will rest upon the wishes and approval of other members of the conference."

Varsity Crosses Freshman Goal Three Times—Strong on Defense.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 31.—Coach Stohm's rejuvenated Indiana varsity showed its metal in the practice yesterday afternoon by running over the freshmen in a short scrimmage, making three touchdowns. The youngsters were unable to stop the fierce attack of the first team, which was led for the first time in eight days by its captain. Hachaway returned to his place in the line and played with his old-time fire. Left End Risley was his regular still suffering from injury. His leg is improving rapidly, however, and he expects to be in shape by Saturday. Risley's past performances with his toe would warrant the assertion that he is liable to score a place kick or two if his teammates get within thirty-five yards of the Ohio State goal line.

That Stohm's men can play as good defensively as when they carry the ball was shown last night when the freshmen were absolutely unable to make headway with Buckeye formations. Stohm gave the youngsters the pigskin and allowed them twenty chances to gain ten yards and they failed. The charging of the varsity line was low and hard and all freshmen plays were smashed before they were fairly started. If the regulars only keep up their present pace the fracas at Indianapolis Saturday will be a regular one. Cunningham, full back on the yearling team, had his collarbone broken in scrimmage.

The biggest pep meeting of the season will precede the departure of 2,000 students and townspeople for Indianapolis and will be staged in the gymnasium Thursday night. The Boosters' club has a committee compiling the arrangements. The university band will be present with its new music for the game and the jazz band, which also will make the trip, will be on hand. Coaches Stohm and Rathbun, Capt. Hachaway, Howard and one or two other members are slated as speakers.

James H. Butler, class of 1918, won the contest of the Merchants Light and Heat company of Indianapolis, and will write the message for the photograph of the company. The message submitted by Butler reads: "The proposed schedule of 140 games is all right with me," said President Mevin. "I can understand how some club owners will object, but for the most part I believe the magnates are for it."

Local base ball writers have for two years been prominent in the agitation for a shorter season and a later training trip. It is understood here that President Comiskey, of the Chicago Americans, is the leading opponent of the proposed plan.

SEES NECESSITY OF THIRD MAJOR

Ban Johnson Says Minors Must Make Adjustments Next Season.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—There is a chance for a shorter playing schedule for the major leagues and a third league may become a necessity as a war measure. At least that is the opinion of President B. Johnson, of the American league, who, in company with President Comiskey, of the White Sox, returned from Camp Jerome today.

In discussing the shorter schedule, as well as the prospects for a third league, which might be called "major," President Johnson said that both moves would be in the nature of war measures.

"The matter of a shorter schedule will be taken up at the annual meeting I soon will call," said Mr. Johnson. "I would like to see it in force next season for several reasons which I am not prepared to state now. It would be a schedule of 140 games and would mean a five months' season. The opening game would come about April 26 or 27 and this would permit us to close earlier than we have in the past."

"As for the new league, I know nothing official. The only information I have, I gained from the newspapers. However, the project might benefit the game during the war, and it should be considered a war measure exclusively."

"It is a certainty that the minor leagues will have to make some adjustments next season in order to get by. They can't go on as they have in the past. To combine circuits might help, but the matter is entirely up to those affected."

The United States fuel administrator for Indiana indicates very clearly that, for the present, his policy is to be one of encouragement for those channels of business already in use, rather than the creation of new ones. In his reply to Geo. W. Bollenbacher's offer of a mine that has been closed down for several years this policy is set forth.

Mr. Bollenbacher recently wrote the administrator that a mine near Washington, Ind., opened in 1890 and operated until 1895, could be turned over to any one who cared to reopen the property. In replying to this offer the administrator said he would keep the offer on file, but at present the policy is to encourage production in mines already operating until the maximum capacity is reached.

Several bankers have indicated a lack of sympathy for the plan formulated by the United States fuel administrator for Indiana, whereby a retail coal dealer, asking for relief, is required to file with the administrator a guaranty by his banker that the coal bill will be paid. The administrator realized this was an unusual method of handling the problem, but it meets an unusual situation. The practice of sending drafts on bills of lading invariably results in delays in forwarding cars and in unloading them.

The coal situation is so acute the fuel administrator is doing everything possible to keep coal cars moving. Bankers throughout the state will not be attitudinizers for the "usual" way of doing business if they wish to co-operate in taking care of Indiana during this season of coal shortage.

Retail dealers from all parts of Indiana, reporting to the office of the United States fuel administrator, in Indianapolis, insist that between 15 and 25 per cent. of the people who generally get in their winter supply of coal during the summer, took this precautionary action during last summer. As a result the demands for deliveries to Indiana homes is the heaviest it has ever been in the history of the coal industry. The fact that it has been almost impossible to get coal from the eastern and southern fields have thrown an unusual demand on the Indiana mines and this further complicates the Indiana situation.

F. O. Vandoren, representing a packing plant at Saratoga, Ind., appealed to Alexander Holliday, of the United States fuel administrator's office, for coal. Mr. Vandoren stated that his concern would be forced to close down in its rush season if coal could not be had within four days. Relief has been promised.

George E. Brunner, of Kokomo, and S. N. Longworth, of Fort Wayne, were among the coal dealers who called at the office of the United States fuel administrator's office recently asking for aid. Mr. Longworth stated that of twenty-eight coal dealers in Fort Wayne but two had enough coal to be worth mentioning. Mr. Brunner said that the domestic consumers in Kokomo had been holding off the coal at prices on coal would fall and as a result less than 25 per cent. of the Kokomo homes had their winter supply of fuel on hand.

United States Fuel Administrator H. A. Garfield has wired Mr. Evans Woodlen, the administrator for Indiana, that the federal trade commission is to send to the Indiana office an experienced investigator to work on the coal situation. W. J. Hoover is the man and he will work under Mr. Woodlen's direction in the Indiana field.

Van H. Manning, director of the bureau of mines for the federal government, speaking before the state representatives of the fuel administration, said: "About 15,000,000 people shovel the 20 per cent. of our coal used in domestic purposes. The householder must realize that when he throws a shovel full of anthracite coal into his furnace its value is equivalent to half a pound of sugar, or half a loaf of bread, or a pint of milk. He must appreciate that it is worth while to examine his house and to overhaul his heating equipment. Water strips, double windows, pipe covering, clean flues and chimneys, and tight fittings.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching arm and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the arm is so shrouded that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.—Advertisement.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing Freezone, the other discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers. Ask at any pharmacy for a quarter ounce of Freezone, which will cost very little, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

Coach Bachman has been looking over Julian, a substitute guard, as a prospective end. He is too valuable a man to play the bench, according to the DePauw line coach. Julian is fast. He weighs 175 pounds. Smith's disqualification at St. Louis gave Julian the chance that may prove his making. Playing at guard, Julian captured a tumbling punt and the manner in which he carried the ball in returning it marked him as a strong offensive player. He will be tried out at the wing position during the coming two weeks.

Interest of American sportsmen in field trials is evident from the fact that more than forty have been scheduled to take place this fall and winter season, ending in January, 1918. There will be one every week, and to the enthusiasts the test of the dog's ability in the open is better recreation than bench shows.

Society women will compete in events of the national horse show, which will be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, beginning November 12. The receipts will be turned over to the American Red Cross fund.

The eight indoor courts of the Seventh Regiment Tennis club, of New York, will witness many prominent players in action during the next few months. Play will begin with the regimental singles matches December 22. The national singles contests will begin February 11.

RAIN STOPS ARMY ELEVEN. West Pointers Are Much in Need of Practice. West Point, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The army's preparation for the game with Notre Dame next Saturday was halted suddenly yesterday by a heavy downpour of rain. The playing field soon took on the appearance of a quagmire and, although the men are in bad need of heavy work, the coaches would take no chances with the treacherous footing.

There has been no release yet of any of the first-string men who have been idle for a fortnight on account of classroom difficulties, and the army coaches will have to make up for the lost time. Vandegriff and March, who have been laid up with injuries, still are unable to take part in any hard work. In fact, it is doubtful whether they will be able to start the Notre Dame game.

The West Pointers are looking to Saturday's battle as their big game of the season and they are particularly anxious to make a good showing against the west-erners.

COAL PROBLEM IN THE STATE OF INDIANA

Farmers Can Aid Solution by Using Their Wood for Fuel.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—One practical way in which the farmers of Indiana can render material assistance to the state in the coal situation is to use wood for fuel as much as possible. Several dealers have been refusing to sell coal to farmers who have a supply of fuel wood on their farms to tide them over. The United States fuel administrator is urging farmers to reduce their coal consumption as far as possible and in towns where citizens can buy fuel wood it is suggested that insofar as practical, wood be substituted for coal.

The First M. E. church, of Brazil, sets a good precedent for church and social organizations in Indiana during this period of coal shortage. Meetings on the church calendar heretofore held in the evening are being changed over to afternoon in order to make less of a demand on lighting facilities. Insofar as possible these meetings are grouped on Thursday, when the church must be heated for the prayer meeting. Coal conservation is served when the minimum demand is made on electric and gas lights and upon heating facilities.

The United States fuel administrator for Indiana indicates very clearly that, for the present, his policy is to be one of encouragement for those channels of business already in use, rather than the creation of new ones. In his reply to Geo. W. Bollenbacher's offer of a mine that has been closed down for several years this policy is set forth.

Mr. Bollenbacher recently wrote the administrator that a mine near Washington, Ind., opened in 1890 and operated until 1895, could be turned over to any one who cared to reopen the property. In replying to this offer the administrator said he would keep the offer on file, but at present the policy is to encourage production in mines already operating until the maximum capacity is reached.

Several bankers have indicated a lack of sympathy for the plan formulated by the United States fuel administrator for Indiana, whereby a retail coal dealer, asking for relief, is required to file with the administrator a guaranty by his banker that the coal bill will be paid. The administrator realized this was an unusual method of handling the problem, but it meets an unusual situation. The practice of sending drafts on bills of lading invariably results in delays in forwarding cars and in unloading them.

The coal situation is so acute the fuel administrator is doing everything possible to keep coal cars moving. Bankers throughout the state will not be attitudinizers for the "usual" way of doing business if they wish to co-operate in taking care of Indiana during this season of coal shortage.

Retail dealers from all parts of Indiana, reporting to the office of the United States fuel administrator, in Indianapolis, insist that between 15 and 25 per cent. of the people who generally get in their winter supply of coal during the summer, took this precautionary action during last summer. As a result the demands for deliveries to Indiana homes is the heaviest it has ever been in the history of the coal industry. The fact that it has been almost impossible to get coal from the eastern and southern fields have thrown an unusual demand on the Indiana mines and this further complicates the Indiana situation.

F. O. Vandoren, representing a packing plant at Saratoga, Ind., appealed to Alexander Holliday, of the United States fuel administrator's office, for coal. Mr. Vandoren stated that his concern would be forced to close down in its rush season if coal could not be had within four days. Relief has been promised.

George E. Brunner, of Kokomo, and S. N. Longworth, of Fort Wayne, were among the coal dealers who called at the office of the United States fuel administrator's office recently asking for aid. Mr. Longworth stated that of twenty-eight coal dealers in Fort Wayne but two had enough coal to be worth mentioning. Mr. Brunner said that the domestic consumers in Kokomo had been holding off the coal at prices on coal would fall and as a result less than 25 per cent. of the Kokomo homes had their winter supply of fuel on hand.

United States Fuel Administrator H. A. Garfield has wired Mr. Evans Woodlen, the administrator for Indiana, that the federal trade commission is to send to the Indiana office an experienced investigator to work on the coal situation. W. J. Hoover is the man and he will work under Mr. Woodlen's direction in the Indiana field.

Van H. Manning, director of the bureau of mines for the federal government, speaking before the state representatives of the fuel administration, said: "About 15,000,000 people shovel the 20 per cent. of our coal used in domestic purposes. The householder must realize that when he throws a shovel full of anthracite coal into his furnace its value is equivalent to half a pound of sugar, or half a loaf of bread, or a pint of milk. He must appreciate that it is worth while to examine his house and to overhaul his heating equipment. Water strips, double windows, pipe covering, clean flues and chimneys, and tight fittings.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching arm and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the arm is so shrouded that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.—Advertisement.

Sudden Death

Before an insurance company will take a risk on your life the examining physician will test your water and sport whether you are a good risk. When your kidneys get sluggish and stop, you suffer from backache, sickhead, dizziness, or twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism and gout, or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night—take heed, before too late!

You can readily overcome such conditions and prolong life by taking the advice of a famous physician, which is: "Keep the kidneys in good order, avoid too much meat, salt, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking Anurie, in tablet form." You can obtain Anurie at drug stores, the discovery of Dr. Pierce of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo.

NEWS OF MANCHESTER.

Manchester, Ind.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Anurie Tablets for some time in the back due to disordered kidneys, and I find that they give immediate relief and, as a result, I do not hesitate to recommend their use to those similarly afflicted who want something that will get to the spot quickly and stay on the job."—EARL A. PARRETT, Route 3, Box 68.

NEWS OF LOGANSPORT.

Logansport, Ind.—"My husband and I are both enthusiastic users of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. We have found them to be extremely beneficial in relieving us of sick headaches, sluggish liver and constipation. They are very mild, but always effective. I am very glad indeed to recommend the 'Pellets' to anyone in need of such medicine."—Mrs. C. B. STRAHLER, 421 Burlington Ave. For sale by all druggists.

FAVORS SHORTER SEASON. President Navin Believes Most American Magnates Want Out.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 31.—Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit American league base ball club, announced today that he favored a shorter playing season.

"The proposed schedule of 140 games is all right with me," said President Mevin. "I can understand how some club owners will object, but for the most part I believe the magnates are for it."

Local base ball writers have for two years been prominent in the agitation for a shorter season and a later training trip. It is understood here that President Comiskey, of the Chicago Americans, is the leading opponent of the proposed plan.

Noted Diver Has An Ambition to Salvage War Wrecks

GOING TO WORK, WITH MRS JONES AT LINES

BY LOUISE LENOIR THOMAS.

WHAT a tremendous lot of housecleaning this world is going to have to do "when the war ends!"

Mr. Britling said that England didn't want to fight, but it was as if a great mass of filth had been spilled across Belgium and France and it wasn't decent to leave it so—that's why they had to get to work and push the dirt back.

It isn't only Belgium that has to be cleaned up—it is just about every corner of the continent—rather as if some wicked boy had done his worst to play havoc in the household—and succeeded most ingloriously.

Nor must we forget the sewers and water systems which the terrible boy has stopped up with debris and down which he has thrown all manner of valuables which we've got to rescue—not only because they are treasures that we want back again, but because they are clogging up the water system so that we'll not be able to clean house until it is opened once more.

One is reminded of the nursery rhyme—didn't we used to sing it?

"A mother was chasing her son 'round the room,
She was chasing her son 'round the room,
And while she was chasing her son 'round the room—
She was chasing her son 'round the room."

So it has been in the world war—a futile chasing of the wicked boy (let us not say "son") "round the room"—availing one nothing. Those of a sanguine temperament say that the lawless boy has been cornered and that we need do no more chasing "round the room," for he is ready to quit and be good. It isn't quite safe to leave him be and begin our cleaning up after him yet awhile, but after he is thoroughly subdued, the vacuum cleaner must be got out, and restoration begun.

Diver the World Plumber.

Everyone knows more or less of the manner in which the housewife goes about her task of superficial housecleaning—there is the dust rag, the broom, the mop, the vacuum device, the scrub bucket and the brushes. The bachelor who will have none of it, and the hotel habitant who flees when the broom enters, has a certain degree of knowledge thrust upon him, but even the consecrated housewife has vague ideas of the ways and workings of a plumber and the whys and wherefores of the implements he wields—how then can the layman know the mysteries of his pursuit.

It is the deep-sea diver who is the World Plumber, and whom the world must employ to clean out the waterways and set to rights the impaired system, and to rescue the valuable treasures that the terrible boy has so ruthlessly hurled down our once sanitary sewers and pipes.

The analogy need be carried no further.

Since the unspeakable event on May 7, 1915, when the palatial Lusitania was sent to the bottom of the Atlantic with its precious cargo and its priceless lives—$12,000,000 and 1,198 people—the amount of tonnage that has been sunk up until the 1st of last February, aggregates something over 8,000,000. Unhappily, the human lives cannot be restored, and it is futile to take account of that cargo, but of the rest there is much to be thought of and acted upon.

When one stops to think of the things that lie at the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean, the English Channel and the Norwegian seas, awaiting salvage, it is then that one realizes that there are but few products of nature or industry which have not settled in the sands. Clothing, foodstuffs, cotton, silks from the Orient, beasts—these shall have long since rotted away when the diver searches for the lost treasures. Coal, ammunition and machinery—many of which may be not worse off for their long standing in water and can be made use of as soon as the diver brings them to land once more.

Guiding Hands Required.

Considering the millions of dollars lying at the bottom of the seas that would be eternally lost were it not for the men of courage and daring who have made the practice of diving their careers, our interest will doubtless be drawn toward those men of whom we know and hear so little, and tales will be told which will quicken our desire to know something of the diver's life.

Now and then we read in some journal of a ship being drawn up from a harbor bottom, or we stand on the wharf and watch the building of a great bridge that spans a powerful stream of water. "It is all done by machinery," we say, "how wonderful is this mechanical age in which we live!"

Truly, the sunken boat is raised by machinery and the wooden plies are sunk into the river bed and fastened by steam or hydraulic power, but machinery has no mentality, and we cannot send an iron hand into the water and expect it to make an intelligent grasp on the thing we desire it to fetch up, nor can we train a steam builder of bridges to do its work under water without guidance.

More to be wondered at is the work of the man who submits himself to be sunk to the water's bed and there guides the machinery by which "it is all done," than the machinery itself.

To the average inlander the diver is a rare species of human found mostly in the Southern Ocean and Indian seas, where corals, sponges and pearls are gathered—sometimes appearing in river waters and lakes after disaster, picking over the debris like vultures after carrion. The wharf rat knows better. To him the diver is as familiar a figure as is the fireman, though less often. The diver is as necessary, quite, in the New York harbor and at all anchoring places, as the fireman is among the tenement districts. He is an established institution and not a rare occurrence. In his headquarters are men forever on the alert day and night for the signal that shall call them forth and into their grotesque calling, to go down into the black water of the ship's resting place—to repair a leak in a dock—to stop a boat from sinking. Not only is there the emergency diver, who is called to repair disaster, but there is the diver who makes the practice his avocation and is sent for on various "jobs."

Of such an one, James L. Jones of St. Louis is worthy of note, for he is the man who alone was successful in bracing all of the false work for the great free bridge spanning the Mississippi river at that point. The work consisted in diving to the bed of the river and boring holes in the wooden plies by means of an auger run by air power and inserting the bolts for the cross timbers that braced the double piling. This is the first work of the kind ever known to have been successful under water, and Jones has the signal honor of having accomplished a task at which several other divers were set and failed.

Jones, however, does not say, "I accomplished the job." He says "we" did thus and so, for wherever he takes over a "job" his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Jones, accompanies him, acting as his "tender," nor will he go under the water unless she is holding the life line and air hose and watches the men who turn the wheels of the air pump, for if ever a man's life "hangs by a thread" it is the diver, whose life depends upon the rope and hose from which he dangles in the water.

There is no bravery wanting in the make-up of Diver Jones. He has gone down where others less lion-hearted have hung back. "But," he says, "with Mary at the life line I can fear nothing, and when she says 'Go' no earthly power could hold me back."

It was eleven years ago that Jones, a Texas farmer from Dallas county, grew restless of his work and sought an opportunity to quit ranch life for the life of the city. He moved up to St. Louis and got employment as a bridgeman on the McKinley bridge, which was then being constructed across the Mississippi. He would watch with interest the divers who went into the river to do the underwater construction work, and the desire to become one of the clan grew until he ventured to request that he be allowed to don the ponderous underwater attire and go under the muddy currents of the river. The request was granted, and at midnight of that same day he took his first plunge.

"I don't remember my first sensations as the dark water closed over my helmet. I only thought of it as an adventure, but one which I wanted to make a success of, for I was anxious to follow the diver's life. Well, I guess I made a success of my first attempt, for after that I was called upon to do all sorts of jobs and have now been at it for ten years.

The Diver's Suit Described.

Jones describes the grotesque garb that the diver has to wear in defiance of the water.

"A man can't put on the suit alone, for it is of ponderous weight and he has to be screwed into it and buckled down, airtight. First he slips into the 'dress' made of solid sheet India rubber between specially prepared, double-tanned twill that draws over the feet and completely envelops the body from the neck to the soles, save at the hands, which are left bare. In order to draw the tightly fitted vulcanized India rubber cuffs over the hands they have to be soaked to make the 'slip-over' possible. They are the only exposed part of the body in warm weather, but the diver wears heavy rubberized canvas gloves in winter.

"Over this dress the diver puts on his boots, heavily weighted, gun-metal protected, with gun-metal or brass toes and buckles, each boot weighing 20 pounds; then the breastplate and helmet of tinned copper with gun-metal fittings which is fastened to the gasket (a rubber joint) with thumb screws. The helmet looks like the body of an octopus—three eyes glaring out, which are three windows of heavy plate glass in glass frames with wire guards in front to prevent any heavy object that might strike the glass from breaking it.

"The 'front window' is round, and screws into place just as the diver is ready to take his last breath of free air before the air pump is put into action and he makes his descent. The back of the helmet is fitted with an outlet valve with an adjustable cock, by which the excess of air can be let out and, also by which the impure air escapes. The stoppage of this valve (it has been known to freeze shut in icy water) would mean the inflation of the suit with the air which cannot escape until the diver becomes so light that he is shot up to the surface of the water like a balloon."

The two most important things in the diver's outfit is the air hose and the life line. The air hose is of vulcanized India rubber, sometimes wire wrapped, which is attached to the helmet with a gun-metal inlet valve, which admits air, but will not allow it to escape or return through the hose. This hose goes under the diver's left arm and the life line—a half-inch manilla rope—winds under the right arm. By these two lines he is pulled to the surface after his work is done.

Those who work the air pump which supplies the diver with fresh air dare not stop, for, were the supply shut off, the diver's life would last but a moment, or, at the most, two. Ten pounds of air must be sent down for every 25 feet the diver descends, and a gauge indicates the supply he is receiving.

It is Jones' wife who watches this gauge with a jealous interest, and at the same time she is sensitive to any signal on the life line which she holds in her hands. Modern helmets are fitted with telephones, the transmitter being at one side and the receiver fitting over the ears similar to the "hello girl," but old-timers in the diving game scorn all of the new inventions, preferring to carry with them the least possible paraphernalia, and they cling to the use of the life line rather than be incumbered with the modern device of communication. Every jerk of the line has a meaning, and these jerks must be familiar to the tender. Mrs. Jones has learned the code of the diver, and when she feels the life line pulling once, instructs the operators of the pump to send down less air. At two jerks she bids them hasten the supply. Three jerks means "slack off the line, I would go off further." The diver is drawn up at five jerks, and ten, a signal which, happily, he has never had to use, would indicate distress. Each signal is answered by the tender, and the diver is assured that his orders are being carried out.

Jones' diving career had been some four years before his marriage insured for him a permanent "tender," not only in the perils of the water, but on the solid land as well. Before that time an old reliable one-legged salt whom the men called "Andy Anderson" was the faithful holder of the lines. With him above, Jones felt secure in his watery excursions, but one day when "Andy" was absent from his accustomed duty a chap who was rather fond of his liquor tended Jones, and from that day Mrs. Jones resolved to trust the life of her husband to no one save herself. She has since been present at every descent Jones has made, and witnessed many heroic ventures by her diver-husband.

Matter-of-Fact Attitude.

A good diver lacks, perforce, a vivid imagination, and it is with difficulty that one can get him into the mood of victims of the ruthless flood.

"Four years ago we went up to Crafton, Ill., to get the machinery from the wreck of the City of Moline. I had as near an escape then as I ever care to have. After I'd got the lines hooked to the machinery, somehow I got tangled in the wreck and was drawn under the barge and couldn't 'get up'."

"Now, about the most dangerous thing that a diver has to face is the tangling up of his life line and air hose, for there is no chance of 'getting up' unless the life line is intact to give the signal, and—well, if the hose gets a blink in it there's no use in coming up at all. I managed to give the 'slack off,' however, and in some way got off from the wreckage so that they could haul me up—I never knew how."

take it apart, where to fasten the lines and what is worth salvage and what is not, he would better never have attempted the profession. There is always carpenter work to be done—in the mending of a dock, in the patching of a ship's keel and in innumerable other places where the under-water saw and hammer and ax andawl are active implements. Also, like the old tar, he must "know the ropes," for to be able to tie the half-hitch, the timber hitch, the square knot, the boland and half a score of others is as indispensable to the undersea workman as the knowledge of the trade itself.

Wants Deep Sea Work.

River diving is even more difficult than deep sea work because of the force of the current against which the diver must work. The clarity of the ocean water is also an aid to the mat-spinning yarns of his experiences. He will narrate with matter of fact coolness a narrow escape from death that would freeze the hearts of the most intrepid folk.

"Did you ever have a very close shave?" Jones has been asked some scores of times, and his answer is always the same: "Oh, I don't know as I have." But it is the wife who breaks in with, "Yes, he has; don't you remember last February, James, when we were working on the water works in Alton, Ill.; how the great floating cakes of ice crushed you down and pounded against your helmet until you were almost exhausted, and the sharp ice cut against the air hose until we thought every minute that it would be ripped in two?" "Yes," Jones assented. "But," he adds, with a smile at his wife, "you pulled me out all right, didn't you?"

No diver is without a vast fund of harrowing tales of sights and sounds under the water of which the land-lubber has no conception. It may be his natural or acquired reticence that keeps the tales from being spread abroad or the lack of a colorful fancy such as that of Jules Verne, whose imagination could create such a tale as "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." Some stories are gathered in fragmentary bits, however, as the diver carelessly drops an incident here and there which to him is of negligible concern, but to the layman of such commanding interest.

"I was sent for after the Dayton (Ohio) flood, back in 1913," Jones narrates. "I went down to West Point, Ky., to raise a bridge that had been swept into the water. The river had brought with it so much mud that I couldn't see what I was doing, but in feeling around I came across soft floating masses that were no doubt

The last diving that Jones—and his wife—did was raising the wrecks of the two gasoline boats which were built in Chicago for light tenders in the Mexican Gulf and were set on their maiden voyage down the Mississippi last August. The voyage was an ill-fated one, for when they reached the harbor of St. Louis one of the boats caught fire and caused an explosion of her gasoline, which ignited the oil on her twin boat and sent them to an early grave in the river bed. Jones passed twenty days in raising the one, but the other had broken in two, and he left all save her machinery where it had settled in the mud.

Working under the water in the Mississippi river is, in most cases, a blind man's task, for no object is discernible in the muddy depths of the "Father of Waters," and in few seas is the sense of sight an available asset to the diver. So sensitive does the touch of the diver become that he soon grows indifferent to the handicap of opaque water and, like a blind man, soon acquires a sense of direction so that he is seldom confused. The wreck to be raised or the leak to be repaired is found, and the necessary operation performed with a total lack of sight, and at times many tools must be employed in one delicate piece of work.

The diver's knowledge of machinery, carpentry and a variety of other trades must be broad if he is successful, else the practice may as well be called a "sport" and confined to the faddist of Newport who buys every new invention thrust upon the market—and keeps them safely on the dry land, in the trophy room or neatly boxed among his pole mallet, golf sticks, hunting rifles and billiard cues. Mechanical knowledge is necessarily displayed where there is a wreck to be hauled up, for unless the diver knows the parts of machinery, how to who must search the bottom of the sea in his assigned task. The greatest depth to which Jones has ever descended is 90 feet, but his ambitions would take him thrice the depth.

"I want to be a deep sea diver," he confessed, "and as soon as the war is ended, I am going straight to the coast—perhaps I can do my bit in bringing up some of the treasures that the German submarines have sent to the bottom of the pond."

Consistently enough, the people who have mercilessly sunk so many of our ships and valuable cargoes are the best equipped to bring them up again. They, with their "kultur" have progressed in the technology of salvage quite as far as their "kultur" has taken them in the technology of destruction, and we cannot but look with some lively interest at the inventions that they have made and successfully tested to aid the deep sea diver in his perilous work.

Notable among these inventions is the latest improvement on the original air-lock, ponderous vacuum chambers which are sunk by chains from the wrecking vessel, containing all manner of apparatus for the safety and comfort of the diver. These air locks are equipped with the telephone, cables, air hose, and a much greater variety of tools than the diver could carry about on his already 300-pound-weighted person.

An Exceptional Woman.

Magistrate—You say your wife threw a teacup and struck you on the head?

Plaintiff—Yes, your honor.

Magistrate—How far was she away from you at the time?

Plaintiff—About ten feet.

Magistrate—What did she aim at?

Plaintiff—At me.

Magistrate—Well, all I've got to say is that you ought to be proud of a wife like that.

It really seems that the world has to be amused, whether it is fed and clothed or not.

"Danderine" Makes Your Hair Thick, Glossy, Wavy and Beautiful.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

A little Danderine immediately du-bles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—Advertisement.

Complexion Lotion!
Use Fresh Lemons and Strain Juice

Any grocer will sell you two fresh lemons and your drug store will supply
you with three ounces of orchard white.
Put these in a bottle and shake well.
Here you have a whole quart pint of the most wonderful lemon lotion at about the cost one must pay for a small
jar of the ordinary cold creams.

Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoother and beautifier.

Used by day, this sweetly fragrant lotion protects the skin from the evil effects of the weather and prevents roughness, redness, chafing and smart-
ing. At night it works in the pores while you sleep, and is intended to bring a freshness and peach-like beauty that wins envy and admiration.

Just try it! Make up a quart pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion
and massage it daily into the face, neck arms and hands. It naturally helps to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out
the roses and beauty of any skin. It works marvelously on rough, red
hands. Try it and see for yourself.—

Supt. C. E. Spaulding, left for Indianapolis in the evening to attend the state teachers' convention. Several teachers of the county schools also at-

nesday forenoon.

Mrs. Arthur Pressler, northwest of the city, was seized with a stroke of paralysis Monday and her condition was serious for several hours. Her vitality and comparatively young age
will aid in her recovery.

FOURTH ARREST DRAWS HEAVY PENAL SENTENCE

Gertrude Trimble Will Spend Considerable Time in School.

Gertrude Justis Trimble appeared for the third time this month in police court Wednesday morning. As usual Gertrude was drunk, but in addition she made a nuisance of herself by begging from various people. Judge Kerr decided that the best place for her was in the woman's school at Indianapolis and sent her there for thirty days. He tacked on an additional fine of $100 and costs to make things more interesting.

Had the D. T.'s.
William McCaffery, the man found several days ago clad in nature's garments in a woods east of town, appeared on the docket Wednesday morning and the man had been drinking heavily when caught. He was given $5 and costs. Tom Smith, an everyday drunk, was given $1 and costs.

Refused to Go.
James Lambakis, manager of the Summit City restaurant, called the wagon to the new lunch rooms in the Utility building Tuesday to get William McField, a colored man. McField grew disorderly when Lambakis refused to advance him money from another employee's wages which McField claimed was due him. He was ordered off of the property four times but refused to go.

Vandals at Work.
The police are making investigations to determine who tore the screen door from its hinges and battered the door of a dwelling on East Lewis street. It caught the parties will be dealt with most severely as promised in Chief Lenz's notice of several days ago. The police force will be doubled Wednesday evening and arrests without exception will follow any pranks of Halloween fiends.

BATTLE COST

German losses were heavy and the men from overseas did not achieve their triumph without some cost in casualties.

Meanwhile, British home troops on the left of the Canadians had undertaken the task of crossing the Paderbeek river, and the morasses in order to bring their line forward and protect the Canadian flank. The men from the British Isles knew that this must be done and they did it. How they accomplished this drive through the mud probably they themselves could not tell.

Heavy Counter Attack.

One heavy counter attack delivered by the Bavarians as early as 8:30 o'clock from Malsmarkt against the Canadians was caught by artillery and machine guns fire and repulsed. The gain on the Canadian front reached between 300 and 1,000 yards along most of the front.

The Canadians encountered a stiff position early in the advance at Friesland cove, a machine gun defense lying in the valley of the Ravbeek, which runs down the slopes at the junction of the Metchele spur and Paderbeek river. The enemy turned out a heavy machine gun fire on the advancing troops and when they closed in fought bitterly to retain a hold on their concrete defense. But Friesland cove fell and the Canadians pushed on up the slopes.

Make Rapid Progress.

The infantry working eastward along the crest of the Paderbeek ridge toward the village, progressed rapidly, although under a severe fire from many points. Crest farm, just north of the highway, put up strenuous resistance and a hard struggle was staged here. The farm was heavily armed with rapid fire and the Canadians attacked it with rifles and bombs. While the British were struggling with the enemy at Crest farm, the troops on their left were meeting with trouble from the enemy guns, which were concentrated on them. The British artillery came to the rescue with such an intense fire against the German batteries that the hostile shelling decreased greatly. In this lull the Canadians rushed ahead and stormed their way to the village of Metchele. A violent struggle occurred at close quarters among the troops in this little place. Those of the enemy who were able, retreated toward Malsmarkt, but at 8:30 o'clock the Bavarians marched out of Malsmarkt for a counter attack.

See Threat Early.

The Canadians at Crest farm, 1,000 yards south of Malsmarkt, were the first to see this threat developing against their comrades. A number of captured enemy machine guns were brought into place against the advancing Bavarians with Alsatian results. At almost the same time signals reached the British artillery and the enemy was caught in a swirl of gun fire that shattered the ranks badly and caused a hasty retreat. Shortly afterwards numbers of the enemy were seen running eastward from Malsmarkt, evidently having had too strong a taste of the barrage fire. At the left the Canadians and English pushed rapidly across the Paderbeek river and assaulted numerous enemy defenses on the eastern bank. The ground was in very poor condition. The Paderbeek was not in flood, but the whole country surrounding it was a marsh in which the men floundered miserably. To add to their troubles there were hundreds of great holes filled with water into which they often plunged and from which they were extricated with difficulty.

Such strongholds as Sourd farm and Source farm maintained a heavy machine gun fire against them from the moment the advance began. In spite of these difficulties, they pushed their line forward and established contact with the Canadians on their right.

GIVES CHEER

Austro-German coalition has attacked our army with overpowering forces, both in men and artillery and that the Italian troops, fulfilling faithfully and bravely the directions of the supreme command, are stemming the advance of the enemy. The country is upholding the army with calm determination. From our allies we receive the support of their solidarity and of their arms.

"If the enemy in his first rush has succeeded in overcoming a few units of our army, innumerable deeds of valor were accomplished. When particulars will be known, our country will find in them reason to rejoice.

"It is only lately that a glorious advance was accomplished. The enemy coalition, seriously endangered by our success, has concentrated in a supreme effort all its forces on the Italian front.

Councils Full Confidence.
"The heroism of our soldiers and officers and the sagacity of the command, thanks to which, in the direction of Lebach, we went so far as to threaten Austria and the Germanic coalition, are sure tokens of the glorious enterprises, the Italian army will insure the present and future safety of the country and bring about the triumph of the great effort for which it fights together with the whole civilized world.

"The political parties of every shade have shaken hands, forgetting all their differences and fraternizing in the holy name of the fatherland.

"Both country and army have the firm and unanimous will to fight and win with sure faith in victory.

"To both country and army in these days of trial, the attachment of the great colonies of America, their communion of aims and ideals, their faith in the highest interests of the fatherland will be of greatest help and assistance."

AT THE WAYNE

KNIT MILLS

and Second streets; speakers, Thomas J. Logan, Robert B. Draibell, J. Frank Mungovan and W. Sherm Cuthall.

Three Meetings.
Three enthusiastic democratic meetings were held Tuesday evening at the Hamilton school, St. Joe Athletic club and in the Olbre club rooms. Other speakers were H. L. Somers, Charles M. Niezer, Harry H. Hilgemann, John C. Hoffman, Judge John W. Jeggman, E. V. Emrick and Guy Colerick.

Mr. Niezer spoke in part as follows:
The republican candidate has finally declared that he is in favor of the city lighting plant. In order to convince the people of his sincerity he seems to think it necessary that he declare that if he is elected mayor there shall be but one lighting plant in Fort Wayne. I believe that the people of this city will look to the record of a man to prove the sincerity of his words. If Mr. Cuthall is sincere in his declaration that there should be but one lighting plant in this city, I would ask him why he did not work to that end when he was controller. He holds up his record as controller of this city as a record of efficiency in the management of the city lighting plant. During that time with his brand of sincerity he succeeded in placing upon the books of the city 2,310 new subscribers. During the three and a half years following his controllership placed on the city books, I ask you in all fairness if the comparison of the growth of the plant during these two periods indicates the sincerity of Mr. Cuthall's present statement, and his sincerity in the development of the lighting plant during his four years.

Again, when you consider the comparative profits of the plant during the four years he managed it you will find that the profits amounted to $103,712. Compare this with the profits for the three and one-half years following his management, which amount to $332,421.81. It figures mean anything surely these figures do not convince the public of Mr. Cuthall's sincerity. Never Reached It.
During Mr. Cuthall's entire four years of managing the city lighting plant he paid $53.00 per lamp for street lighting. He never reduced it. Citizens paid 6 cents for lighting. He never reduced it. After the end of his term of management of the city lighting plant, the street lamp rate was reduced to $60.00 and the rate for commercial light was reduced to 7 cents, thereby saving the people immense sums of money annually. At the same time during the period that these rates were reduced the plant made $158,700.81 more than Mr. Cuthall was able to make in four years by charging a higher rate. Can Mr. Cuthall honestly urge his sincerity in his support of the municipal lighting plant when he says that he does not believe that the city lighting plant should advertise for customers? Of course, if the city lighting company would not advertise for customers it would not progress any more than it did progress during his administration. I believe that by advertising the city lighting plant, its merits and the cheapness and efficiency of its current, is one of the best ways of promoting the city lighting plant. The more customers it has the cheaper it can produce and sell electricity. This is a plain business proposal and if it is right for the competitor of the city lighting plant to advertise its current, why should not the city plant be authorized to meet its competitor? Mr. Cuthall's proposal would lead to stagnation in the city lighting plant and would mean the wrecking of the plant.

I challenge the business soundness of Mr. Cuthall's advisors and spokesmen in their proposal to take from the city lighting plant its surplus earnings and use those earnings for other things. No business institution can prosper without a healthy surplus. A surplus is one of the first requisites of a successful business, and an earned surplus is the most valuable asset in a business.

World Wreck Plant.

If Mr. Cuthall should divert the earnings of the lighting plant from the uses of the plant it would be but a short time until that plant would be wrecked by reason of lack of support. This diversion of funds is one of the most dangerous proposals advocated by the republican candidate. This proposal to divert the funds from the city lighting plant is advocated by his party organ.

The people of this city, would today be enjoying the economies of a six-cent rate for lighting but the party organ of Mr. Cuthall would the passage of a law which would permit the reduction of the rate. The city of Fort Wayne, through its officials on February 23, 1916, filed a petition with the public utility commission to reduce the rate to six cents. The city's competitor opposed that petition and the city has been unable to secure a hearing or ruling on that petition since that time. In 1917 the officials of the city of Fort Wayne presented to the republican legislature a law which would permit the city to reduce the rate of lighting as low as the plant could afford to furnish the current to the people. This law was opposed by the party organ of the republican candidate. It opposed it editorially and the republican legislature defeated that law. If that law had been passed thousands of dollars would have been saved to the people of Fort Wayne through reduced lighting rates.

I believe that the sincerity of a man is best judged by the interests back of him. There are no selfish interests antagonistic to the lighting plant back of my campaign and I defy anyone to show such interests back of me. I am free to serve the people and their best interests may appear relative to any other property or right of the people. The attendance at each of the three meetings was exceptionally large, notwithstanding the cold weather.

which, it says, would be an irreparable blunder.

COUNT VON HERTLING.

Copenhagen, Oct. 31.—Count George von Hertling, who has been appointed to succeed Dr. Michaelis as German imperial chancellor, was for long years the leader of the Catholic center in the reichstag. He was one of the few forcible and first-grade personalities among the non-socialist representatives.

Even after his retirement from the reichstag to become premier of Bavaria the count remained one of the guiding influences in the Catholic party and as head of the government of the second largest federal state he has played an important role in imperial affairs during the war. He supported Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg against the conservative campaign for a long time and when he withdrew his support, von Bethmann-Hollweg retired. Count von Hertling may have asked for time in which to consider the appointment in order to consult with reichstag leaders according to his expressed wish. In this case he would have nothing to say in favor of the socialists and part of the radicals who already have expressed themselves as being opposed to his candidacy.

KAISER TROOPS

dians meeting them hand to hand to hand gained one victory after another. No fewer than four counter attacks have been repulsed, with heavy German casualties. Wounded men give dramatic indications of the nature of the fighting in their detailed stories. Held up for a moment on the night by heavy enemy shells and machine gun fire the troops plunged forward and attacked crest farm at the point of the bayonet, killed, wounded or captured the occupants of the concrete strongholds, routed out enemy machine guns and turned their fire upon the counter attacking forces hastily thrown forward from the enemy reserve line behind Paderbeek ridge.

The German positions on Metchele spur, which were carried at the point of the bayonet under a heavy machine gun fire, were the scene of a bitter conflict but the enemy could not long resist the determined onslaught of the Canadians, who, however, pay a tribute to the clean fighting qualities of the Bavarians. So it was all along the line. No estimate of the number of prisoners and enemy machine guns captured is as yet available, but wounded Germans were traveling back all day.

Two human touches in a desperate day were seen in one of the clearing stations this morning when a German prisoner arrived supporting a Canadian who had been shot through the thigh. Just behind them appeared a Canadian lending assistance to a wounded enemy.

GERMAN ATTACK REPULSED.

Paris, Oct. 31.—A German attack in the Argonne last night was beaten off by the French. An artillery battle in progress over the front of the recent French attack. The announcement adds that enemy attachments were attempting to capture small posts north of the Meuse in the region northwest of Rheims, were also repulsed.

Enemy aviators threw down thirty bombs last night on Dunkirk. Neither victims nor important material losses have been reported up to the present.

at five points almost simultaneously. The total loss will be over $5,000,000. Of this, which is said to be a conservative estimate, the piers represented a value of $1,500,000, the goods stored on them, $3,000,000, and the steamer and cargo, $500,000. The steamer, which docked yesterday afternoon, had on board eighty anti-submarine shells from a British port. These exploded with loud reports when the ship took fire and it was not long after the ship had been towed into mid-stream that she sank.

Chief of Police Leigh, of the Baltimore & Ohio, began an investigation immediately of the report of the watchman that he saw five or six men jump from pier 9 just as the flames broke out. The piers have been under an armed guard for a number of months. Several months ago a quantity of dynamite was found in a loaded grain car in one of the elevators of the railroad at Locust Point. The grain was intended for one of the allies.

The car was traced to its loading point in the central west and found to have been loaded by Austrians.

RETURNS FROM SALE.

Mr. and Mrs. Zachariah Smith, the former a prominent stock raiser and farmer, residing near Shelton, returned Tuesday from Iowa, where he attended a sale of high bred Poland China hogs which was remarkable for the high prices paid for the swine. There were many hogs sold and some brought fabulous prices, the average per head being $83. Mr. Smith is engaged extensively in raising this breed of hogs and a few weeks ago had a sale in which about forty hogs brought over $2,500.

greatly and seemingly is not yet a serious menace to the Tagliamento. Vienna reports the capture from the Italians of positions at Pontafel, near the Ploekner pass, and on St. Pal. The positions are on the Austro-Italian border and it is probable not unlikely that Gen. Cadorna is preparing to draw in his lines there to protect better the line of the Tagliamento in the Ampezzo and Tolmezzo regions. Berlin reports an advance toward the upper course of the Talamonte but does not say how near the German forces are to that river.

Since last Wednesday the Austro-Germans have occupied more than 800 square miles of territory formerly held by the Italians. The greatest depth of the advance has been from Tolmezzo southeastward to Udine, a distance of about twenty-five miles.

The United States will give Italy what aid it can in the form of money and immediate tonnage to transport needed munitions, food and fuel. French and British troops and guns probably are on their way into northern Italy.

Conditions in Italy are improving. The Austro-German blow appears to have brought together the politicians, and the new cabinet of Premier Orlando has been announced. Its foreign policy will undergo no change as Baron Sonnino will retain the portfolio of foreign affairs. In Flanders the British have been successful in many operations northeast of Ypres. Canadian troops carried the bulk of the fighting in actions near Passchendaele and Poperinghe, with the object of straightening out the British line. Passchendaele, Berlin says, was entered by the Canadians, who were driven out later. A boggy terrain, rainfall and strong winds hampered the attackers, but they reached their objectives, which included further sections of the Passchendaele ridge.

Emperor William has placed at the head of his government Count von Hertling, premier of Bavaria, and former leader of the Catholic center, a strong opponent of parliamentary and franchise reform. Whether he will be acceptable to all the reichstag parties is not indicated. The reichstag does not meet again until early December. Copenhagen dispatches indicate he will hardly be welcomed by the socialists and pan-Germans.

German efforts last night against the territory gained by the British in the Passchendaele region were confined to artillery fire, no counter attacks developing.

In the Alpine region on the French front Gen. Petain apparently is preparing to renew his attack southwest of Lunon, where he scored his recent brilliant advance. Berlin yesterday reported a concentrated fire of "powerful proportions" from the French guns in this area, while today Paris announces an artillery battle in progress there. In the Argonne a surprise attack was repulsed.

From the Russian northern front come additional evidence of the German pent drive against Khusin, in the form of continued attempts by the German troops to fraternize with the Russian soldiers. Russian artillery frustrated the German efforts, Petrograd declares.

GAY LIFE COST $948 IN MONTH OF OCTOBER

The gay, wild life of Fort Wayne was not checked during the month of October by the Liberty loan drive or the higher price of liquid nourishment. Fines in city court amounted to $948 during the month, a record nearly $100 above that of last year in October. The money paid in by law breakers is divided as follows: State, $376; prosecutor, $217, and city, $355.

RISE IN TEMPERATURE.

Warmer Weather is Assured by Forecaster at Fort Wayne.

Slowly rising temperature is predicted by a Patrick McDonough, weather prognosticator, who seldom goes wrong. Tuesday he promised relief from the winter's first real "spell" of winter and when Wednesday came the weather was found to be warmer to a very noticeable degree. Further rise in temperature is predicted, which, in view of the present cold situation, will be most welcome news. More snow fell Wednesday.

FAITH IN WAR CHIEF.

London, Oct. 31.—Confidence that Gen. Cadorna will be able to hold his own is felt in Italian military quarters here. The capture of Udine caused no surprise as it is pointed out the Italians evacuated Udine some days ago. The Austro-German drive, according to news dispatches received in London from Italy is as much postponed as military. It is pointed out that for weeks the Austrians have been inundating the Italian lines with bombs filled with leaflets. Numbers of pamphlets of all sorts and other literature were dropped from airplanes, as well as quantities of pictures showing Italy under the power of Great Britain and France. The soldiers were urged to follow the Russian example and retreat and then a separate peace might be made.

The Ladies' Woodman circle will give a masquerade party this evening in Vordermark's hall.

EMPLOYEES MUST WEAR THE BUTTONS

Cannot Get Into Electric Works Without Badge of Identification.

The inauguration of the button identification system in which every employee must be supplied with a button when he applies for entrance at the gates or doors of the General Electric works was made Thursday morning and it was not the "joke" that some of the employees considered it. This class did not take the proposition seriously and as a result a number of them appeared for admittance without their buttons and had to go home and get the little but powerful badge of employment. Ample notice that none would be admitted to the works on and after Nov. 1 was given by bulletins on the various boards and by other means and the gatekeepers enforced the order regardless of person. The buttons indicate by color and wording on them the department, the wage being paid, the name and number of the employee. Office men and women have a small metal button running in number from 1 to 600; employees in section A, east of Broadway, have red buttons numbered from 601 up to 3,600; section B, west of Broadway, have blue buttons numbered from 3,601 to 6,600; the maintenance of way department, of which Henry Stalhut is the head, have white buttons numbered 6,601 to 7,000; and the warehouse and shipping department employees have green buttons numbered from 7,001 to 7,400.

FEAST OF ALL SAINTS

It is Observed in All the Catholic Churches Thursday.

The feast of All Saints was celebrated in all the Catholic churches of Fort Wayne Thursday. Masses were held at the same hour as at the Cathedral of Immaculate Conception, where the forty-hour devotions have been in progress since Tuesday. Early services were held there at 5:30, 6, 7, 8 and 9, and solemn high mass at 10 o'clock. Hundreds received holy communion at these early services. The sermon at the high mass was delivered by Bernard Mulloy, who has been assisting in the devotional services. Holy hour will be observed from 2:30 to 3:30 in charge of Rev. George Finnigan. The solemn closing of the devotion will occur at 7:30 Thursday night, with Rev. Bishop Herman Joseph Alerding officiating.

At the services Wednesday evening Father Mulloy gave a masterful sermon on the subject of "Mortal Sin."

He stated that the present European war, with which the United States has now become a part, was primarily caused as a result of that first mortal sin of Adam.

The entire afternoon service was conducted in German, with the Rev. W. C. Kohn, of Chicago, in the pulpit. After the afternoon services luncheon and refreshments were served in the college mess hall. At the evening services Præses F. Pfoehner and Rev. F. Brand, of Springfield, spoke in the gymnasium, and Rev. F. Treselt, of Detroit, and Professor Gieseler, of Springfield, spoke in the chapel. One of the features of the meeting was the singing of the children's choir of 900 voices.

CUTSHALL RECORD ON LIGHTING PLANT SHOWS NO FRIENDSHIP

Pointed Out by One of the Oldest Supporters of the City Enterprise That in the Time of Mr. Cutshall's Management Poor Progress Was Made With the City's Lighting Business.

"It is apparent to the public that Mr. Cutshall's unusual claims that he is sincere in his advocacy of the cause of the city lighting plant is all a sham," was the declaration today of a man who has been one of the steadfast friends of the city enterprise since its projection almost twenty years ago. "In desperation, as it must seem, he now claims that there should be but one lighting plant in Fort Wayne."

many for current are large and would help the city plant considerable. "Then, too, it is remembered that when Cutshall was comptroller the city light plant did not progress. When he took the management of the plant it operated one year and there were 965 customers. During the years of Cutshall's administration the withdrawal of patrons from the city lighting plant was as follows:

"First year, 272 patrons.

"Second year, 308 patrons.

"Third year, 514 patrons.

"It is strange that his administration would result in such an increase of withdrawal of patrons.

"When, too, when you compare this with the small net growth in patronage, it is almost impossible to believe that Mr. Cutshall is sincere when he says he is for the city lighting plant.

"The net increase of the plant during Cutshall's administration was as follows: For the first year, 703 patrons. For the second year, 501 patrons, and for the third year, 301 patrons. Every year the patronage grew less.

"It seems that when he was managing the plant he was not possessed of the idea which he now advocates of making city light the only light.

"It is evident that the influence back of Cutshall which killed the law which would authorize the city lighting plant to lower the rate are still working against the plant and in favor of Cutshall.

"It is known that Maurice Niezer has always been a very enthusiastic supporter of the city lighting plant and both in his business and private concerns he has always paid his money for electric current to the city lighting plant, and not to the traction company."

Composition of a War Box.

At the Red Cross warehouse it was revealed what actually goes into one of the boxes which are shipped at frequent intervals to some eastern port for use by the fighting men of the army. The boxes are two feet long, two feet wide and three feet high and contain the following articles: From 7 to 9 dozen suits of pajamas, from 5 to 6 dozen bath robes, 25 dozen bed shoes, 12 dozen sweaters and 5,000 bandages. The bed shoes are used to keep bandages on a patient's feet clean, and are therefore of a very large size.
